Parent Tip Student Scores from Low Income College Readiness and Underserved Students Of All Other Students in the School Environment A journey that began more than four years has come to an end, at least for a local school. In 2015, the idea of building new indoor gyms and practice facilities at Troup High and LaGrange High was proposed. In 2017, the project received the green light from the Troup County Board of Education with funds from E-SPLOST. Shortly afterwards, work began. While LaGrange High's facilities won't be completed until later this year, everything is open for business at Troup High. On Thursday afternoon, a dedication ceremony was held for the new facilities of Troup High, with many of those who helped make it a reality there to share the celebration. After some speakers shared their thoughts, the tours are provided by the 2,000-seat gym, state-of-the-art indoor practice facility, offices, training room, weight room, new practice area for wrestlers and cheerleaders, and everything else in the building. We started this project in 2015, believe it or not, said John Radcliffe, TSCS assistant supervisor for maintenance and operations. We were able to go to the community and a SPLOST vote, and I want to thank you very much for that. Radcliffe detailed all the time and effort that went into bringing the facility to life, including more than 300,000 man-hours of construction work. It was really a labor of love to bring this building to fruition, he said. Nikki Watts, director of Troup High and a graduate of the school, called it an amazing day for me as a lifelong Tiger. I'm excited for our staff, and I'm excited for us to have something so amazing to show off and be proud of, he said. Brian Shumate, who took over as Troup County school principal nearly a year ago, recalls a conversation he had with football coach Tanner Glisson about how much students enjoyed the indoor facility immediately after it opened. Perhaps the most poignant statement was from Coach Glisson, and he said I can't get these guys out of here. I can't make them go home, Sumatra said. When children are in school, they are under adult supervision, play and engage in good physical activity. What better way to spend their careers in high school and their forming years, and then be under the supervision of positive people, and be able to do great things. Kirk Hancock, the chairman of the Troup County Board of Education, said the board couldn't be more proud of the facilities, and what was built across the city. As Dr. Shumate said, it's a place that all of our students will call home, he said. Watts, a 2005 graduate of Troup, said the building is building more confidence in the student body. The 1,300-plus students of Troup High School walk with their heads held a little higher because they know this is here in our backyard, and they know this belongs to them, and it belongs to us, he said. We value the citizens of Troup County so much, and their vote for E-SPLOST, as well as our board and everyone who supported this initiative and gave our students this opportunity. Tanner Glisson, Troup's head of football since 2015, pushed hard for the indoor facilities and helped get out into the community and sell the idea. On Thursday afternoon, as he lay on the turf of the on-premises, Glisson made sure to point out that it is not just about football, although his team will undoubtedly benefit greatly from his presence. Football was here. Baseball was here, Gleison said. Of course, it has lines painted for football and it has everything, but we want this to be for all sports. We're very excited about it. This opens up so many possibilities. I'm just grateful for the people who voted for it. We are with you from start to finish for your team trip, and all steps in between. Ask for more information The excursion consent form is presented to parents/guardians to allow their child to attend an excursion organized by a school, church or other organization. By signing this consent form, they release the school/organization of any responsibility and accept the risks involved in the excursion. It is important that the organisers describe the excursion in the form, including any activities and transfers that will take place. The parent must ensure that the child is aware of the rules and regulations designed to ensure the safety and protection of all children participating in the excursion. The parent must take full responsibility for their child's health, disclose any relevant medical information, and give permission to the organizers to transport the child to a hospital in case urgent medical attention is required. The organisers are responsible only for the child's medical needs/special medical care that have been included in the consent form. Step 1 – Download to Adobe PDF. Step 2 – The top part of the consent form must contain the following information, completed by the parent/guardian: The name of the participant/child and the date of birth Parent/guardian Address parent/guardian Parent/guardian parent/guardian phone number/guardian Parent/guardian E-mail address Of parent/guardian Step 3 – Next, the parent/guardian must print his/her name, their child's name and the name of the organiser in the first paragraph of the form. Step 4 – The organizer must enter the following information in the spaces provided on the first page of the form: Event site type Person(s) responsible Departure and return date and time How to transfer involved Step 5 – The parent/guardian must include a signature and date at the bottom of page 1. Step 6 - Proceed to the Emergency Medical Treatment section on page 2. If they cannot be contacted, the parent/guardian should provide the name, relationship and telephone number of an emergency contact. The name and phone number of the child's family doctor can be entered under the emergency contact details, as well as the family health program operator and policy number. Step 7 - The following medical information/conditions should be shared with organizers under the Special Medical Information section: Allergies of the latest IDs Medically related nutrition information Special restrictions Special conditions Exposure to communicable diseases List of special medical situations Class excursions is a lot of fun for students and looking forward to them. Tours, we've all been to them at some point, and they can be quite fun. There are trips to the museum, departments, even in the state capital. These trips combine fun with education and help give less fortunate children experiences they otherwise couldn't get. But these trips can also present some issues for parents and school as well. One of these issues is responsibility. To bypass this, schools, organizations, or groups benefit from the tour permit slip. Leave slips are an essential part of any school activity where children leave school grounds, participating in certain projects or activities. These vouchers are used to obtain a signature from each parent used to allow the child's participation. By using these slips, the parent waives responsibility in case of injury or accident. The blanket license slip file is one that covers the basics. These vouchers are used for the typical excursion that takes place during the school year. Informed consent form If there is to be an activity, event or journey that may have an 'inherent risk'. This is explained in detail, so that when the parent or guardian signs the form, the school is not held responsible in case something happens. Legal value of a leave card When the parent or guardian completes a leave slip, they essentially state that travel managers, such as the school, are not responsible if something happens on the trip. The general slip usually has 'resignation of responsibility'. This means that the parent or guardian agrees that if something happens during the trip, it is not the school's fault. It is not uncommon for the school to request that the license slip be signed by a notary if the trip is extended, out of state or country. It's time to compose your own license slip. Here we go. So you need to know the contents of one. Carefully review the activity or project so you know exactly what to write. When you start the permission slip, start with a summary, detailed summary of the event or project. Include the following information and any other relevant to your needs so that the parent or guardian can be informed of all the details. Teacher /GuardianClassTime: start time and expected return timeDateDestinationReasonExpenses: End price List, how to pay, and deadline if anyType of transferAl important medical information: Allergies, medications, etc. Emergency Contact InformationOrdering: Area for parents to leave comments or special instructionsSit any additional requirements: Clothing type, supplies, box meals, or money to buy lunch, etc. Then there will be a section where the parent or guardian can grant their permission by using fill in the blank form, such as: I, ____,, grant permission for my child, _____ to participate in the (event/travel/project)__, in (Date/time)__ with __ with __ Summary As shown, the license slip is a little more complicated than it seems at first glance. By using our free to download, customizable license slip templates, you will be sure to have the perfect format for your personal situation. Just download the form to your computer. Then open it in Microsoft Word and start adding your information.
