Grapevine Art Project Celebrates Winter Exhibits and Advancements

The Grapevine Art Project is pleased to announce the launch of their new public-facing website at www.grapevineartproject.com. Development work was conducted by Naomi Fron, GAP Vice President – Communications and her team. A companion website for GAP members is also launching.

In conjunction with its monthly program, GAP is launching a new series called ArtChat, in which a panel of GAP members will provide expert critique of member works, allowing each participating member to identify potential areas of artistic growth and expansion. The series will be held one hour prior to the regular monthly program, and is also open to the public.

Klaus Mayer's photograph "Come and Play With Me" was just selected as an Editor's Favorite submission of the 2019 National Geographic Photo Contest, an international competition.

Katie Richarme will hold an exhibition of Native American works during January and February at the Grapevine Lancaster Theater. The exhibition features authentic fine art, pottery, jewelry, and other artistic works of nationally recognized Native American artists of the American Southwest

The Grapevine Art Project membership will be conducting elections during the month of November for the offices of Secretary and Treasurer. These two-year terms will be effective on January 1, 201 through December 31, 2020.

The Grapevine Art Project holds monthly meetings on the second Thursday evening of each month, often featuring presentations and demonstrations from highly regarded artists in many diverse media. Visitors are welcome to attend and learn more about the organization, its members, and programs. Artists include painters, photographers, potters, jewelers, sculptors, weavers, and other visual media formats. New members, even those who are not artists, are always welcome.

GAP is a well-established community of more than 85 artists from Grapevine, Texas and surrounding areas, who love to create, enjoy, and learn about art. The Grapevine Art Project is open to artists who work in any media. For more information, visit us at www.grapevineartproject.com
