This is one of the types of conversions, complementing the stack of formatting. My love for organic fruits and vegetables aside, here are some of the best free PDF word converters around. While you can choose from numerous online PDFs for Word converters, sometimes you really want your own easily accessible programs. First, offline conversion tools are by and large much faster than their online partners, and secondly, your online conversion will stay online. Anything but a strange document should not be transformed using an online tool, such as anything confidential, business documents and information you would like to keep confidential. 1. PDFMate I've been using PDFMate for some time as it not only accurately converts the PDF into a word, you'll also get text, EPUB, HTML, SWF, and JPEG conversion thrown into the deal. It has a very simple interface, it's free, and comes with some handy additional tools such as batch conversions, document encryption, multilingual support and a host of other customizable settings. 2. WinScan2PDF From a large app features, before an app that does the bare minimum. It is important to note that it is well in the process of completing its unified role and is included in the list. WinScan2PDF is a tiny app. At only 30KB, this may be the smallest piece of software you use today. You have four options: Select Source, Scan, Multiple Pages, and Cancel. The design is intuitive (as (as it will!)) and you just point it out on what document you would like to convert and you go. 3. UniPDF Finally, in the offline category, UniPDF, is a relatively versatile conversion tool with support for multiple file formats including Word, Text and HTML. Throw in the PDF deal in JPEG, PNG, BMP, TIF, GIF, PCX and TGA, as well as batch conversions and image resolution settings, and UniPDF becomes an excellent, free, allaround conversion tool. As I mentioned in the offline Conversion Tools foreword, you should only use online tools when needed. Now, the online conversion service is not going to waste your personal data all over the internet, let alone leak your precious bank details to the world. But it will make a copy of your transformation as part of the process, and as we all need to know by now, what goes online, remains on the internet. I also hate having to give an email address as part of the process, knowing that you are probably installing your inbox for some serious incoming spam. However, they are extremely convenient, and many online conversion services offer you just a staggering number of potential output formats. 4. Smallpdf Smallpdf is one of the huge number of online PDF converters. Thus, its inclusion in this list should illustrate its usefulness in comparison with other equivalent products. He also has a hilarious chic aesthetic that wins his further points. Smallpdf offers a wide range of PDF conversion services, including PDF to Word, PowerPoint, Excel, JPEG and HTML. You can also use an online service to combine multiple PDFs into one file or split PDFs into separate documents. Interestingly, Smallpdf also offers a feature to lock document passwords and unlock, although any truly encrypted documents will remain so. 5. CloudConvert CloudConvert has the added bonus of converting almost any file format you throw at it in almost any other file format you like. Its PDF to Word conversion is accurate, the tables are well preserved and remain in the right place, and it handled some particularly image and bullet point-laden documents with ease. In my experience, correspondence between PDF and Word is usually pretty close, depending on the nature of the PDF. The word doesn't always handle tables very well, so keep that in mind. You're all set to transform the five conversion tools we've chosen each of them to the conversion of the word extremely well. You have the ability to use Word, but as even Microsoft is willing to admit, it can be a bit lacking, especially if you consider other options available to you. Get rid of time and stress, and use one of them! You can also simply use the PDF editing program. How do I track my cell phone location using only my lost phone number?
