You can throw him coins and you can make him use that money he collects to become self-sufficient, start a small business and hire people, eventually becoming a business tycoon with smart investment and hiring. Read on for some tips and tricks for Virtual Beggar! The bottom line, even before the company is that you have three ways to earn coins. You can tap on the coins that people throw away, or you can tap blank areas to throw coins at it. Or you can increase the amount of automatic parts you earn per minute with store purchases. If you want to cheat and win coins instantly instead of per minute, go to the date and time settings and set the time to come on your phone. The same thing works for your workers in your company. Go and set the time to come on your phone by as long the worker with the longest work must finish it, then collect the money and start over. You can do this tour however several times you want to get rich FAR faster than you would otherwise. Virtual cards are the premium currency of the game. To get more of them for free, go to the menu area and go to the virtual cards tab, and you can watch advertising videos in exchange for more virtual cards. Alternatively, you can wait for people to throw them away and then pick them up. Balloons sometimes drop them off, too (other times balloons deposit coins or experience stimulates). Scroll to the left of your business and you can hit the library, allowing you to train your workers, their to work more jobs and earn more money per minute in these jobs. Or, if you have enough money and want to hire better, smarter and more hard-working workers, you can fire your former workers to make room for new ones, or for a lot of coins, you can expand your business to hire more workers at once. The library is the quick way to level workers; the slow way is simply by making them work. You'll unlock their second job when you level them up to 3 3 their third job when you level them up to 8. Workers need a specific amount of rest depending on their level of endurance. Lazy workers, for example, need a lot of rest. High endurance workers can almost work 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.
