Russell Shedd's biography was born in Bolivia, where his parents, Leslie Martin and Della Johnston, were Indian missionaries. At the age of five, Shedd was first in the United States, where he graduated and graduated from Wheaton College. He received his doctorate in the New Testament from the University of Edinburgh, Scotland. Returning to the United States, he served for about a year as acting pastor and was soon accepted as a missionary on the Conservative Baptist Mission, going to work in Portugal for a short time. After that, he moved permanently to Brazil in 1962, settling permanently in Sao Paulo, where he continued Vida Nova Editions that he started in Portugal with Arthur Brown, teaching at the Baptist Theological College of Sao Paulo. In 1957, he married Patricia, with whom he had five children. Shedd was President of Emerito da Vida Nova and a consultant to Shedd's Publicas and traveled to Brazil and abroad, studying at conferences, churches, seminaries and theology faculties. He was a member of the Evangelical Bible Church of Communion (IBEC). Curtis A. Cressness, Vice President of New Life Editions, said, The whole of evangelical Brazil was touched when it learned of Dr. Shedd's death in the early hours of November 26, 2016. The sense of loss was very great because, in a sense, it was as if he belonged to all the churches and groups he went through teaching the Bible. His life was a love for the Word of God as he announced a tribute posted on the New Life website. But he is sure that Shedd will be remembered both for his Christian character and for the content of his teaching. He is the author of several books, including Social Justice and The Interpretation of the Bible, Church Discipline, Sins and Pecadinhos (farewell to the Garden of Faith), The Eschatology of the New Testament, Solidarity of Race, Justification, Prayer and Preparation of Christian Leaders, Biblical Foundations of Evangelization, The Ology of Waste, Creation and Grace. about God's revelations, all published by The New Life Editions or spilled publications. He is also the editor responsible for the comments of the Bible Shedd / Bible New Life and was a member of the translators committee for the Brazilian Portuguese Bible NVI (New International Version), one of the most famous Protestant translations of the Bible in Portuguese. A theology of Theology, Shedd was a Baptist, mentioning that salvation comes by grace through faith through choice and predestination, and was a strong supporter of exposing the sermon. He defended the supreme and inspired power of the Bible, which is God's only reliable revelation, and postulated that the Bible is the word of God. As a Baptist, he defended the doctrinal principles of denomination. It is widely accepted that today it is one of the noblest names of Protestant theology. References - SHEDD, Russell Philip (1997).
