If you're geographically lucky, you'll definitely want to have your butt in the mall today (December 28). That's because the Yeezy Adidas Boost 350s are being sold at some PacSun outposts starting tomorrow, December 29. Wait, how does it work? Here's the deal (which is asterisks): Beats will only be available tomorrow for those who sign up for a lottery giving the opportunity to purchase by visiting their local PacSun participating today. It's basically like buying a lottery ticket. How is it for jumping through hoops? But if you're one of the few favorites, it'll be so worth it once you rock your Boost 350s. So it won't be as easy as showing up super early and waiting in line for the night to get your mitts on a pair of these sneakers. Like Kylie Jenner's sold-out everywhere Lip Kits, these shoes are available in limited supply, further boosting their cult status and the feverish excitement around them. After all the hype and hoopla about are-they or not-they're black Yeezy Boost 750s, this news should seduce and captivate sneaker pimps. Here are the critical things you should know about how to try to nab a pair of Yeezy Boost 350s that will only be available in 15 PacSun locations - most of which are in California. Pay attention. It's simple, but concrete. I only found out about this because I'm on the PacSun email list. 1. Raffle This all promotion only in the store: There is no online component. You have to enter the lottery in the store to earn the chance to purchase a pair in participating PacSun stores. The draw begins and ends today at the local closing time of each participating store. Appear, enter the lottery today. Show, buy shoes in the same store tomorrow - waiting for availability. Places The shops that will have shoes. So don't forget to enter the correct local lottery. Brea Mall (CA) Del Amo Center (CA) Glendale Galleria (CA) Los Cerritos Center (CA) San Francisco Chopping Center (CA) Third Street Promenade (CA) Topanga (CA) Woodfield (IL) Lakeside Shopping Center (LA) Garden State Plaza (NJ) Roosevelt Field (NY) The Fine Print The retailer notes that the shoes come with unique circumstances. Due to the much-coveted nature of these strikes, a one-on-one customer policy will be strictly enforced while supplying the latter. If you try to get more than one pair, your order will be cancelled. This policy should protect against eBay's price gouging. PacSun also promises nothing ... how your order is executed. That's because it first came, the first to serve. So you might actually want to enter the lottery and then wait in line for the night as well. I told you Yeezy wasn't going to be easy! It's worth noting that the Yeezy Boost of the 350s is all in the Kardashian family. West's hard to get, so coveted kicking kicks be sold in the same mall boutique where his sisters-in-law Kendall and Kylie Jenner have their own branded lines! Images: Adidas (4); PacSun/Instagram (1) Welcome to Kanye's show - Yeezy Part 3. What happened last night at New York's Madison Square Gardens was pure West - stupid, self-absorbed, but totally convincing. Say what you'll be about the self-proclaimed God of the second or third visitor (we're losing track), but the guy certainly knows how to put on a play. Causing quite a kerfuffle last season when he plonked his show on the NYFW chart at the last minute, forcing many other designers to shift them for fear of West stealing all the attention (very valid fear), Kanye decided to derail the eve of Fashion Week this time around. It also didn't go to your average fashion show formula. It wasn't just a showcase for his third Yeezy collection, it was also an audition party for his new album, The Life Of Pablo (Picasso, in case you're interested). Tickets were sold to the entire public, most of which we can assume cared more about music than clothing, but nevertheless it made a real effort in the sartorial arena. First, there was Naomi Campbell rocking a ribbed black body stocking, and it never disappoints, does it? The Kardashian-Jenner clan were all in attendance too, clad in yeezy in a holey knitwear and heavily decorated, admittedly beautiful pieces created exclusively for them, in collaboration with Balmain's Olivier Rustein, who was also in the audience. The Yeezy collection - the usual pretentious athleisure west has become famous - was modeled by a clutch of models surrounded by others in thrifty-bought clothes, painted in accordance with the rusty, earthy palette of the collection. They were all the subject of a lol-tactic list of rules set by Kanye. 'Loosen up no stiffness/not be random' read two of the oxymoron must do. This content is imported from Twitter. One model, rapper Young Thug, did get a little casual though and seemed to nod off mid-show (see below). #thuglife. Others salute the Black Force. Kanye also certainly didn't have the time to say his part. His latest ambition? He wants to be hermes' creative director at least a couple of years, which explains a recent photo of his mouth covered with the Hermes label, with the caption 2017? posted on his account. You have to admire this chutzpah. The event was also used to showcase a new video game, Only One, the concept of which on his late mother, Donda, passing through the gates of heaven (see below). And in case it's all Enough to get his millions of column inches today, Lamar Odom made his first public appearance since his almost fatal, much-documented overdose, sitting next to ex-wife Chloe and the rest of her family, who duly sing along to all the new West songs. That's what family is for. This content is imported from Instagram. You can find the same content in a different format, or you may be able to find more information on your website. This sneaker, a white/grey/light blue version of the wildly popular sneakers, will mark the 5 Yeezy drop from November in what has been all of a blitz from Kanye West and Adidas. First there was the frozen yellow 350, then the Beluga 2.0, while last week marked the release of Adidas Yeezy Powerphase Calabasas in gray and a brand new silhouette-Yeezy 500 Desert Rat, which hit the pre-order as part of the package on Yeezy Supply. Here's everything you need to know to improve your chances of copping those punches before they're gone for good (or, you know, hit aftermarket this weekend). Official Name: Adidas Yeezy Boost 350 V2 Blue Shade Price: $220 (price can vary in international markets) Rarity: On a relative scale. Somewhere between ultra-rare frozen yellows and the most well-meaning Yeezy Boosts to date, Beluga 2.0. Raffles As usual, the best way to get your hands on the latest Yeezys is to log in to as many lotteries as you have patience. Here are all the ones we know about right now. Bots are basically codes that scan the website for new products and instantly add the sneakers you want to your shopping cart. Some even add all the information about your credit card and deliver the information in automatically. But they don't always work and have sparked a full-blown arms race between sneaker websites and coders. Also, they don't always work, so you might end up throwing down $200 dollars in order to be left in the cold anyway. So the choice is hers. How to Be Better, Faster Internet ShopperCheck Your Internet ConnectionCheck from Speedtest.net to See How Fast Your Your Your actually works. Then call your ISP to fix any problems or switch to the highest of high-speed connections. When thousands of predatory customers all crash the website, even the smallest fraction of the megabyte speed can make a difference. Use Buddy SystemIf you really want these shoes to increase your chances by telling some friends and family to try their best to get them at the same time you are. But don't flood them with tons of information because chances are they don't care. Just send them a link, a certain time, size you would like, and your credit card details. Going into your credit card information in Word DocYou don't want to be the idiot who gets sneakers in your shopping cart, only to realize that you can't find your wallet. Write all the information in the Word document and then just copy and paste. In addition, you can enable automatic filling in the browser to download your name and address information automatically upon reaching the cash register page. Don't give in to the urgent RefreshOnce link goes live, remember that the site will be slow. There is a way more people on the site than at any other time, all fighting for a handful of sneakers. But the way these systems work is OK, so all refreshing will make it blow you in the back of the line. Be patient, hold your seat, and make attempts to add your size to the basket about once a minute. Frantically clicking on the same link doesn't help. Or, don't do anything out of ThisSleep's, wait until those bumps hit after-sales, and pick them up on the way (like the way) at the retail price after release. The choice is hers. Your.
