The novel tells the story of Maria, a young woman from a remote village in Brazil. There was once a prostitute named Maria ... As a fairy tale, told for adults, so begins a novel that touched the world. The story of the sublime, Eleven Minutes is a novel that explores the nature of sex and love. Argument From love disappointments in the early stages of adolescence, Maria develops a hatred of love and decides to seek good luck in Switzerland. There he discovers that reality is much more complicated than I expected. After working in a nightclub as a samba dancer for a while, she realizes that this is not what she wants. During a heated argument with her manager, she runs out and begins to look for a modeling career. She performs a long job search without result, and as she begins to work out the money, he sells, for 1000 francs for one night with an Arab man. Delighted with the easy money and making her soul, she lands in a brothel on Bern Street, in the heart of the Geneva red light. There she befriends Nya, who gives her advice about her new profession, and Milan, a brothel owner who teaches her tricks to trade. Mary begins to work with her body and mind, closing all doors for love and keeping her heart open only for her diary. Her career is getting successful, and celebrities and her colleagues are beginning to envy her. Months pass and Maria becomes a trained professional prostitute, who not only relaxes the minds of her clients, but also soothes her soul, talking to them about their problems. His world is turned upside down when he meets Ralph Hart, the artist. Mary is now divided between her sexual fantasies and true love for Ralph. Eventually, she decides that it's time to leave St. Petersburg with the memory of Ralph, because she realizes that they are from different worlds. But before leaving, she decides to re-ignite a dead sex fire in Ralph and learns from him about the nature of sacred sex, which is mixed with true love and consists of the surrender of the soul of a loved one. This book explores the sacred nature of sexual intercourse, that sexual intercourse usually lasts in conditions without conducive to love. It also constitutes two forms of prostitution: prostitution for money and sacred prostitution. Maria's characters: a girl from the interior of Brazil, intelligent and handsome, who knew always her beauty dominate the men she saw as a threat, creatures from whom she would never get what she wanted: love, stability, marriage, beach house, famous children, peaceful old age. She wanted and believed in the pursuit of happiness, adventure, and so agreed to go to Switzerland with this man she did not know. Mary had tremendous willpower and self-improvement, and that was what saved her from getting into the darkest part of the work she had chosen, or that she thought life had chosen her. Ralph: He was an artist, quite handsome but dirty. He was a man who had it all, but who was in the depths empty, looking for something that filled him and gave him happiness. She was a very wise man and was able to teach Mary a lot, things that helped her greatly and brought her closer to him in that mutual knowledge that was her relationship. Heidi: She was the librarian Maria used to visit looking for a book about a number of things she wanted to learn. She became the only friend she had in She was, like all Swiss, a woman who seemed to abstain, conservative and did not talk much about her life. But after Maria asked for some sex books and she started looking at them, she discovered a lot of things in her life that she never understood. She realized that she is not the only one who does not have orgasms, that she is not the only unsatisfied woman, she understands how much her marriage came out. And if after a long time she remembered that she was a woman who, despite always behaving like an exemplary person, was unfaithful, failed, she succumbed to the pursuit of pleasure. Milan: Owner of Copacabana. He was like a father, responsible for all the women who worked there. He protected them from inadequate customers and rebuked them when they were wrong. He was a very respectable and well-known man, despite owning a bordel. And he always warned his girls that JAMAS would embarrass him or make a scandal that could lead him to problems with his family, because for Milan they were the most important. Psychological contribution of the novel He travels almost all of Maria's life, since she was a child, a teenager and a young one. Maria's love experience as a child, since she lost her first love, taught Mary that some things will never happen again, this experience has taught Mary to be more determined and thus not to lose what she loves most. Maria in her youth knows how to manipulate men, learning not to fall in love in a certain way, so as not to suffer from a love breakup. The psychological impact is that love is something that is born only within us, and another person cannot be blamed for the feeling that is born spontaneously из нас. Onze,
