Photo Credits nat'rich image of Patrizier-Design Fotolia.com Skagen watches produced in Denmark Skagen designs. Skagen watches come in a variety of styles for men and women. Although the styles may be different, the care and instructions for all Skagen watches are the same. Installing a Skagen watch does not require special tools or equipment. Find the crown on the side of your Skagen watch. For standard, large Dat and multifunctional watches, the crown is a small handle on the right side of the watch that protrudes from the face. The Crown has three positions: completely against the clock, halfway from the face and completely expanded from the face. For the Chronograph watch, the crown is the central handle among the three handles on the side. For the Dual-Time watch, the crown is the very top handle. The following instructions all use the same pen to set the time. Pull the crown into the middle position. Turn the crown to set the date. Pull the crown completely in a fully extended position. Turn the crown to set the time. Push the crown all the way back in completely position. Your Skagen watch is now installed. Send a request I just received this watch (mp_s_a_1_33? qid=1451269015&sr=8-33&pi=AC_SX110_SY165_QL70&keywords=skagen+men%27s+watches) for Christmas and really like it, although I have a question about Hand. The guide that came with it had no instructions for the top or bottom button on the watch, and one seems to feature a stopwatch, maybe? Not sure. But the main issue is that the second hand just stops every 3 or 4 hours. Pressing the top button stops the second hand and pressing it again starts it, pressing the bottom button with the middle button all the way, it seems to make the second hand fast forward 60 seconds, very confusing. I didn't do some research online, but didn't find anything useful and Skagen's online guides aren't too useful either. Please help!
