(1 reviews) Theme: A French book, digitized by Google from Harvard University Library and uploaded to the Internet archive by user tpb. Source: French verbs and their conjugation seem to be the most annoying part of French grammar for students. There are quite a few French times and moods (I will write about those in a future article) and it is very easy to feel overwhelmed. As a result, many students buy dictionaries specifically dedicated to French verbs. Honestly, if I were a French student, the mere sight of these dictionaries would discourage me! Should I know all this?!! Good news: the answer is NO. There is an easy way you can significantly reduce the amount of memory (and headaches!) to learn the most used French times! The following recipes helped many of my students. I've created a downloadable PDF: The most common French Tenses Made Easy, so you can easily print it out if you find it will help you too. This downloadable PDF includes: color coding, very useful for visual learners simple exercises and their answers. Note: This article is addressed to students who already have concepts of French time/conjugation. The recipes presented aim to make learning and memorization easier, but they are not lessons in themselves. French Tenses Made Easy in 7 Recipes: The Secret! The secret is to simply and only learn the following: present (which is actually called indicatif prsent/indicative gift, but is often called the real default). There are ways to learn how to conjugate verbs in the present quite easily. Past participles (used to make past times such as fini, lu, connu, pris, etc.) Irregular forms of future time (futur simply) that you can (re) discover on this beautiful site : Of course, French grammar will not be French grammar without exceptions, for example, Etre's imparfait (imperfect Nothing) is not perfect really! For the following recipes, you will also need to use: infinitive (infinitif). Refresher: in French, infinitives are easy to identify as they end in -ER (aller, parler,...), -IR (finir, partir,...) or -RE (prendre, lire,...) stem/ root (radical) is part of the verb, which does not change (for ordinary verbs), and that allows you to recognize the verb, despite the changes you make to it when conjugating: Ex1: I go, I go, it walks, we went -- it are different forms of verb walk Ex2 : je regarde, tu regardes, nous regardons - regarder - is a verb with one unique stem (respectfully) in the present tense. je prends, il prend, nous prenons, ils prennent - prendre has three different stems in the present time : prend-, pren-, pren- the ending (termezone) is the part you attach to the stem of the verb. With each person and every time there is a certain finale, which needs to learn. So now, let's do a little verb cooking to bake fresh and healthy French times ! regarder -- j'ai respect finir -- j'ai fini aller -- je suis all finir -- nous finissons (present) -- je finissais, tu finissais, il finissait etc (imperfect) apprendre -- nous apprenons (present) -- jren tu apprenais, il apprenait, etc (imperfect) finir -- je viens de finir partir -- vous venez de partir faire -- je vais faire aller -- vous allez aller commencer -- ils vont commencer (ordinary verbs) -- je regarder finir -- comprendre -- il comprendra (irregular verbs) aller -- j'rai Etre -- tu seras regarder -- je regarderais etre -- nous serons finir -- ils finissent (indicative present) -- que je finisse, que nous finissions (subjunctive gift) bouar -- ils boivent (indicative gift) -- que je boive, que nous buvions (subjunctive present) is much easier, right? Admit it's better than trying to learn 500 pages by heart... © don't forget that you can easily print out these French time recipes and check yourself with the PDF below.
