Of choosing the right size bracelet to start by measuring the widest part of the wrist. Add 3 centimeters to this value to determine what the total length of the bracelet with the beads will be - that's the size of the bracelet you want. Take this number (in centimeters) and find it in the table below the columns for a total length with one or double clasp (last 2 columns). The corresponding value in the first column (the length of the bracelet without a clasp) is the size of the bracelet you should buy. For example, if the wrist measures 16 centimeters around on a wide part, add 3 centimeters for a total of 19 centimeters. If you want one clasp, you would choose a 7.5 bracelet. Similarly, if you want a single or double clasp (such as a large fish or a large flower), you would choose a 7.1 bracelet. As your bracelet becomes fuller, you may want to upgrade to a larger size. Any Trollbeads retailer will exchange your bracelet for a larger or smaller size for free. If you are buying a gift and you have no idea what size to get, in our experience most often purchased a starter bracelet sizes 7.1-7.9 depending on the amount of beads on the bracelet. Any Trollbeads retailer will exchange your bracelet for a larger or smaller size for free. Choice correct bracelet size Beginning with wrist width measurement (A). Select measurements that close to this in the table under column A. Next measure the thickness of the wrist, the measurement B. The hole (measurement B) should be wide enough to get the bracelet without turning itself, but not so wide that it falls. We have huge Trollbeads bracelets fans here at GLB and right now the ultimate promotion for those who share our tastes is available. For those of you who are new to the brand or perhaps who have just worn bracelets, this Trollbeads blog brings a short guide to the Trollbeads bracelet concept. Over the next few days you can buy one Trollbeads bracelet and get the other half price. That represents a substantial economy on this type of carrier, particularly if you like the pandering version. In addition, you can save 25% on all spacers, the necessary component Bracelets. Trollbeads bracelets are a little different from those of those many brands and some would describe them more as a cuff bracelet. They are open and sitting very close to the wrist. Their open concept means they need spacers to hold your beads in place. Fortunately, many Trollbeads spacers are now decorative enough to use as beads anyway, such as the Trollbeads Lovesome Spacer, (gold shown on the bottom bracelet.) For those discussing their first bracelet, the extra small fits most wrist sizes, but you can only find the size of trollbeads tips to the right. Please note that since then they have added a GOOD XXS for those with very thin wrists. Trollbeads bracelets are solid with very little flexibility. Trollbeads bracelets are particularly effective at showcasing a few favorite beads. The beads then stay pinned to the top of the wrist, which is great news for those who are uncomfortable with the beads underneath. With the launch of new Trollbeads round gems during the summer season, you can now create even more accurate bracelets. This looks especially good for those who like to stack a few pieces together. Both Trollbeads bracelet promotion and spacer sales run until midnight on Friday night, (October 4.) This promotion is usually offered only once or twice a year, so it's worth taking advantage of. Back to the endangered trolls There is a bracelet for each wrist. Follow the size guide and find out which of our five sizes is your size. The bracelet is available in five sizes XXS - L. To find the right size, you have to measure the wide circumference of the wrist. The size also depends on how tightly you want the bracelet, and how much beads you are going to put on it. Fit tips: At least two specials are needed to secure your ball (s) on your Trollbeads bracelet. All our silver bracelets are flexible. If you are having trouble placing the bracelet on your wrist, gently pull on either side of the bracelet to widen the hole. Then place on your wrist and squeeze to your comfort. Gift tip: Size XS and S fit the most. About bracelets: Our bracelets are available in three different metals: Copper, .925 Sterling Silver and 18k Gold-plated and available in many styles: Classic, Twisted, Heart and Star.
