Back to merit medal for merit medal (MSM) Requirements for representing someone for a medal, whether it's a medal achievement or a bronze star, pretty much the same, but there are some differences. All recommendations for medals require filling out a DA 638 form and for some medals like medal achievement and a medal of gratitude, that's all it takes. But more pieces of jewelry, such as the V Device Gratitude Medal, Bronze Star, etc., require more support. To avoid confusion, these instructions will only apply to AAM, ARCOM and MSM, because the procedures are the same for them. Block 1. Fill in the office information of the next office above the recommendation in the Command Chain. It's an office with approval powers. Block 2. Enter the office's recommendation information. Blocks 3-7. Self-evident Block 8. Fill in previous rewards for human achievement. The Army Service Tape (ASR), the Korean Defense Service Medal (KDSM), the Kuwait Liberation Medal (KULIBM), the Medal of Service in Southwest Asia (SWASM) are service medals and should not be listed. Status Currently awarded The Klapsoak sheet clusters for subsequent awards. Statistics Stalled by Decree 12019, November 3, 1977 Amended by Executive Decree 13666, April 18, 2014 Precedence Next (above) Purple Heart Next (Lower) Tape Medal of Merit for Defense (DMSM) is an award awarded to members of the U.S. Department of Defense. As a priority for the United States military, it is worn between the Purple Heart and the Medal of Merit. The medal is awarded on behalf of the Minister of Defence to members of the Armed Forces who, while serving in joint activities, have outstanding achievements or merits in service, but not a degree to guarantee the awarding of the Medal of the Higher Defence Service. The medal is not the same as the Medal of Merit for the Fatherland, which is a separate federal military award. Both have virtually identical criteria for awarding awards, but the DMSM is awarded to servicemen assigned to joint, multi-prophine organizations, while IMS is awarded to servicemen in traditional military units as part of their respective individual services. The Criterion Medal was first established on November 3, 1977 by President Jimmy Carter under the 12019 Ordinance recognizing non-combat merit or service while serving in a joint assignment. A recognized service is usually over a period of time, over 12 months, covering recipients of all joint appointments, including extensions. The required achievement or service has a lesser degree than required for awarding a Medal of the Higher Defense Service, but had to be performed with distinction. A joint mission means activities, operations or organizations in which elements of more than one United States Army, as reflected in joint personnel documents or the Joint List of Military Appointments, perform joint missions under the auspices of the Office of the Secretary of Defense; Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; or the commander of the combat command. Members of the military assigned or attached to the Joint Task Force as individuals rather than members of a specific military service unit may be able to for DMSM. Members of the service of specific units are entitled to awards of personal jewelry from their parent service. It also includes personnel serving with jointly staffed headquarters in Allied Command in Europe, The Allied Atlantic Command, NATO Military Committee and military agencies related to military or other joint activities that may be assigned. In 2014, President Barack Obama, with Executive Order 13666, extended the DMSM's right to include any member of the armed forces of a friendly foreign state, thereby extending the recognition of those NATO, Allied and Coalition officers, as well as senior officers appointed to/embedded in the Joint Staff, Joint Combat Commands and related Joint Task Force. The description of the medal occurrence medal of origin of the Medal of Defense Merit made bronze and 1 1/2 inches (38 mm) in diameter. The averse structure consists of a round wreath of laurel leaves tied with tape at the base. In the center is the shape of a pentagon, which slightly overlaps the wreath. Superimposed on a pentagon eagle with wings upraised standing at the base of the pentagon. The eagle symbolizes the United States, while the shape of the pentagon hints at the Department of Defense, and the laurel wreath represents an achievement. On the reverse of the medal there is an inscription Defense Merit in three horizontal lines, and at the bottom - the words United States of America. Between the inscriptions there is a place to engrave the name of the recipient. The ribbon description for the medal is 1 3/8 inches (35 mm) wide consists of the following vertical stripes: White 1/16 inches (1.6 mm), Crimson 1/4 inches (6.4 mm), white 7/32 inches (5.6 mm), Bluebird 1/16 inches (1.6 mm), white 1/16 inch (1.6 mm) 1.6 mm), Bluebird 1/16 inches (1.6 mm), white 1/16 inches (1.6 mm), Bluebird 1/16 inches (1.7.16 mm 6 mm), white 7/32 inches (5.6 mm), crimson 1/4 inches (6.4 mm), white 1/16 inch (1.6 mm). The colors, crimson and white, are duplicates of the colors of the Legion of Merit ribbon. Bluebird stripes are a color associated with the Ministry of Defense. Additional awards of the Medal of Merit in Defense are marked by bronze clusters of oak leaves, with a silver cluster of oak leaves, representing six awards. As a joint award, oak leaf clusters, traditionally associated with the Army and Air Force awards, are also used for numerous DMSM awards to the Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard personnel. These clusters of oak leaves are attached to the suspension and service tapes. See also the awards and awards of the U.S. Military Handbooks and Extradition (PDF). www.esd.whs.mil, 2016.
