What are the best resume templates ready for Word? It depends on how you want to create your resume. There are two options that work well: Use an online resume generator. With this option, you fill in a ready-made template without worrying about formatting, and download a finished resume in a format where you can open and edit (if you need) word. Use one of the templates that already come into Word. In this case, you need to put your information directly into one of the finished Word templates, which can be difficult to do without straining your resume. No matter which way you want to go, in this article we will guide you through both options! Want to save time and make your resume in 5 minutes? Try our online generator summary. It's fast, easy, comfortable and 100% customizable. Choose from 18 professional curriculum templates to fill out. Create your resume now! Resume model created by our resume generator. Discover our resume builder. One of our users, Nicolas, had this to say: I am having trouble getting out my resume with only 1 page and in leaving it looking professional. The generator resumes zeti helped me a lot! ready-to-be resume The following templates can be filled online and uploaded fully ready in .doc (so if you want to change something later it's very easy, it can be done in Word). They are also different from the templates that already come in Word, so they attract more attention from the recruiter. You can also collect a cover letter with the same look as the vitae curriculum. Come on, 1. Cubic This edited curriculum in Word combines a modern look with more traditional elements. The sections are clear and highlight the experience. 2. Concept The timing is ideal for a chronological model of the curriculum. A modern and elegant template. Crisp The split between the two columns highlights the part where the recruiter should focus (right). Great for working in traditional or creative fields. Diamond Great option for a combined resume. The layout is organized, and the white space provides visibility of the data. 5. Enfold A is a versatile model that works in any professional environment. The design is clear, which is important for recruiters, as they look at the curriculum for a short time before deciding whether to read it or not. The Iconic This model is easily digitized, so it is suitable for those who have a corporate position that attracts a large number of candidates. 7. Influx Because is modern and elegant, it is a curriculum that works well in management vacancies or in more traditional areas. 8. Minimum This model is suitable not only for training programs, but also for vacancies in leadership positions or more. The bar chart is thin and keeps the curriculum elegant without trying to overwork. The Modern This template can be modern, including graphics without distracting the reader from the content of the document. This vitae curriculum can store a lot of data without looking contaminated because of its two column layout. 10. Initials The graphic with your initials highlights you from the rest of the resume that the recruiter will receive. This template also contains a set of icons and a skill score scale that work very well visually. Muse A is a simple and professional vitae curriculum. This gives a lot of attention to the area of experience. 12. The Natica The Natica model is ideal for long-term or academic curricula. You can continue the text on other pages if you have, thanks to the simplicity of the format. 13. The two-short scheme of this Primo The curriculum allows you to incorporate all your experience and skills, as well as space for additional sections such as software that you master or languages. 14. Newcastle Because is simple, it's perfect for a longer resume. Suitable for managers with sufficient experience or academics. 15. Simple If you have a lot of experience but still want to list your professional achievements on one page, this format is ideal. Its two columns allow you to show a lot of information on one page without getting confused. 16. Valera S creative look, this template combines a professional layout with youthful energy. It works great as a two-page summary. 17. Vibes White Space and icons offer a professional and elegant look, as well as draw the recruiter's attention to the title section. It's a model that mixes modernity with simplicity. 18. Cascade Esse is a universal vitae curriculum that serves all kinds of professional experience. You can include a lot of information with a two-column layout without overloading the document. Let's look at other options that are templates that already come in Microsoft Word: When taking a resume with a zety resume generator, you just need to drag and drop the items you want (skills, experience...). There is even a spelling check to make your resume perfect. When you're done, the cv generator zeti will evaluate your resume and tell you what you need to fix to make the curriculum even better. Word Templates In Word itself you can choose resume templates to fill out. These models are used by many candidates, so they don't get as much attention from recruiters. In addition, formatting has to be done manually, and within word itself, that can be difficult to do without breaking the template. Choosing a Word template It's easy. Click on the new and in the search bar you can enter the name of one of the templates you like. See the images that are in the way of this: How to make a resume in Word. 19. Modern curriculum It is a beautiful model that works well for the type of chronological curriculum. It has creative air, but it's one of the most popular templates in Word, so recruiters have probably seen it and the resume won't pass as much creativity. 20. Grey and blue curriculum This model was made for photo resumes that is very common in the U.S., and not much in Brazil. However, you can delete the photo space in Word. If you choose this template, change the way you experience and educate, leaving your professional achievements at the top. Another recommendation is to use the hobby space for more information. 21. The curriculum (colored) is a model for those looking for something very simple. When using this curriculum, change the experience section to leave it on top. Unfortunately, this change has to be done manually in Word. 22. A curriculum with a pink theme Blank space set in the vitae curriculum is important, but here they overreacted a little. Especially if you don't insert a photo. The design and colors can also be a very flashy and a sick recruiter if he has seen this model several times. Even so, the pattern works. It's simple and easy to highlight what you want by putting in the beginning of text. 23. The green cube renews the stylish model, but is too polluted. If you choose this template, put your work experience first, not on training, as this is the information that recruiters look at first. 24. Summary with photo A resume that works in more creative areas, and not so much for leadership positions. The sections are clear and the focus is on what matters. Despite the title, this resume works well if you choose not to post photo. 25. A modern and organized curriculum Is a simple professional curriculum, but it draws attention to your purpose and experience. It's a bit loaded into text, so try creating spaces by filling it out. 26. School Program (Modern Design) Is a simple vitae curriculum that doesn't set you apart much but is functional. In most cases, it would be nice to exchange places between the sections of experience and education to highlight their professional achievements. 27. Curriculum with organic forms Folk model with creative air. Dividing into two columns works great, but no colors are ideal for leadership positions or more formal areas. Recruiters who get a lot of resumes probably saw this pattern from mount. 28. Balanced CV (modern design) Simple resume with no room for photo It can be difficult to format A word, but ideally block experience should remain higher than the skills, but continue as the biggest section. 29. Modern chronological curriculum It can work if you want to emphasize your experience and education equally, although this is not recommended for most professionals.
