Detailed category: Using the name Last Update: 04 November 2018 Johns Hopkins Health System Corporation and Johns Hopkins University are committed to free and open expression of ideas. Employees are encouraged to engage in civic activities and participate in the electoral process at all levels: local, state and federal. Federal law, however, stipulates that tax-free organizations such as the Johns Hopkins Health System Corporation and Johns Hopkins University may not participate or interfere (including the publication or dissemination of statements) of any political campaign on behalf of (or in opposition) of any candidate for public office. As a nonprofit, Johns Hopkins cannot afford its resources to be used in partisan politics. In addition, the use of your Johns Hopkins title and affiliation in this context is strongly discouraged. Federal law governing non-profit organizations prohibits an institution or any organization from engaging in party political activity as an agent of an institution. The Johns Hopkins Health System and the Johns Hopkins University political campaign guidelines provide practical advice to staff on compliance with both university and health systems and IRS requirements.
