Feedback: loop@fastcompany.com Michael Leonard | SOCIETY Group Earlier this month witnessed the most expensive residential sale in the UK when Hong Kong property developer Cheung Chung Kiu bought a London mansion for a whopping $262 million. A high sale had never taken place in the UK or the United States before that. But that's only because One hadn't yet reached the property market. The One is a mega mansion in Bel-Air, California, that is almost ready to go on the market for $500 million, reports Bloomberg. This property has been in the works for the past seven years since the former film producer turned mega mansion developer, Nile Niami. Not only will The One break the story about its high price, but also about its size. The One is America's largest private residence. This 100,000-square-foot estate has a cinema with 36 seats, a bowling alley, a car gallery that can hold 30 cars, and... (Wait for it!) ... a nightclub, according to the Robb report. Not only that, but it has 20 bedrooms, 30 bathrooms and five swimming pools. Niami, had edited this price, as well as the legendary name of the estate, during the planning process. The property is currently represented by The Society Group. Although it has not been officially placed on the market yet you can watch the video below to see inside this sprawling luxury mansion.
