I will tell you: Your love is as warm as the kiss of an angel... You said: Is Barack in times of jealousy. When they asked Allah again, Wa baaraqallah alaika... Your words pierced my heart: In a storm, I'm stronger! With Barack, the problem will strengthen the scythe as soon as you convince you. Then they closed: Wa jamaa bainakum bi hiir... So our hands are on top of each other and their fingers are connected: Hold my hand, feel the power of love! Then three celebrations of love are perfect... At any moment it brings happiness. Explosion of joy in the heart, space in the chest, clarity in the mind, and a sense of pleasure in the body. Baraka gives a different atmosphere and pours out the joys of spring, regardless of the problems that overshadow our family. Baraka brings a smile, despite the fact that tears are shed. Baraka is while in the midst of aggravation. Baraka provides a gentle rengkuhan and caress when our breasts are tight out of trouble. Baarakallahu Laca, Happy to celebrate love... Then God dipped him in the color of firmness, coolness, vivacity and love; the grace of the universe. I miss this rainbow, the rainbow that radiates a divine drop of color. It is time, the sparkling dea bye of Islam is no longer inseparable from the charming glow of a Muslim. And look, I'm a Muslim.... You don't know what I want yet. And you don't know what God wants. I'm doing what he wants. The show must go on! Read this book so you know what God wants! - Yoyoh Yusroh, mother of 13 sons, member of the House of Representatives) This is a smart and instructive book. Written in beautiful and beautiful language. In addition to the invitation to love Islam, this book invites its readers to be intelligent true Muslims. - Habiburrahman El Shirazi, author of the novel Poems of Love Muslim should not be ashamed to show his identity, despite having to face accusations of terrorists, or worse than that. This book brings you more PeDe as a Muslim. - Fauzan al-Anshari, Chief Of The Department. Data and information of the mujahideen Assembly of Indonesia Light, but nampol reflections. Every time we read, we'll see a new color from page by page. To be clear, this book gives us the spirit I am proud to be a Muslim!, which is clearly not a feat: because we are Muslims, then we can achieve any achievements! - Shofwan Al Banna, National Elementary Achievement Student 2006 Although not perfect, but this book is quite enough to renew our commitment to reality in the midst of various crises that have hit, including identity crises (M. Ismail Yusanto, spokesman for Hizbut Tahrir Indonesia)..... Indeed, this book is full of contemplative contemplation of the satiap pitch of life. Of course, he doesn't want to change, it all starts with us. Here we put that faith is directly proportional to the quality of relationships that we connect with others. In addition, any relationship that is not based on faith will be in vain. Both faith and uzhuva require efforts to edify and impregnate them. Welcome to the Uhuwa deck. If you are wrong, May God Best response to insults and detractors of honor. What you said was actually a compliment, because I'm initially more scared. The most tangential response to insult and decline: Even if I want revenge, I have no power. For I have no vile words or words. Praise answered: O Allah will forgive you a shame that you do not know; Don't punish me for your flattery; and make me better than all this. The noblest answer to praise is, May God forgive those you do not know, let your prayers improve themselves and themselves. With a collection of @salimafillah Listening to Twitter Knitting Meaning is just a record to behold. Especially his icaou. And if Shalikhin and Shalihah please the reader, be happy in our gratitude. Dig, for God has bestowed various potentials within us. Digging means finding and honing it. To the top, for only God we will lead every geristic of intention, word, movement, as stipulated in the plans of this book. And the heart, for from there everything begins as an intention to be guarded and repaired, and also comes down as a pleasure to everything that comes from Him. Dig to the top of your heart the path to sincerity culminating in how we promise: My prayer, my worship, my life, and my death are all for God's Lord of the Masters during prayer: O Allah, help me remember you, thank, and worship only for you. so we ask Him for help to offer the best. Thus, digs to the top of the heart while we are in a better life and a better death, when the spirit is picked up and the heart reaches the peak of its sincerity, Laa ilaaha illallaah. Allah's path is very long. Sheikh Muhammad Nashiruddin al-Albani said, and we don't have to get to the end. We were only brought to die on it. Happy dig at the top of your heart! Thus, those who are smart in their measures will reduce the burden and multiply the situation, and reduce the plaintiffs and increase until he folds. As for the whole ground, both arms and legs, will testify later when the mouth is blocked. Travel the earth to see what ended the one who slid down Allah. he commanded us that the spirit would be filled with the intentions of service, the mind of the madness of the greatness of the gift, and all the bodies stung by the spirit to spread the benefits. In fact, the Prophet forbade us to perform rihlah, except to go to the Grand Mosque, his mosque in the glowing Medina, and the Aksha Mosque in Palestine. The latter is even put on hold. Because, the first dial of Muslim prayer is being colonized by zionists. But it is clear that it is a perfect exception. Finally, be happy in da'wa. Welcome to the hunt for wisdom. For we are all travelers. For a quick booking response via the WA Hub (081328086636) or click here to book (via Pro-U Media) With you on the Dava Screw Road (2016) We are more focused on a bit of adaba, says Imam Abdullah ibn al-Mubarak, than a lot of knowledge. So, at other times, he stated that it took him 30 years to study the adab, plus 20 years to study science. As for the knowledge I've gathered from all over the world over the years, he concluded, it's completely useless without the one I've trained before. So, to a true teacher, Ibn Atailla wrote, you are not provided with books. Harun ibn Abdillahu was told about the meeting of Imam Ahmad, which was attended by five thousand people. Who brought documents and pens to record hadeeth was only five hundred of them, he said, others noticed all the self and movement of Imam Ahmad to give an example of adaba and listen to akhlaq. The difference in understanding in the blessing layers is the adab. They say: We do not know what is in heaven, what is in heaven and what is so ever on earth, and Allah is omniscient, omniscient. He's all-mighty, all-wise. he's omniscient, omniscient. We can do that. Today on the way of da'wa, we and them like the earth and heaven in knowledge. So in adab and akhlaq, let's try to be a mirror image of the sun. Oh God, we ask for your love, the love of those who love you, and the love of everything that brings us closer to your love. In an age when many great charities are diminishing unloved intentions; How important it is for us to make intentions in small charities that people miss but have a high chance of being high value because of their intentions. Imam Abu Dawood was on the boat, only to pray for the man he heard sneezing on the edge, ready to turn the boat he was on. The passengers then rustled on top of each other. What will Abu Dawood's response be? Shahdan, history, if it is done with wisdom, it will be exposed and become an afterthought for those who read it. Also, it's real and your fault is from the shalykins. Salim A. Fillah is known as a young writer who combines evidence with a history of presenting work, a set of heritage anbiya owners, scholars and zuama. What is presented sometimes echoes with laughter, tears of coolness and sheds tears in memory of sin. Congratulations on the beauty of morality and adab scientists from salaf to caliph through this book. Give a story exemplary for heritage owners.
