GIMP is surprisingly good at creating compositions for photo-implying. I think this fact shocks people on a daily basis when they encounter our GIMP tutorials on YouTube and see the kinds of things that are dreamed up within the program. Add to this that GIMP is completely free and you have the perfect storm for creatives wanting to create stunning artwork without emptying their bank account. Davis Media Design has made it a personal mission to change the paradigm of the design world and to wake people up how good GIMP has become in the last few months. Earlier this year, GIMP released GIMP 2.10, which came loaded with some great features, but then one upped itself by introducing some performance updates and additional features in GIMP 2.10.2 through 2.10.6. Today, GIMP 2.10.6 is a seriously huge program that rivals Photoshop, and its just the tip of the iceberg (GIMP 3.0 just might break the Internet). But that's enough for the GNU Image Manipulation Program (which means GIMP). Let's dive into our list of the top 10 GIMP Photo Manipulation Tutorials by Davis Media Design, the largest active GIMP-dedicated YouTube channel on the planet!
