Dan Schuessler COLLEGE SIZE TUITION TYPE Skip To Content Oklahoma City Things To Do Oklahoma City is the capital of Oklahoma and its largest city. It is one of the largest cities on the Great Plains. Every year, many people visit the city for business and discover the great sights the city offers. Countless botanical gardens Do you want to spend a quiet afternoon relaxing? Myriad Botanical Garden is the place. It is one of the largest botanical gardens with 17 acres, full of all kinds of different plant life and walking paths. One of the most impressive things about it is the huge collection of different varieties of orchid it has. After the Crystal Bridge, the sunken lake is the second most popular attraction in the Botanical Garden. The bridge is a glass pipe that goes over a lake full of different plants. If this isn't enough during your stay, check out the waterfall. You can even walk behind it. Entrance fee is $6 for adults $5 for seniors to access countless botanical gardens. Oklahoma City If you have kids, take them to the Oklahoma City Zoo while you're in town. It's not the first thing people think about, but it's actually pretty impressive. Animal lovers in particular love this zoo because it is committed to making animal compounds as similar as possible to their natural habitats. The zoo has a few different endangered species that want to help preserve wildlife. They are available for private events and photography is allowed. Lake Hefner is a place near Oklahoma City for outdoor enthusiasts. Rent a boat with friends and go out in the water or relax on the pier and have a few drinks. This is the place to go near Oklahoma City if you want to relax. Stockyard City OKC is home to the world's largest warehouses. Go see thousands of cows being led through the warehouse every day. You can also watch the auctions, which take place every week from Monday to Wednesday.
