Her husband, on the other hand, is very active online, which is normal for most stand-up comedians. He has accounts on Twitter, Facebook and Instagram and uses them to promote some of his recent and upcoming projects, including video specials, tours and television appearances. He also uses the Twitter platform to express some of his daily thoughts and comedic ideas. His photos often consist of him posing with his puppets – Murdick rarely appears there, their children often find themselves in more photos than they do on Dunham's account. There are a few pictures of her on the website Instagram, including she posing with the family for Halloween photos. In addition to social media, he also has an account on YouTube where he posts videos and shorts to promote his tours. He also has a personal website that sells tickets, merchandise and upcoming events. He can also be seen on other YouTube channels and websites, thanks to his popularity due to his continuous work on the comedy circuit. Circuit.
