If you are a player who used to stick with your Nintendo system in the 80s, you will know about punch-out - a famous boxing game among older generations. Punch Hero is another version of Punch-Out except for bright 3D graphics and catchy gameplay. This game has not changed much compared to its predecessor 30 years ago. People call the hero punch junk game because, in the hero punch, you will have to face the football player, the samurai, and sometimes the spirit of the deceased pirates. However, it is also a strong point that makes this game entertaining and more attractive. Let's learn more about this funny boxing game with our detailed review of the punch hero below. Story, let train your strength, hook punches and suppers in the training center, while accumulating special skills and power moves in the skill store. With fun 3D graphics, Punch Hero is highly addictive. This game can pose a difficult challenge for those who accidentally touch it. Like a punch-out, punch hero has no plot and does not need a plot. You will name your character and enter Arcade mode. Players will have to fight with 18 opponents, and new challenges will emerge every time you defeat the enemy. Competitors do not come with excellent reflective skill. But at least you won't be disappointed in arcade mode, you'll have to face a football player, a samurai, and possibly the spirit of the deceased pirates. Each opponent has a unique style of play, and players will need to recognize and find ways to fight again by exploiting their weaknesses. None of your opponents follow the rules. And if you want to win, you must master the necessary skills such as jab, hooks, Uppercuts, Block, and weave. Quick feedback is one of the necessary elements in this game. In the hero punch, you must beat 22 fighters. Each of them comes as a different character with different strong and weak points. Your job is to find their weaknesses to beat them of course, you have to be fluent in boxing skills. The result of the match depends on your defensive and offensive skills. If you win, you can get a gold bonus. You can use this gold to buy new skills, customs, and training for the next game. Of course, if you are good enough, your level will be raised with more skills, habits, and more powerful opponents. If you want to shorten the time, you can buy in-app purchases to buy things sooner. However, we do not believe it is necessary because you can only buy customs the next level. What we love most about Punch Hero is an easy-to-use design. It is an effort to control that even kids can play with any difficulty. Of course, we do not recommend this game for kids because it is a little violent. Back to the punch hero, you just need to swipe left if you want to perform hooks, taps for punches, and make swipes upward if you want to make And if you want to put a guard, you need to press for a few seconds on the screens. Besides, there are many movements that you can make with just a touch and move your hands on the screen. For example, you should quickly tap the screen every time you are dropped to stand back. This game is perfect for quick reflexes and mix eyes and hands. If you pay attention, you will see this game has a very good simulation of boxing techniques. We love the way developers slow down when dodging a punch. Sometimes it is not easy if you want to level up quickly because you have to master the first skills. Besides, this is also a game where you will learn the terms of specializing in boxing. Except for some strange opponents, description, sounds, and actions in this game are real. Therefore, it is best for boxing fans without a doubt. Punch Hero modes two: one player and two players. In particular, one player does not require Wi-Fi or Internet. You can run it offline, and the system will count the result of your battle. In single player mode, you will fight with a different fighter to win the highest rank. Each player has different stats, but later, boxers are more substantial than the player's index to increase the difficulty. The player is arched to have some tactics. However, if you want to play with your partner, you should play online. With two players mode, you can chat with your partner. But we don't think this feature is useful because your hands will always be busy with moves. Finally, you have no choice except arcade mode. It's not a big problem for beginners or amateur players because the arcade option is enough for them. However, if you are a professional gaming, it is not as fun as you would expect. So, we suggest that you shouldn't expect much for this 3D boxing punch game. If you are interested in graphics in Gamevil games, punch hero will not make you very disappointed. The only highlight of the graphics design in the game is hundreds of different characters. Punch Hero is a boxing game, but your opponents are not necessary boxer. The developer's team was creative when designing hundreds of different characters with funny definition properties. Besides, the facial expressions are also the allure of the hero punch, especially when you get hit. It was hilarious and made the players very interested. If you want professional graphics design, this game is not the first choice for you. But if you want something funny to entertain, there's nothing better than Punch Hero. The sound system as the manufacturers care about it. For example, the game soundtrack is good, and the opponent screams when he hits You ask the most important attribute of the punch hero, the answer must be the sound effect. The sound effect is also something we love most in this game. All of them are made in a very thoughtful and funny way. You can easily adjust the game's volume and mute the sound when necessary. However, a punch hero without a voice is not a punch hero anymore. So please remember to bring your headphones! With many game modes and options, Punch Hero will give you hours of endless boxing action. If you love boxing games with a few actors in the game industry, why not play punch hero? Perhaps the only thing the game needs are zombies as opponents. Punch Hero brings the fun of effects and nuances of the character's face in the game. It is a noticeable difference in this kind of violent and intense boxing game. The game does not require a stable configuration to experience. You can enjoy this game with a mid-range configuration phone. The game is currently available on both iOS and Android.
