Tyra, who is also the executive producer of the show, FYI!-revealed the news in a statement to Us Weekly. Here: I've been a fan of DWTS from the beginning... cheerfully mixes with raw emotions, seeing celebrities push past their comfort zone, hissing dance performances. It always carried me to my days of turning it into 10 notches on the catwalk. Tom has created a powerful scene and I'm excited to continue the legacy and put on my executive producer and hosting hats. Image copyright ABC Entertainment Image caption Kari Burke released a statement and included a smize joke for good measure: Tyra is an award-winning multi-hyphen whose fierce female prowess and influence in many industries have made an indelible mark, she said. Her fresh look at America's favorite dance competition will certainly bring more than a smize to fans all over the world. The news comes just days after DWTS host Tom Bergeron revealed he had been axed from the show, saying he had been briefed on the ABC's decision. (Note: Cohost Erin Andrews is not returning either.)
