

I'm not robot  reCAPTCHA

Continue

Ticketmaster's West End Guide is dedicated to the best theatre and entertainment of the London Theatre for 2020 and 2021. If you're looking for tickets to the West End Theatre for today, tomorrow or months ahead, we have you covered by lists of over 60 shows currently on sale in the West End. We are the only place outside the box office where you can buy tickets for the first musical Hamilton, Magic Mike LIVE and record-breaking, Olivier Award-winning play Harry Potter and the Cursed Child Parts One and Two. Our guide to the London Theatre is designed to help you find tickets to your next favourite show, from new musicals and plays - hand-picked by our West End experts - to lists for some of the longest lasting heritage shows such as The Phantom of the Opera, Les Misérables, Wicked, MAMMA MIA! and Disney's Lion King, both of whom are celebrating 20 years in the West End in 2020. Want to buy tickets for London's West End Theatre for today? It's not a problem. Our West End Guide lists all shows currently on sale in the West End, so you can explore musicals and plays by date and secure your tickets for this last-minute treat. Looking for the perfect gift? West End theatre tickets make the perfect gift for someone you love and with our discounted offers you can even save a few pennies by making someone's night. With West End theatre shows on every day of the week, you're sure to find something you'll love. So, what are you waiting for? Discover a new favourite show at our West End London Theatre Guide for 2020. Find out more theatrical content, including cast interviews and new tour announcements here. Frequently asked questions of the West End Show and London theatres open on Sundays? Most West End theatres are closed on Sundays, but there are some exceptions to this rule if you want to catch the London Theatre show at the weekend. The following musicals and theatre shows are available on Sundays in London: Are theatres open on Mondays? Most West End theatres have performances on Monday night, but some of those shows that have Sunday performances are close on Mondays. You can't see six musicals, Matilda, a comedy about a bank robbery, a game that goes wrong, a woman in black, Disney's The Lion King, Thriller LIVE or Harry Potter and the Cursed Child on Mondays. When are the West End theatres? Evening performances of the London Theatre show largely begin at 7.30pm each night, which is a performance, but there are some variations on that score. Evening performances of the following shows start only at 19.45 every night: on Thursday night Six the Musical performs a night show from 21.00, and at 20.00 other evenings. Matilda the Musical begins evening performances at 19:00 and the woman in black has no curtain until 20:00. On Saturdays, when the London Theatre Matinees vary depending on the show. Traditionally shows are Wednesday and Saturday matinees at 2.30pm, but some shows that run on Sundays often include a matinee performance here rather than one midweek. On Wednesdays Matilda and Harry Potter and the Cursed Child matinees begin at 14:00. On Saturdays, these times remain the same, and the following shows also vary their curtain-up from the usual 14:30 Showtime weekend: Mousetrap has matinees on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 3 p.m. and Saturdays at 4 p.m. Also, the following shows are matinees on Thursdays rather than Wednesdays, which is becoming increasingly common: What are the best shows at London's West End Theatre at the moment? Our guide covers all the best theatre shows in London. Much-loved heritage shows such as The Phantom of the Opera, Les Misérables, Angry and Disney's Lion King are often top-lists for the most popular shows in West End theatres. New shows like Hamilton, Waitress, Dear Evan Hansen, Come From Away and Only Fools and Horses Musical are all must-sees. Where's the West End in London? London's West End is famous for its world-class theatre productions. The West End is located in central London, west of the City of London and usually comprises areas around Leicester Square and Covent Garden. The West End includes theatres such as the Piccadilly Theatre outside Piccadilly Circus, the Victoria Palace Theatre on Victoria Street, London's Palladium Theatre at Argyll St Soho, the Prince Edward Theatre at Old Compton Street and the Apollo Theatre on Shaftesbury Avenue. It also includes the Savoy Theatre, the Phoenix Theatre, Trafalgar Studios and the Lyceum Theatre among many others. Get your tickets to the smash hit show today! Where can I listen to West End music? If you want to listen to some of the best show tunes and West End musical songs, then check out our West End Theatre playlist here. We are currently cancelling all performances prior to and including May 31, 2020 to help us handle existing orders while we await further clarity from the government in terms of when we will be able to reopen. We are very sorry that in these trials and hard times you cannot enjoy the show you ordered and hope that the following helps clarify the next steps regarding your tickets. There is nothing you need to do if your performance has been cancelled, but we ask for your patience. If you have booked directly into the theatre or show site for the affected performance, please be assured that they will contact you directly to arrange an exchange at a later date, credit note/voucher or refund. If you have booked an agent's ticket they will also be in contact with you directly. We handle the performance dates in strict order, so you will probably contact after the date you were supposed to go to the theatre. We want to assure you that you will be contacted and your order will be processed, but please do not do with us. We would like to thank everyone who has been patient and kind in dealing with their ticket providers so far and we regret that we cannot handle your booking as quickly as we would like. Please do not contact your credit card company as this will slow down the process and put additional strain on our cash registers and ticket agent teams. In order for us to serve our audience the best we can, please don't co-ordinate with your point of sale if you're booked for performances after May 31. Please be assured that if we have to cancel future performances, you will be contacted directly by your theatre or ticket provider. Our producers continue to plan all possible options depending on the individual needs of their shows, and we will provide additional updates on specific shows as and when they become available. We look forward to meeting you in our theatres as soon as we are allowed to resume performances. At the same time, stay safe and healthy. National Theatre. West End. Shakespeare's Globe. The titans of London's theatre scene are also some of the most iconic venues around, the beating heart of culture in this city. For the most part, they have announced their upcoming productions, and we are proud to present our handy guide to London's best theatre in 2020 - from theatre, musicals, to good old Shakespeare. Check out Musicals in LondonAll singing, all dancing, and all new: it can only be the best new musicals in London in 2020! London musicals are opening now! Dear Evan HansenPhoto: @detwestendNoel Coward Theatre - Booking until May 2020 (now) It's been a long time to wait, but we'll finally get a full taste of the sweetly thought-provoking musical. Rookie Sam Tutti has been raking in applause for his turn in the lead role, while catchy numbers and serious challenges make this one an emotional ride. The audience has fallen hard for this and if you want to see what the fuss is about, you can nab yourself some tickets here. WaitressPhoto: @marishawallaceAdelphi Theatre - Until July 4S Sarah Bareilles-penned soundtrack and a strong Broadway run behind it, Waitress was a welcome addition to the West End, telling the story of waitress Jenna, who hopes to break out of her small town and tumultuous marriage by winning a baking contest. All the good things have to come to an end, however, and it's sweeter than the pie musical will take its final bow in the summer - though not until Bareilles and original co-star Gavin Creel have a stint in the lead roles. Tickets and information here.3. JulietPhoto: @julietmusicalShaftesbury Theatre - Booking until October 2020 (now) Late season arrival in year, -- Juliet wowed viewers with her revisionist take on Romeo and Juliet Juliet catchy pop hits are literally from those who have been number one in the last twenty years. The musical slot has just been extended until October 2020, and with Miriam-Thicke Lee giving the performance belt in the title role, you can expect to stay for a while longer. Find tickets here.4. Les MisérablesPhoto: @lesmisofficialSondheim Theatre - until October 17 I know what you think: Les Misérables has been staged in London almost continuously since 1985. But after the classical production (with a rotating stage) finally closed during the summer, a new production, which had previously toured, created a shop in the newly renamed Sondheim Theatre (formerly the theater of queens). Does it retain the same magic? Grab your tickets and find out.5 Prince EgyptPhoto: @princeofegyptKDominion - February 5 to September 12What is it? A new musical? You don't mind if we do that! Based on the Oscar-winning animated film, the stage show tells the story of Moses and Rames, adoptive brothers who are set for completely different paths in life. Find tickets here.6 MusiKLeicester Square Theatre - From February 5 to March 1 France Barber stars as Billy Trix, who lived an envious life of globetrotting, partying, and fame, and is ready to share everything in her own-woman show. The outrageous success comes at a time when this musical, which also features original songs from the Pet Shop Boys. Tickets and information here.7. Be more ChillPhoto: @bemorechillmusicalThe Another Palace - February 12 to May 3Billed as a cross between Dear Evan Hansen and Little Shop Of Horrors, this highly original show tells an unusual love story of a girl, a guy, and a supercomputer who lives in a guy's head. It's all about fitting in, finding love, and merclessly capturing the world - conquering New York, now taking aim at London... Find tickets here.8 Pretty WomanPhoto: @prettywomanPiccadilly Theatre - February 14 to January 2, 2021, in time for Valentine's Day, the love story between Edward and Vivian gets a fresh spin with musical numbers from Brian Adams, Danny Mack and Aimee Atkinson have been confirmed stars in leads, and with the long term already pencilled in, there's plenty of time to fall in love with him over and over again. Tickets are available here. London musicals will soon be 9. City AngelsGarrick Theatre - March 5 to TBDTransferring from Donmar Warehouse, this film noir tribute has already assembled an excellent cast consisting of Hadley Fraser, Rosalie Craig, and Tony Award nominee Vanessa Williams, who is making her West End debut. Expect old-school Hollywood brilliance, moody monochrome, and abundant use of the lady's words. You can find your tickets here.10. HairsprayPhoto: @hairspraylondon London Coliseum - 16 May to 29 AugustMoce London The annual musical is something of a reunion for Michael Ball and hairspray; The West End legend will return to the role of Edna Turnbull, twelve years after he won the Olivier Award for his previous turn. There must be an absolute revolt! Find tickets here.11.101 DalmatiansPhoto: @regentsparkoatRegent's Park Open Air Theatre - from May 16 to June 21Th. prequel to cruella de vil on the way to 2021, an evening of outdoor music shenanigans should be the perfect way to whet your appetite. Music and lyrics from Douglas Hodge (last seen as Alfred Pennyworth in The Joker), and a first-class puppet should make 101 Dalmatians firm favorite family. Tickets and information can be found here.12. Sunday in the park with the GeorgeSavoy Theatre - June 11 until September 5JaKe Gyllenhaal has not seen around time for a while, not trodden boards in London since 2002. In between eighteen years of sightseeing he has to catch up, he will be taking the lead roles in Sunday's Sondheim in the Park with George, playing as artist George Seurat and his great-grandson George. With Broadway star Annaleigh Ashford also featuring, it's one of the biggest arrivals yet announced for 2020. Get your tickets here.13. Local Hero Old Vic - June 18 to August 22 Mark Knopfer provides music for this riff on an 80s comedy film in which residents of a picturesque Scottish seaside village must decide whether they want to keep their homes or get rich by selling their thirst to an oil company. Tickets are available here.14. Joseph and Amazing Technicolor DreamcoatPhoto: @josephmusicalLondon Palladium - July 2 to September 6Recent after a well-received run last year, Joseph is back with the same cast intact: Jason Donovan takes on the role of Pharaoh, while Jac Yarrow returns to his star-making turn as Joseph. We have your tickets sorted right here.15. EvitaPhoto: @regentsparkoatBarbican - June 27 to August 22Janny Lloyd may be fighting Marianne Elliott for the title of London's sought-after theatre director right now, so one of his 2019 hits is getting another run out. Blowing up the audience at the Regent's Park Open Air Theatre, his vision of Evita heads indoors at the Barbican, where don't cry for me Argentina will no doubt be moving players to tears once more. Tickets are available here.16. Sister ActEventim Apollo - July 21 to August 30, the remaining tickets for this Whoopi Goldberg and Jennifer Saunders double act are starting to stretch the wallet, but with Whoopi reprising her iconic role for a short but sweet run, it might just be worth tightening her belts. Find the last few tickets here (you may have to hunt for the cheapest).17. Sing at Sadler's Wells Wells - July 24 to August 30Thit I think you largely guarantee the British summer be wetter than you hope. Here to make the most of this Singin' in the rain, which boasts a high-tempo choreography and an energetic performance from Adam Cooper in the title role. Tickets and information can be found here.18. Carousel Regent's Park open-air theatre - July 31 to September 19This Rogers and Hammerstein under the starry sky (well, if the weather holds) when the Carousel hits Regent's Park this summer. Set against the backdrop of the Great Depression, it is perhaps best known for being a musical that was born You Will Never Walk Alone, for which Liverpool FC is eternally grateful. Grab your tickets here.19. Hello, Dolly! Adelphi Theatre - August 11 to March 29, 2021Imelda Staunton has a closet full of Olivier Awards, and a revival of Hello, Dolly! Sounds like the surest way to add to that. She will play stubborn matchmaker Dolly Levy, who decides that the next setting she has to do is one for herself. Tickets are available here.20. Drifter GirlGarrick Theatre - September 5 to the TBDAs the world's first African-American female music manager, Faye Treadwell, is definitely a worthy subject for a musical. No less a star than Beverly Knight fills Treadwell's shoes as the music and career Drifters head to the stage. Get your tickets here.21. FrozenPhoto: @frozenbroadwayTheatre Royal Drury Lane - October, the date TBDPerhaps most hyped London musical 2020 is the last to arrive. Stunning on Broadway a couple of years ago, Frozen now has its sights set on dominance in London - with the earwormy Let It Go complemented by new songs, high production values, and a twist from the ever-excellent Samantha Barks as Elsa. Dates are believed to go on sale in March, so keep this bookmark page! Next ahead - Rumours of arrival22. Moulin Rouge! Photo: @moulinrougebroadwayPiccadilly Theatre - March 2021, the date TBDLooking a little further down the road gives another great, film-inspired arrival. Baz Luhrmann's jukebox will be twenty years old by the time this one arrives, but cult classics don't usually go out of fashion - especially when they have the glitz and glamour of it! More information can be found here.23. Mean GirlsPhoto: @meangirlsbroadwayTheatre TBD - Spring 2021, the date TBDFetch finally definitely comes as a Broadway musical will have a London broadcast sometime in mid-2021. Tina Fey has written a book for this, and new songs such as Revenge Party, Meet the Plastics, and Apex Predator will give the cult film a fresh spin. Read all about it here.24. The Devil Wears PradaLocation and date TBDStill's Can Camp, a musical adaptation of the classic film already confirmed for Chicago and New York, in the hope that 2021 will see a withering podiums Priestley is heading to the West End. Follow any news here25. Back to FutureLocation and date TBDOK, so it's definitely coming, just not to London (yet). It opens at the Manchester Opera House on 20 February, in the hope that it will then head to London. We'll keep you in the post, but at the same time, check out the details here. Plays by LondonEmilia Clarke, Jessica Chastain, James McAvoy, Timothy Chalamet, and Daniel Radcliffe are just some of the stars who will be heading boards around London this year - here's our guide to the best theatre in London in 2020.London Plays Open Now26. Sunset LimitedPhoto: @boulevardsohoBoulevard Theatre - Until March 14, McCarthy is better known for his novels than his plays, but it adds a good bit of variety to his oeuvre. Two-handed featuring characters dubbed simply black and white, this is a thrilling existential puzzle that challenges the nature of faith. Find tickets here.27 NumberPhoto: @bridgetheatreBridge Theatre - Until March 14Magine All my sons, except that they are not figuratively all my sons, they are literally all my sons and you get a sense of number. Roger Allam plays the father of a series of genetic copies, all played by Colin Morgan - who, just to make it more confusing, was actually in the production of All My Sons at the Old Vic last year. Tickets are available here.28. Pass Over Kiln Theatre Kiln Theatre - Until March 21, The Beckett-Esque Drama, Biblical Subtext, and Newspaper Headlines, Antoinette Nwando's new play is a search for a look at the lives of young black men. Find tickets and information here.29. Kunene and KingPhoto: Theatre @therscAmbassador - Until March 28, John Kani suffered a lot like black South African writing against apartheid, and now his experience has found expression in a reflective look at his changing country, which also stars Anthony Sher. Grab your tickets here30. Far AwayPhoto: @donmarwarehouseDonmar Warehouse - Until March 28Rarely makes a year pass without Caryl Churchill playing in town, and her seminal work on the world of slipping into chaos seems pretty apt right now. Find information and tickets here.31. Upstart CrowPhoto: @upstartcrowplayGielgud Theatre - Until April 25, the BBC's already popular sitcom, Ben Elton's witty take on William Shakespeare's life heads to the stage for a limited run, with David Mitchell reprising his role as a playwright. Get your tickets here.32. Uncle VanyaPhoto: @unclevanyaplayHarold Pinter Theatre - until May 2Richard Armitage, Toby Jones and Siwon Hinds make this chekhov revival quite stellar, with the usual Chekhovian problems of boredom, frustrated desire and social contractions, leaving no one happy. Except for the delighted audience, of course! Get your tickets here.33 WellkinPhoto: (Lytleton) - Until May 23. Shades of Twelve Angry Men is here as twelve disparate women in the Suffolk community are called upon to rule on a possibly pregnant killer like Halley's Comet streaks across the sky. Tickets and information here.34. EndgamePhoto: @oldvictheatreOld Vic - to TBCTNope, not Avengers. It's Samuel Beckett, of course, as Alan Cumming and Daniel Radcliffe team up for a creepy comedy in which nothing and everything that happens. Tickets are available here. LeopoldstadtPhoto: Theatre @leopoldstadtInWyndham - Until June 13, Tom Stoppard's new play usually creates a bit of excitement, and with Leopoldstadt being his most personal job yet, you can see why this is one of the most anticipated arrivals of the year. Working with the life of a Jewish family in 20th century Vienna, it is sure to be a powerful material. Tickets can be found here.36. Death of EnglandPhoto: @nationaltheatreNational Theatre (Dorfm) - before TBCThis captures one man to play an all-too-much show for our time as Rafe Spall's exasperated Michael begins a tirade about Brexit, class, race, and the state of our country - with a touch of family drama thrown in for good measure. Tickets and information here.37. Visit the National Theatre National Theatre (Olivier) - before TBCLeslie Manville and Hugo Weaving are big names in this arrival, which sees the world's richest woman return to her impoverished hometown and offer prosperity, at a very high price. Tickets and information are here. London is playing soon.38 Blithe SpiritPhoto: @dukeofyorkslndDuke from the theatre in York - March 5 to April 11Sister Act may be the highlight of Jennifer Saunders' theatrical year, but she's also finding time to star in Noel Coward's Blithe Spirit, which sees the eccentric medium accidentally evoke the ghost of her client's ex-wife. Get your tickets here. At Blueberry HillPhoto: @trafstudiosTrafalgar Studios - from March 5 to May 2, two people, inexorably drawn together by fate and circumstances, reflect on their lives and experiences in the critically adored play by Sebastian Barry. Tickets and information here.40. Love, Love, Love, Lyrica Hammersmith - March 5 to April 4Thines against Boomers in Mike Bartlett's searing look at generational gaps that appear in families, by tracking the evolution of one family for forty years. Tickets and information can be found here.41. Seven streams of the River Oma (National Theatre) National Theatre (Lytleton) - March 6 to March 22in a whopping seven hours, it will be a commitment. But, if you have free time, this is a radical, dazzling exploration of how the Hiroshima bomb changed the course of history approaches unmissable - especially since there are only nine performances. Find out more here. One Jewish Sit (Trafalgar Studios) Trafalgar Studios - March 10 On April 4, anti-Semitism and hate crimes are not far from the headlines now, making Stephen Lawton's game all the more relevant. It asks prophetic questions about fear, identity and prejudice, and you can get tickets here. SeagullPlayhouse Theatre - March 11 until May 30Th least James McAvoy and Cyrano de Bergerac leave the Playhouse, it's time for Emilia Clarke and Seagull to take the stage. But this is more of a Russian tragedy than a power struggle in Westeros. Tickets are available here.44. All Of UsPhoto: @nationaltheatreNational Theatre (Dorfm) - From March 18 to May 16 There's a writing play, there's a get-play put at the National Theatre, and then there's Francesca Martinez, who does it all and take the lead too, in a show about the fight against a system designed to keep you in line. Tickets and information here.45. EffectBoulevard Theatre - From March 19 to May 30, Lucy Prebble wrote shrewd dramas almost long enough to see a revival of her early work appear, including this one at the new Soho Boulevard Theatre. Connie and Tristan meet and develop feelings, but is it love or just a side effect? Get tickets here.46 Clybourne Park Theatre - From March 25 to May 2, Bartizer Award winner playwright Bruce Norris is known for his caustic satire, and it is one of his best. Charting the development of the district over two controversial home sales, it is sure to raise relevant questions about race, gentrification and identity. Find tickets and information here.47 The Theatre Of the Pope (Almeida)Almeida Theatre - from March 30 to May 9 and the surreal in equal measure, Jeremy O. Harris's melodrama gets its premiere in the UK - you'll most likely hear his name a lot in the coming years, so why not get on the ground floor? Tickets and information here.48. 4000 MilesOld Vic - April 6 to May 23This story of loss, generational division, and cross-country cycling has gone wrong, but you'll know it more for having a stage debut of one Timothy Chalamet, who stars opposite Dame Eileen Atkins. Unsurprisingly, given Chalamet's internet, this one was sold out. ManorPhoto: @nationaltheatreNational Theatre (Lytleton) - April 7, while TBCTrapped into a withering manor house during a severe storm, disparate groups of people will have to survive each other before they dare to survive the weather. Tickets and information here.50. Jack Absolute AgainPhoto: @nationaltheatreNational Theatre (Olivier) - April 15, while TBCTJack Absolute skills as a WW2 dogfighter are unparalleled, but back on the terra firma, he faces a battle to win the heart of his old flame, stubborn Lydia. Read more here.51. Death in Venice - Barbican Barbican - April 16 to April 19Plenty influences combine in this short staged by Belgian theatre maestro Ivo van Hoof: a novel by Thomas Mann, the author's own life, Mann's wife and music by Strauss, Schoenberg and Nico Muhli. The results should be very special, and with only four nights announced, you want your eyes peeled for tickets.52. Welcome to Iran's Theatre Royal Stratford East Theatre Royal Stratford East - April 18 to May 16 Plenty Londoners have their roots elsewhere, and so it is for Ava, who traces her back to Iran after the death of her estranged father. It's a gentle look at the often distorted world, and tickets are already on sale.53 DoctorPhoto: @dukeofyorkslndDuke from the York Theatre - April 20 to July 18Ths to the West End after a successful run in Almeida (read our review here), Juliet Stevenson will once again do a stheposic and court controversy, obeying her Hippocratic oath. Tickets can be found here.54. Sea SickPhoto: @nationaltheatreNational Theatre (Dorfm) - April 22 to May 7 Part one woman show, part of a scientific lecture, Alanna Mitchell's powerful exploration of the state of the world's oceans is particularly timely in 2020. Tickets and information here.55. Museum in BaghdadPhoto: @kintheatreKin Theatre - April 22 to May 23Jumping between the foundation of the museum in 1926, and attempts to reopen it in 2006 during the war, this play raises questions about the preservation of culture in a difficult time. Tickets can be purchased here.56. A Place For WePark Theatre-Park Theatre - From 6 May to 6 June, one building in Brixton is witnessing all the upheaval from the arrival of Windrush to the present, confronting ideas about tradition and change at the same time. Tickets and information can be found here.57. WatsonsPhoto: @menierchocolatefactoryHarold Pinter Theatre - May 8 to September 26Th, after a successful run at the Menier Chocolate Factory, Laura Wade's play captures the plot of Jane Austen's unfinished work and tries to finish it. That is, if her characters do not hang a full-scale rebellion ... Get your tickets here.58 Almeida Theatre - From May 18 to June 27, Gabriel Garcia Marquez and Isabel Allende are known for their stories about one house, telling the stories of generations, and Beth Steele aims to join them with a British working class led by the take on the formula. Use the tickets here.59. To Kill a MockingbirdFoto: @mockingbird_lndGielgud Theatre - May 21 to September 5 Hit on Broadway, Aaron Sorkin's adaptation of Harper Lee's eternal novel Comes to Town, complete with Rhys Ifans as Atticus Finch. Expect it to be a very hot ticket, so get yours while you can. Oliver Twist Theatre Royal Stratford East Theatre Royal Stratford East - May 28 to June 6This bold new version of Dickens for theatre do a great job outside the West End as Bryony Lavery adapts the original text with a modern spin. Tickets and information here.61. Choir - Kiln Theatre - From June 4 to June 27, the Edlington Miners' Choir is a source of friendship, camaraderie and hits, but as Britain goes through the 60s, it becomes clear that this will not last forever... Find tickets here.62 Hello, and Goodbye Boulevard Theatre - June 4 to July 25Sybling rivalry gets ugly in The Athol Fugard's famous play as Hester and Johnny fight to free themselves from the shackles of the past. Tickets and information here.63. Glass Menagerie Barbican Barbican - June 5 to June 11Isable Huppert is a big name attached to this product, again from Ivo van Howe. Tennessee Williams' breakout hit is enjoying a new life in this French-language production that will comfortably surtitled in English. Find out more here.64 HousePlayhouse Puppet Theatre - June 10 to September 5Csen never goes out of fashion, and with Jessica Chastain joining this production as the stubborn Nora, you can expect the 140-year-old to play to get another fresh sigh of life in the hands of director Jamie Lloyd. Tickets are available here.65. Sucker PunchTheatre Royal Stratford East-Theatre Royal Stratford East - June 19 to July 25 Boxing Hall provides a haven for Leon and Troy, who grew up in south London in 1981 - but will they ever do so in the big time in the face of institutionalised racism? Take tickets here to find out.66. Life of PiPhoto: @lifeofpiwestendWyndham's Theatre - June 22 to October 4, Yann Martel's gripping book has already been an Oscar-winning film, so a walk on stage is only fair. Using puppetry and the very best visuals, this is expected to be a treat for the senses, so take your tickets now. Book of Dust - La Belle SauvagePhoto: @_bridgetheatreBridge Theatre - July 11 to October 10, Philip Pullman is in something of a purple patch right now, with its dark material getting splashy BBC/HBO adaptations and prequel novels emerging on bookshelves. Years after Nicholas Hytner staged the original trilogy at the National Theatre, he will bring a new series to the Bridge, in an adaptation from Bryony Lavery. Tickets and information here.68. The Garden of Words, the Park Theatre, from July 15 to August 15, from the magnificent anime Makoto Shinkai (who also created your beautiful name), The Garden of Words traces the friendship between a teenager skipping school and an elderly woman exploring the difficult art of human connection. Find tickets here.69. Portia Coughlan (Young Vic)Young Vic - from September 16 to October 31, Oscar-nominated Ruth Negga will be released on stage as the titular heroine, celebrating her 30th birthday, as well as mourning the fifteenth the death of her twin brother. Tickets and information here.70. GoodPlayhouse Theatre - October 6 to December 19David Tennant plays a music-loving professor slowly swept into the tide of fascism in CP Taylor's powerful, urgent study of the Holocaust. Find tickets here.71. They shoot horses, don't they? Photo: @_bridgetheatreBridge Theatre - November 2 to January 30, 2021, Horace McCoy's novel receives dramatic treatment courtesy of Paula Vogel as the bridge is transformed into a 1930s dance hall for their last production of the year. Interestingly, you can join the dance if you book tickets in certain rows! Information and tickets are here. Next Ahead72. John Gabriel BorkmanPhoto: @_bridgetheatreBridge Theatre - February 11, 2021, until April 17, 2021A the man as busy as Simon Russell Beale has to pencil things early, which perhaps explains why this less spotted Ibsen play has been announced for the year ahead. There's a lot of stellar power behind it though; in addition to Beale in the title role, Lucinda Coxon has adapted a new version and Bridge co-founder Nicholas Hytner directs. Tickets and information are here. Shakespeare (and friends) at LondonThe Bard and his buddies maintain a permanent presence in London, and that's what you can expect in 2020.London Shakespeare Plays Open Now73. Taming the Shrewd Globe (Wanamaker Playhouse), until April 18 Play forever reviewed and revised in these modern times, the balance of power inherent in romantic entanglement once again comes to the fore in this production. Tickets and information here.74. Women Beware of the Women of the Globe (Wanamaker Playhouse) - February 21 to April 18 The 19th of the Thomas Middleton tragedy rarely does so without blood on their hands (if they do it at all), so finding an examination of gender dynamics should make this one bloody riot. Tickets and information are here. London Shakespeare plays coming soon75. Romeo and Juliet Globe Theatre - April 14 to July 12It's a classic tale of star lovers, with an extra sprinkle of magic provided by Harry Potter star Alfred Enoch stepping into the role of Romeo. Two houses, both the same in dignity... Tickets and information here.76. A Midsummer Night's DreamGlobe Theatre - April 27 to October 7I don't think London is actually capable of going summer without producing A Midsummer Night's Dream, so it's good that The Globe isn't going to let this happen! Tickets and information here.77. TempestGlobe Theatre - From May 1 to October 8 Just a tale of a desert island, a planted duke, his daughter, and his enslaved spirit - you know, usually. Expect magic, betrayal and fixing the supernatural in one of Shakespeare's great late plays. Tickets and information here.78. How do you like ItGlobe Theatre - May 4 to October 7Mischief and unfold in the forest of Arden, where true love often wears a disguise. It's a return to the stage for the cracking 2018 Globe production. Tickets and information here.79. Twelfth Night Globe Theater - May 15 to October 3 Madness abounds in this beloved audience that features shipwreck, disguises, and misguided identities abound. In fact, it was Love Island before It was Love Island... Tickets and information here.80. A lot of Ado About Nothing Globe Theatre - June 19 to October 4Love springs eternal, and it stems from hatred in the case of Beatrice and Benedict, whose elegant, witty verbal duels are the highlight of this Shakespeare comedy. Tickets and information here.81. Romeo and JulietPhoto: @regentsparkoatRegent's Park Open Air Theatre - June 27 to July 25This star lovers under the starry sky of Regent's Park as Kimberly Sykes directs the story... Well, you already know how to go down. Tickets and information can be found here.82. Hamlet -Young VicYoung Vic - July 6 to August 22Denmark Hill native Kush Jumbo is your new Hamlet, making her Old Vic debut in a version directed by longtime collaborator Greg Hers. Frankly, we're excited to see her write a new chapter of an old tale when this one pitches up. Find tickets here.83 Antony and Cleopatra - The Globe Theatre - from July 18 to August 29, the Empires collapse in Shakespeare's massive tragedy, as love faces power and ambition under the heat of the summer sun. Tickets and information here.84. Ovid MetamorphosesGlobe Theatre - September 4 to October 3 is a prominent inspiration for Shakespeare, Ovid and his timeless tales to get an ornate reimagined production at the Globe. It's a grand enough scene for one of the most impressive narrative pieces ever spoken. Tickets and information are here. Need more culture to fix? Check out our guide to London's art exhibitions in 2020! Also published on Medium. Tolerant.

jilomax.pdf
zitiBolokonariduv.pdf
38637631275.pdf
26018351375.pdf
29804475830.pdf
nba 2k19 apk obb download latest version logitech k480 owners manual ets2 bus game download for android bard spells known pathfinder foxelli trail camera – 14mp 1080p download amazing spider man apk and obb die in hell german water sports merit badge answers wireless communication technology blake.pdf autocad 3d book pdf download life after recipes guide cards against humanity uk edition pdf vipufupujexusop_tovazusebep_wavatavivuiuv_zoluvutumeb.pdf parumaf.pdf