Did you know that there are musical symbols that you add to your Microsoft Word document without adding graphic images? Let's see. First, place the insertion point in the place in the document where you want to insert a musical symbol. On the Insert tab, click the Symbol button on the tape, and then select More Characters from the Drop Menu. Open the Font menu in the Symbol window and select MS UI Gothic. Open the Subset menu and select the Different Characters option. Scroll down a bit (four or five lines) and you'll see seven musical characters: The Quarter Note Eighth Note Beamed Eighth Note Beamed Sixteenth Notes Music Flat Sign Music Music Sharp Sign Click on the musical symbol of your choice, and then click the Insert button (or just double-click the symbol) to insert the character at the insertion point. You can insert as many characters as you want while the Symbol window is still open. When you're done embedding the characters, click Cancel. In this example, we inserted the Beamed Eighth Note. The size of the symbol inserted depends on the original font size in the document. To zoom in on the character, select the character, click on the font size drop down, and select a large font size. In the example below, we went up with 72 points. You can even go ahead and copy and paste your character several times to create a great musical boundary for your document. And that's all there is to it! I did this a long time ago when I needed a booth to hold up the Ocarina Tabs that I had printed out. It's pretty effective. One of my friends gave me a stand and I decided to make it a bit so he could keep himself. I tilted the bottom pieces and glued a thin piece of cardboard to the bottom to help keep things going. Then I just glued the bottom 2 things to a pair of wooden blocks. I'm sorry if you came here looking for a homemade booth that you could do as well. Trust me, I tried to make one and it never came out straight until I got this piece. So if for any reason you want to turn a note booth app into an almost portable music booth, I hope it helps. Dynamic signs are musical signs used to indicate how much note or phrase should be performed on. Dynamic signs dictate volume (volume or softness), but also a change in volume over time (gradually louder or gradually softer). For example, volume can change slowly or dramatically, at different speeds. Dynamic signs can be found on music sheets for any instruments. Instruments as different as cello, piano, French horn and xylophone can all play notes in different volumes and thus are subject to dynamic signs. There is no record confirming who the first composer to use or invent marks were, but Giovanni Gabrieli was one of the first users of the users musical notation. Gabrieli was a Venetian composer during the Renaissance and in the early stages of the Baroque era. During the romantic period, composers began to use dynamic signs more and increase their diversity. The table below lists widely used dynamic signs.
