SummaryWorks is big, no need to install, just run .exe. But, do these things first before you combine: 1: Put all the files you want to combine into one folder, all by themselves. 2: Name the files so that the computer name conventions put them in the right order. The package file renaming utility is very useful for this. Remember that the aa-9 file number comes after the aa-8999 file in computer order, so it should be called 0009, and so on. 3: Direct free merging of files into the right folder. 4: Name your output file. 5. When you can't find a output file after the files are merging seems to be done, look for it either in the same catalog where filemerge.exe lives, or on your desktop. Enjoy the result.
