Gambling is potentially addictive and has been statistically proven to be a very reliable way to lose money. The sad truth is that the house always wins, after all. The longer you play, the lower your chances of getting away with a winner. Statistics have shown, for example, that if you spend all day playing roulette, you will leave on average 5.26 percent less money than when you started. Similarly, an amateur blackjack player will lose 10 to 20 percent on average over many hands (source: Walsh). Slot machines have the absolute worst odds with average losses as high as 35 percent in the long run. But if you enter a casino with the right attitude (I won't spend more than $X) and have the right strategy, you can tip the odds closer to your favor. Professional players know that the best tactic for making quick money in a casino is a big, one-off bet. One blackjack hand, even when playing amateur, has about 50/50 chances of winning. The same applies to the walk-through line on the table (source: Derrousseau). If by some miracle you win big on the first try, fight every desire to double your money and walk away victorious. Gambling can be a lot of fun. If done responsibly, you get a rush of trying to beat the odds. Sometimes you win, sometimes you lose, but it's hardly ever a case. You usually can't play with real money with any game in the Google Play Store. This is actually against the terms of service in both Google Play and the Apple App Store. Thus, most gambling and gambling apps do not use real money. However, there are some gambling games that you can play where you can play with fake money. Let's take a look at the best gambling for Android: Big Fish Games, DraftKings, FanDuel, Huuuge Games, GSN Games, Price: Free to play, Big Fish Games is a developer on Google Play. They are responsible for most of the gambling you will see just by searching for the term. They have an extensive collection. You'll find a few card games, slots games, and even a full-blown casino game. They are all free to play and that's easily the worst part about them. However, most people seem to enjoy playing them. This is a good place to start if you are looking for different types of games. The link above will get you a developer page so you can see the entire collection. DraftKings Price: Free / Varies DraftKings is a fantasy sports app. As it works, you join, pay to join the fantasy league and then you win the money if you win the league. You can play most sports including football, baseball, hockey, basketball and others. The company has undergone quite a lot of controversy over the way they do things. However, most people seem to A. Games can be quite cheap to enter so even those on a budget can get into fun. It's actual gambling with real money so so Be sure to play responsibly! FanDuel Price: Free / Varies FanDuel competes with DraftKings and the game does about the same. You will be able to enter fantasy leagues for various sports using real money. You can win or lose money depending on how well you are doing. There are a number of games that you can play, including 50/50 where you win a couple of bucks just to finish in the top half of the rankings. Like DraftKings, you will play with real money in this so make sure you play responsibly. Also, like DraftKings, FanDuel has seen some controversy from some detractors. You have to see what's up to the committing. Huuuge Games Price: Free play Huuuge games is another developer on Google Play. As you may have guessed, they are developing tons of gambling. They specialize in slots games and have different to choose from. Each app has many slots to play. Many of them give you free coins to start with as well. The pleasure of these games seems to be determined about how often people considering the game are won. It's not real money, so you don't risk anything important. You can buy more coins with real money if you want, but that's your decision. GSN Games Price: Free to play games is a developer of various gambling. They specialize in gambling that revolves around slots and video poker. There are two main types of games. Casino games offer a little more variety and tend to include video poker and slots. They even have a game of solitaire, which is worth a try. Games have their drawbacks, but they are usually worth playing. The link takes you to the Google Play page so you can check out all your games. Inlogic Casino Gambling Price: Free to play Inlogic Casino is a developer on Google Play with a pair of decent gambling. First, it's a blackjack game. This is a no-frills game where you play against bots rather than real people. There are some settings such as poker chip themes and various little mini-games to earn more stuff. The game of roulette is a little more fastidious, but it's still nice how much roulette games go. Both games have a ton of ads, but luckily you can pay to remove them if you really like the game. Mywavia Studios Price: Free to play Mywavia Studios is a developer who makes gambling. This studio has a bunch of different types of games. You'll find Baccarat, Texas Hold'em, slots, bingo, blackjack, and more. Texas Hold'em games in particular seem to be popular with people. It has over 100,000 downloads, includes live online play with other players, and the game gives you free chips every day to play if you bust. A good developer to check out a bit of variety from the usual array of slots. Poker Price World Series: Free to play the World Series of Poker, probably the best online poker game you can find it. Unlike most, it delivers chips every four hours, which helps reduce the wait if you run out. In addition, there are tournaments, special events, online games, and all sorts of other goodies. He supports both Texas Hold'em or Omaha. There is also cross-platform support. You can play on your mobile phone, online or on Facebook later. You can even play anonymously. It's a solid experience, although the free play aspect can get a little annoying at times. Yahoo Fantasy Sports Price: Free / Varies Yahoo Fantasy Sports is a pretty decent, free fantasy sports app. You don't pay anything to start your own league. However, the ability to invite your friends allows you to create paid leagues between you and your friends. Otherwise, you can just play for free. The app has some bugs, but usually it allows you to check your commands, set up a list, and even make the registry moves. Sometimes, Yahoo will invite you to come play in the paid leagues as well. It's not necessarily gambling on its own, but you can easily convert it into one with a few bucks and a few friends. SingaCena: Free to play the game is one of the most popular game developers out there. You may know this as the company that made Farmville. As it turns out, they have some gambling under their belt as well. Or rather, they have a bunch of slots game. They have individually themed slots games based on movies and TV show characters. They also have some casino slots that have multiple slots, themes and features. Apps are free to play, which is not great. However, singa is better than most when it comes to this kind of thing. Mrmohock/Shutterstock.com everyone needs a few extra bucks from time to time. However, we are not stupid enough to try to make you believe that you will earn a living by sitting at home doing nothing. There are no apps that can make you that much money. However, we know a few that can make you a dollar or two here and there. Over time, that can build up enough to treat yourself to something good or potentially even be a good secondary income. Here are the best money to make apps on Android. Please note that these are basically ideas for small business owners, independent contractors and those looking for a bit of passive income. These are not very good ideas for a full-time job. Google Opinion Awards is a great app, if all you want is a few Bucks for apps or games on the Play Store. Amazon SellerBayEtsyBottamake Money: Passive Income Ideas PayPal Square Point Sale Surveys on GoUberYouTube Price: Free Amazon is one of the largest retailers in the world. You can be a part of it if you want. The Amazon Seller account allows you to sell items on the service next to all other items. Goods. It's a great way to clean the garage, make a few bucks, or even start a sales business. They allow you to do it for free. However, you pay $0.99 for every item you sell. Those who sell tons of items can fairly do better with their $39.99-a-month subscription that lowers the $0.99 charge. Either way, it's right up there with eBay when it comes to money making apps. eBay Price: Free Lots of people have tons of things that cost money. eBay can help you turn this stuff into real money. Almost everyone knows how eBay works. You put your stuff on the listing. People then buy it and you send it. You can sell almost anything you want from books and fabrics to electronics and even furniture or cars. We recommend selling large items locally because shipping can be challenging, but otherwise this is where you want to start when selling stuff. This is definitely among the best money making apps and most recognizable for sure. Etsy Price: Free Many people are artists, craftsmen, and creators of some kind. Such people can use an online store like Etsy to sell their various arts and crafts. You can find different things out there and pretty much it's handmade, limited edition, or one of a kind. Shopkeepers can sell whatever they really want. The app itself is called Sale on Etsy. This allows you to manage your store, your orders, and your listings. You can also communicate with potential buyers and do other things. It's a great way for an artistically inclined to make a few bucks. The app will help them do this. Ibotta Price: Free Ibotta is very similar to other discount apps. The basic idea with both applications is the same. You do things like go shopping and buy things that you are going to anyway. The app will help you earn cash back on these purchases. The process is that you choose the things you are going to buy, go buy them and then check the purchase. The app then sends you money via Paypal, Venmo, or gift card. Like most, it won't earn you much money. However, when used with other money making apps, you can get quite a penny. It's worth the shot at least. Making Money: Passive Income Ideas Price: Free Make Money: Passive Income Ideas is exactly what the title offers. Unlike scammers, where they make bold promises that they can't keep, this app tells you it's in the realm of opportunity. Along with a list of 60 jobs that you can do from home, it also offers a list of relevant skills that you need to do them. Some are easier than others. For example, starting a blog or YouTube channel has a few ideas. It won't generate money in itself, but it will help give you ideas on how to do it without a ton of effort. This is one of the promising apps for making money. PayPal Price: Free PayPal is a powerful platform. Most people know this because of eBay. However, you can use the platform to run almost practically Business. It can accept payments from almost anywhere in the world and you can use it to manage accounts, payments and sales from various websites if you want. There is another PayPal app called PayPal Business that is made specifically for small business owners. It won't make you money on your own, but it can help if you have an idea for a business. Square Point of Sale Price: Free Square Point of Sale is an app that allows you to accept credit card payments from people. You will need to get a small device that connects to your phone, but after that, you can swipe the card and collect the money. Using this, you can sell almost anything you want pretty much where you want. Like Paypal, the app itself will not generate money for you. You will have to find ready-made customers. However, being able to take money in situations where you usually can't do it is helpful. The app is free to download and sign up gets you a free reader magstrip. Polls on Go Price: Free Surveys on the go is an app that lets you complete polls for money. Unlike many where you get points or Google Opinion Awards, this one pays out in cash. Admittedly, there are only a few surveys in any month. So don't expect to be rolling into the dough. However, it's good for those who just want to earn a few extra bucks here and there. The app itself is a bit softly designed, but it's easy enough to use. It's not an absolute necessity, but it's one of the stable money making apps as long as you don't expect the moon. Uber or Lyft Price: Free The service industry is getting to mobile. Uber and Lyft are transportation services that hire real, real people. You drive other people around and make money doing it. In addition, there are drivers for food delivery such as GrubHub, UberEATS, etc. that work the same way. Even pet sitting apps like Rover and DogVacay need people to sit behind other people's animals. The service industry is starting to boom on the mobile phone and everything I've listed above has an app. All they do for a lot of money make applications. It's worth checking out their sites to see if they're hiring (they almost always have one). UberEATS, Postmates, and similar food and delivery services are also great ideas if you don't mind driving. YouTube Price: Free $12.99 per month YouTube is a decent source of passive income if you don't mind hard work. It's probably hard to get into well known areas like technology, news, etc. however, if you can find a good niche and a decent audience, you can make a few bucks every month. Not tens of millions of subscribers, but the right kind of content, consistency, and good work ethic can score you enough to get through. It's tough, competitive, and it requires some creativity. However, many people make a fine living from YouTube. If we missed any of the best money making apps on Tell us about them in the comments! To see our full list of the best lists of apps, click here.
