

I'm not robot  reCAPTCHA

Continue

Dodge charger grille guard

Image not available for aColor: Emergency Lights Turnkey Vehicle Equipment Body Armor Tactical Gear Store By Brand Turning Into a Dealer More Info Description Q&A Product Reviews Go Rhino Dodge Charger Push bumper with optional brush guard wrap Go Rhino 5000 Series Push Bumper is made of high quality steel or aluminum materials. The 5000 Series Road Defender is the gold standard when it comes to bumper push police vehicles and is trusted by those who protect and serve their protection and easy installation. Characteristics of the 5000 series: • Cross-panels feature multiple mounting points to facilitate the assembly of auxiliary lighting or additional equipment• Upper crossbar made of 2-inch high-grade steel tube• Made of a construction of auxiliary lighting one piece fully welded with 4 vertical steel widths • Replaceable PVC trimming • Optional: Heavy surround brush guard (texture or shine)• Surround brush guards are designed to protect the vehicle during chest maneuvers and offer extra protection against deer and other road hazards • Textured powder layer finish available in steel and aluminum bumpers; Semi-brightness finish available only in steel bumpers• It will not interfere with the SRS• Simple air bag system, lorem ipsum pain unforeseen installation sit amet consectetur adipiscing elite. Nam fringilla augue nec tristique auctor. Donec non est a libero vulputate rutrum. Morbi ornare lectus quis justo gravida semper. Nulla tellus mi, vulputate an adipiscing cursus eu, suscipit id nulla donec a neque libero pellentesque aliquet, sem eget laoreet ultrices, ipsum metus feugiat sem, quis fermentum turpis eros eget velit. I give ac tempus ante. Fusce ultricies too much. Fusce aliquam, purus eget sagittis vulputate sap libero hendrerit est sed commodo augue nisi non neque. Quisque mutrumosPellentesque inhabitant morbi tristique senectus et misused fames DehonusFaucibus morci luctus an multices Destibulum metusQuisque rutrum rhoncus risus loremous a comodous Blandit nequesNam dolupat melit felis pharetra a destibulumos Whos mutrumosPellentesque inhabitant morbi tristique senectus et misused fames DehonusFaucibus morci luctus an multices Destibulum metusQuisque rutrum rhoncus risus loremous a comodous We have detected some suspicious activity coming from his IP address and have temporarily blocked it as a safety precaution. Please check the box to let us know you are human (sorry, there are no robots allowed). • Does anyone know any information about the brush guards that the Georgia State Patrol and Oregon use in their vehicles? They look amazing. If you haven't seen them go to google and type it or look below. Does anyone know who makes them and where can you get them? I'm pretty sure it's not Setina, Proguard, or Go Rhino, but maybe it could be. I have no idea who makes them. But they are certainly Way Way worthy!d riving: • Someone was selling one of these maybe about 6 months ago – hopefully it mocks • Start of discussion • #5 • December 14, 2011 yes I've looked at rhino brush guard, and it's the closest I've come I've ever come across, but I don't think it's the particular one. That would be great if the person who sold them came back in. This is ridiculous! It looks like it belongs to a Hummer... just my $0.02.... • • Honestly, these are a mean look. I just don't have the nerve to do it in my non-police car. • Yikes, this is a Mad Max, brush guards of sorts ready for the end of the world. I think with those I would want to install window blinds and a gun turret on the side. • Honestly, these are a mean look. I just don't have the nerve to do it in my non-police car. I saw a guy with that same grill around town. I saw him driving twice and both times we were in opposite directions. • This is a Go-Rhino, we have this same model on our 2006-2009 chargers. The one on the website replaced the previous model and is now what is available. • Start of discussion • #13 • December 16, 2011 For GSP officers, since they are older model brush guards than departments ever sell them to upgrade to new ones? • For GSP officers, since these are older model brush guards make departments ever sell them to upgrade to new ones? As older chargers are replaced by the new body style, the old Push Bumpers will make their way to www.govdeals.com. You can probably find one there along with some retired chargers. • What's the fascination with putting these things in your non-police charger? Kansas City_Charger said: What's the fascination with putting these things on your non-police charger? Purely the look. It's brutal. To be fair I don't think there's much more point in police chargers. The vast majority of service cars will never use them. Yes, this makes them protective equipment, but most police cars will never need them. The same goes for civilian cars, so there's not much difference. • Start of discussion • #18 • December 17, 2011 yes Justin I agree with you that it could be a really good wow or a horribly complete bust. Fast50. This was a great site and they had a lot of stuff from the charger, but unfortunately that specific brush guard wasn't there yet; but I'll keep an eye on it. I agree that they have no purpose than ever before, especially for civilian use; unless you live in the country like me where there are deer everywhere. But they add a really rugged and intimidating look to the car. I think I'll buy this particular rhino guard for my since it is only a bolt on guard. This way if it looks awesome I can keep it up, or if it sucks I can just take it out and return it without damaging the car. I can also add some extra driving lights • Purely the look. It's brutal. To be fair I don't think there's much more in police chargers. The vast majority of service cars will never use them. Yes, this makes them protective equipment, but most police cars will never need them. The same goes for civilian cars, so there's not much difference. There are 3 main reasons we put them in police cars, 1.To lightly disabled vehicles on the road. 2. Animal protection. 3. T.V.I. maneuvers (AKA P.I.T.) This item does not belong to this page. Thanks, let's look into this. This.