Social Research/Social Science is one of the items in Document II CTET. History is a major part of the social research/social science curriculum in CTET exams. So we need to focus on the history of India. Indian history is of interest to many because of the cultures and civilizations that existed on this subcontinent. India's history can be studied by political, cultural, religious or economic leaders. Chronologically, Indian history can be classified into three periods - ancient India, medieval India and modern India. NCERT books should be followed for detailed study and preparation of history. Here, the current article introduces the ancient history of India followed by several sample questions on the same: Ancient India: One can assume the beginning of India's history with the Indus Valley civilization and the arrival of the Aryans. These two phases (the Indus Valley Civilization and the arrival of the Aryans) are widely known as the Dodn and Vedic periods. Rig Veda most likely consists between 1500 BC and 1000 BC is the earliest literary source that sheds light on India's past. Ancient India can also be studied under other heads like the Paleolithic, Mesolithic, Neolithic and Chalcolite period - based on the type of stone/metal tools people used.
