Linking: The paperback This book presents 1,000 theoretical and practical knowledge of the structures, functions and performance indicators in the locomotive system. The book is built according to different areas of the body: the spine, lower limbs and upper limbs. Each chapter begins with the introduction of clinical anatomical references. Then follow the assessment, interpretation of symptoms, treatment criteria and therapeutic suggestions, which are then targeted according to symptoms, pain, movement restriction, lack of strength, resistance or coordination. Heads on the spine represent the most common clinical symptoms of the lumbar, dorsal and cervical area, with scans and examples of treatment. scoliosis, osteoporosis and Bechterew's disease: systemic diseases of the spine are described. More This master offers any student the opportunity to take a set of subjects that offer a customized as a short postgraduate course, which will allow him to get, if required at the end of the course, a degree from the University of Alcala. At the end of these subjects, the student can apply, paying the appropriate fees, to obtain a certificate of short postgraduate course. In addition, if a student later wishes to obtain a master's degree, the items taken in this short postgraduate course will be included in the file automatically and on any basis. Pre-registration and registration of these short postgraduate courses will be carried out under the normal pre-registration and registration procedure. The short courses that the master includes are: Specialization in manual therapy II Until now most people have known mesotherapy as an aesthetic treatment to help eliminate orange skin, localized fats, etc. Pain. What is mesotherapy? Mesotherapy involves subcutaneously injecting one or more homeopathic remedies to achieve biological balance in our body and help you in the process of self-healing. This balance is necessary to improve the various processes of the locomotive system. What is homeopathy? According to SAR, Homeopathy is a therapeutic system that applies to diseases in minimal doses, the same substances that, in large quantities, will produce healthy human symptoms equal or similar to those that are about to fight. What substances are being introduced and what is it? Homeopathic drugs are administered exclusively. Homeopathic preparations come from plants, mineral (mineral salts, metals) and animals (poisons, hormones, cuttlefish ink, etc.). These homeopathic remedies can be given, either by using just one or combining several of them to increase their action. For example, anti-inflammatory and common painkillers and a more specific joint drug can be used to stretch ankle ligaments. But it will be a professional who decides which type of treatment is most suitable for use in each case. What are the benefits of this therapy? As mentioned above, homeopathy is a natural therapy using mineral, plant and animal components in specific concentrations and solutions to try to help the body's self-regulation and balance. It has no toxicity to our body and does not produce any side effects as they may have other types of chemicals. Secondary Reactions to Therapy As secondary reactions we can mention reactions such as redness of the area, slight skin bulge (due to injectable fluid that disappears within a short period of time) and bruising after puncture. There can also be infections if you do not take the necessary measures during disinfection and after treatment. Examples of some pathologies that can be treated: Strains and muscle fractures (to help in their consolidation) Patellar chondromalacia, partial/complete meniscus rupture, gonarthrosis, Pathology Column: Herniated discs, contractures Of Epicondylitis / Epitrocleitis. Rizartriosis tendinitis and sprains. Neuralgia What should I consider when performing this therapy? The main thing is that it is a qualified specialist who performs it, either a doctor, a nurse or a physiotherapist who has the necessary knowledge to carry out such therapy. It should also be noted that the centre in which it is operated is licensed for medical health. The specialist should carry out hygienic activities, such as: the use of gloves, the use of sterile material (syringe and needle), area subject to treatment, the correct removal of the bio-medical material used, the assesis of the postoperative zone.
