While you may secretly believe that negative perception protects you (from people, frustrations, setbacks, etc.), it doesn't really serve you one bit. Having a positive approach and interpretation to life events, people and circumstances put you in a zone of abundance. Since positivity puts your attention to the good, you don't invest energy in focusing on what's missing. Of course, you may still want to improve your life in certain areas that need to be considered, but you do so with a place of ease rather than a place of grumpiness and self-esteem. The law of attraction reacts to your vibration. Positive interpretation makes you feel that everything is happening for your higher good, and when you feel that way, you vibrate higher frequencies that attract more and more wonderful situations. Even if you attract unpleasant situations, a positive attitude will help you learn from this experience so you can grow, develop and exercise amazing opportunities next time.
