Most often I implement all my comments on PDFs (such as manuscript evidence) using a lot of rich features of Adobe's Acrobat Professional. However, I always prefer to flatten these comments, that is, make them a permanent part of the PDF document. There are several methods for this but, to date, the fastest and smartest is this one found on PlanetPDF In Acrobat professional, type Ctrl + J to trigger the java script dialog In this dialog box enter: this.flattenPages(); press Ctrl + Enter Viaya! Don't forget to save the document. Cite as: Saad, T. How to flatten or embed comments in PDF using Acrobat®. Write in web history from Please take a note. Batch flatten all comments allow you to flatten all comments and annotations from a batch of PDFs. This will finally write an abstract in the document. For example, you can flatten a custom signature stamp so that the signature is added to the document itself and no longer sat on the document as an edited annotation. Each document will be processed individually using the selected parameters during the batch process. Note: Annotations such as stickers will be deleted comments, but the image will still be placed on the document. These annotations (attachment annotations, links, sounds, and edit annotations) will not be deleted when annotations are flattened. Although attachment annotations are technically, links, sounds, and edit annotations are annotations, they contain actions that will also be removed if the annotation has been flattened and therefore they remain non-interfere with the features placed in the PDF. As batch flatten all comments on the toolbar go to batch tab > Comments > to flatten set options for batch process. More information for each option is available below. In the file list, select the files you want to process Set destination options for processed batch files If necessary, set any open passwords to try to process files After all the options are complete, click the Start... button to start the batch process. Batch flatten all comment options File list Add files - Displays the choice of file to add individual files to the list. Add Folder - Displays a selection of files that adds the contents of this directory to the list. Set the default batch directory — if checked, all files from the default package directory will be added to the file list every time the package dialog is opened. Include Subfolders - If checked, all supported file types found in the subfolder of the selected default batch directory will be checked. Deletes the selected files from the - Moves the selected files up the list. - Moves the selected files down the list. - Moves the selected files to the top of the list. - Moves the selected files to the bottom of the list. Save files to destination folder Use source folder - If checked, the original folder for the PDF document (batch process) will be used to save the source files. Destination Folder - This option allows you to set the destination folder to place all processed files. You can enter the destination manually or click on... button to open directory selection to set destination folder Save oxygen structure: If this option is checked, the output files will be located in a new folder (in the specified destination folder) using the name of the parent file directory. File name template Use the source filename - saves the document using the same original name. If there is another file in the directory, the number will be added to the source file name to avoid duplicate file names. New filename - If checked, you must enter a new filename to use for output files. Each document name will have an incremental counter, starting from zero, added to the file name that you entered in this field. Custom variables can also be used to further distinguish between each file share. Available variables: $filename - File name that the document was opened with $count - Automatically increase the number $day - Month Day $month - Current Month using two digits $year - Current Year, using four digits $shortyear - Current year, using two digits $second - Current second $minute - Current minute $hour - Current hour, 1-12 $ampm - AM or PM $longhour - Current hour, 0-23 $overwrite files - When installed, if a file with the same name already exists in the directory, it will be overwritten with a new source document. Note: This will not be overwritten with a new source document. Note: This cannot be reversed. Make sure you have all your settings right before starting the Passwords batch process to try when opening Set Password documents, click on the password field or the Edit button. Then enter the password you want to use. Do this for four passwords to try password-protected PDFs in the directory, it will be overwritten with a new source document. Note: The passwords entered here will only be used for this batch process and will not be stored anywhere. Passwords will need to be entered for each new batch process.
