Use this one weird trick to instantly speed it up... As you use your Android, a lot of things are going on that can slow down your device just a little bit. Over time, these small speed changes can add up to a great drag performance on your Android. You may not even know which apps and services continue to run in the background... and eating precious memory and draining the battery too fast. And apps leave old, useless files on your device all the time. These cache files can help that one app start a little faster... but at the expense of valuable storage space. Also, as more and more criminals and privacy snoops target your Android, spyware and malware can slow down your Android even more. And without you even knowing, your apps can even spy on you every time you use your Android. What personal information do you want them not to know? Now you can use this app TapToFix.it for a simple, one-click shortcut to clean Up Android, improve its performance, extend battery life, and even scan apps for known malware and unwanted apps. This is SUPER EASY in You just click once to clear your memory. Once to increase the battery. And... Well, you get the point. UPDATE: We recently figured out how to do this without rooting your Android. Now anyone can use these tricks. Features: - Clean cache and unwanted files on Android, Android, and unwanted files can build up over time, taking up storage and even slowing your Android down. Cleaning up these cached and unwanted files can help free up the memory you really need. - Delete Search and Browser History Your Privacy Is Essential. Many apps silently record your personal data, your exact location and your history. Функция Clean It! can delete this information and keep your personal information safe. - Task Manager Increase Memory and Speed by Killing Tasks and Services That Work Silently in the Background. You often don't even know that these tasks are being performed and slow down the device.
