More than anything else, Macau is all about enjoying the contrasting atmospheres, a mix of relaxed Mediterranean and hectic Chinese pace, beautiful and well-preserved colonial architecture, traditional Chinese temples and ultra-modern skyscrapers, great macanese flavors and of course Chinese dim sum. The historic center of Macau has been considered a UNESCO World Heritage Site, which includes many sites, temples and structures around the small peninsula. These are some of our favorite highlights and attractions, check out their places on the map: The ruins of the Church of St. Paul Perhaps the most iconic symbol of the city, all that remains from Macau's most beautiful church at the height of colonial times is its beautifully carved façade and the staircase leading to one of the most stunning views of the city. Built by the Jesuits, the church was destroyed by a fire in 1835, and what you see now is all that was left. Behind the ruins is a small museum with many carved statues and paintings, as well as a crypt with the remains of the Christian martyrs. Largo do Senado This is the heart of Macau, the main square, surrounded by a collection of beautiful colonial buildings: Loyal Senate Building, the main post office, beautiful churches, galleries, shops, even a Starbucks. This is a good starting point for exploring the city. You can take Buss #3 from the ferry terminal to get here and then explore on foot the surrounding area. Also good for people watching, this is the place to just enjoy the pulse of the city. A-Ma Temple The oldest temple in Macau, dedicated to the goddess A-ma, where the name Macau originated. Also known as Tin Hau in Hong Kong, A-Ma is the goddess of the sea. This temple is a favorite among locals and is well frequent, always abounding with activity, burning incense coils and wishing messages from the many worshippers who will pay their respects. Macau Tower Standing at 338m high right on the edge of the peninsula, this is the centerpiece of a massive entertainment and restaurant complex. It features the usual viewing platforms and the revolving restaurants with striking views of the surroundings. And for adrenaline junkies out there, there's ne of the world's highest bungy jump from the 233m platform, a walk around the railway-less outer edge of the Skywalk, or a mast climb to the top... your choice. Some of these activities are quite popular and sell out early. If you have your heart set on one of them, it's a good idea to pre-order. There are three major worship halls on this temples, all adorned with elaborate statues. In the courtyard is the granite table where the first trade agreement between the United States and China was signed in 1844. Casinos and Cotai Strip Casinos are the main scene in Macau, the only place in China where casinos are legal. Vegas-style facilities and entertainment are a magnet for visitors from mainland China and Hong Kong. You will recognize all the big names in the game world: MGM, Wynn, Sands, etc. The casinos are located at the southern end of the peninsula as well as in the newer area of the Cotai Strip, built specifically to enhance Macau's position as a world-class gaming, entertainment and luxury shopping mecca. Casinos in the Macau Peninsula: MGM Grand, Wynn, Sands, Grand Lisboa. In the Cotai Strip we find Venetian, the galaxy, the four seasons, newcomer The Parisian Macau and the City of Dreams entertainment complex, including hard rock cafe. Getting to casinos is a breeze as everyone will have their own free shuttles from the ferry terminals. The House of Dancing Waters If you want to catch a show, this is it. It's a breathtaking spectacle and the world's biggest water extravaganza... Acrobatics, fountain jets, amazing light works, amazing costumes... a real feast for the eyes. Created by the famous show-maker Franco Dragone, the show costs $250 million to create and produce, and is performed only on City of Dreams. There are two performances at 5am and 8pm so it's possible to do it in a day trip from Hong Kong if you catch the early show. Where? City of Dreams What time? 17:00 and 20:00 How much?
