By turns the fight is all too familiar with all the players in the world. Whether you are a beginner or a person who has been playing the game for a long time, you know how these games work. Players will control their own forces and find a way to win the enemy side by destroying all their vitality. However, this style of play has a characteristic that you can't avoid attacking your opponent. Both will have to deal with all the moves that the enemy launches. Typically, there will be two ways to win a fight: to damage the enemy as quickly as possible so that they die first, they can realize their abilities, or you have to be more resilient than them (to withstand large amounts of damage without dying. But to determine that I love playing offensive or defensive, because the characters in the game will have the skills to interact with each other to create effects. who have different abilities trying to help you and Gully. Dark and mysterious forests are always a place that makes you feel danger beside it and sometimes a terrible cold in the Far North. The Push Arena is also sometimes a place to explore the brutality of the old arena. In addition to the power that the squad itself possesses, you can make different equipment to make them stronger. This factor decides almost 50% of your victory in the match. Because it will play an element of surprise for the opponent, and make your team allowed to diversify the power. Characters with significant damage can still survive if they are attacked individually because of their increased stamina.
