The elf on the shelf google docs

Carol V. Aebersold is a published author of children's books. A published credit by Carol V. Aebersold is The Elf on the Shelf: A Christmas Tradition [With Scout Elf and Keepsake Storage Box]. The elf on the shelf is a special scout elf sent from the North Pole to help Santa handle his cheeky and nice lists. When a family adopts an elf and gives it a name, the elf gets his Christmas magic and can fly to the North Pole every night to tell Santa about all the adventures of the day. Every morning, the elf returns to his family and perches in a different place to see the fun. Children love to wake up and race around the house in search of their elf every morning. There are two simple rules that every child knows when it comes to having an elf. Firstly, an elf can not be touched; Christmas magic is very fragile, and if an elf is touched, it could lose that magic and not be able to fly back to the North Pole. Secondly, an elf can't talk or move while someone in the house is awake! An elf job is to watch and listen. In 2013 Carol Aebersold's latest title for elf on a shelf- The Elf on the Shelf: Light Girl, the New York Times made BestsellerList. Carol V. Aebersold is a published author of children's books. There she earned a bachelor's degree in primary and lower secondary education. After graduating, Chanda taught English, social sciences and reading to children in grades 5-8. As a teacher, she designed a remediation curriculum for a local school system and was tasked with designing a literacy test for the entire county. In 2001, Chanda left public education to become a full-time mom. While at home, she discovered her passion for writing, and in 2004 she teamed up with her mother and twin sister to create CCA and B Publishing which became the home of The Elf on the Shelf, of which she co-authored. Since then, Chanda has been featured in media across the country, including WAGA-TV's Good Day Atlanta, Better Mornings (WGCL-TV CBS), and NPR, as well as in The Atlanta Journal and Constitution, The Marietta Daily Journal, Our Town and The Post and Courier. she divides her time between family and the day-to-day running of the publishing house. More often than not, she can be found on the way promoting The Elf on the Shelf® on book signing engagements or in school. She also enjoys the many opportunities she has been given to speak publicly and share her story with church and community groups across the country.
