These blades are cutting blades that are uniquely designed and they come with different styles so you can cut any type of your interest. That's a dozen of different sizes. These blades, they last longer and are effective in use because they leave you with very little work i.e. grinding to do. They are manufactured with very high quality steel, making them resistance to roasting and they are also very sharp so they should be handled with care. Features of the blades There are different dozens that you can choose from. For example, there are five dozen of the leaves as well as 6 dozen of the leaves available. The dozen come with blades of different sizes that you can use when performing any kind of a cut on your project. E.g. the former-sr #1 The Flying Dutchman Blades has a total of 72 blades which makes it very useful in cutting many patterns easily. Types of leaf tooth available include the standard blade, the skip tooth blade, the double tooth leaf and the reverse tooth blade. The reverse tooth blades usually cut both when performing both down-stroke and up strokes giving an even incision that will require only a little effort during grinding. Splinter free finish. The leaves are pin-less and they have a similar size of 5 inches. The value of the blade This product is available at a cost ranging to $20. 00. This is very cheap considering what the blade can do for you, also those that are made of steel and be long lasting. The leaves also have a high resistance to roasting thus you can use them for so long so given that, then at that price they are very cheap. Also they come in a package that entails different designs of the blades thus fulfilling all your needs while using them. Pros of scroll saw blades in the industry • When working on your project you can agree with me that most scroll saws only cut when you do a down-stroke that causes tear-out on the back of one's project but with the reverse tooth blades of these Dutchman blades cut smoothly on your material even on up stroke scans and thus both sides will be cut effectively and thus provide a smoother cut. • They are long lasting and can be used for long periods • They come in different styles of the cutting blades • After cutting with the Flying Dutchman one will only add a little effort when grinding cons off the blades • They are very sharp thus they can be dangerous if not handled with utmost care. Overview Thus this Dutchman browse is the best saw that you can use. It gives you total control of the saw activity during scroll cuts as well as a smooth finish cut and the result of your project is really of high quality. The Flying Dutchman blades are sold in dozens of 6 different sizes 12 blades each at a very low cost thus with these saw blades you can't go wrong.
