Home insurance is a valuable way to protect investment, but can you save money on your home insurance policy? Read our top tips on how to protect your property while saving money. 1 / 32 Amazon Helmets Designed to protect you from one accident and only one accident. Sometimes the damage isn't visible, so buy a new helmet to make sure you get full protection. On the other hand, if you see all this stuff at a yard sale, be sure to take a picture of them! 6/32 Dozens of crib returns, as well as changing safety standards, make it difficult to verify the safety of a crib used. If you're the one hosting the sale, find out what to do with the unsold items in your garage sale. 7/32 Ari N/ShutterstockLaptops, e-readers, tablets or MP3 players are more likely to be dropped, knocked around and poured on, simply because they are out in the world. A desktop computer sits (mostly) safe at home, but even that will likely cost more to upgrade or repair than buy a new one. Here's what you need to know about recycling old computers. 8/32 R. Bordo/Shutterstockk It's hard to determine how well TVs, DVD players and other electronic devices have been handled by their previous owners. In addition, the technology is changing so fast that you can often get a better quality device. If you buy refurbished devices directly from a manufacturer, a warranty will dissipation. But random TV selling a yard can get hurt or miss. If you're buying a new TV, check out our TV buying guide. 9/32 Family Handyman Used shoes were designed at the feet of their previous owners. Unsuitable shoes will make you miserable, or you'll never want to wear them. Plus, they might smell! Just in case you decide to buy, try this trick to make the shoes not smell. 10 / 32 WorldWide / Shutterstock 11 / 32 Africa Studio / ShutterstockWhile Sanitation and cracks can be a problem, the real culprit is the chemical BPA that exists in most old bottles - and as of June 2012, the FDA no longer accepts it as insurance. Go with new bottles to make sure you get the safer and more up-to-date bottles. Check out these tips for creating a smart nursery. 12 / 32 TAKLONGCORAT / ShutterstockRust, non-squamous stick coatings and chemicals that dampen out are just a few safety issues you can deal with old cooking utensils. But if you see all these vintage kitchen items for sale, they may be worth catching! 13 / 32 DePixel / Shutterstock If you are still using this technology and looking to collect the bargain, know that scratches have destroyed many DVD or CD. And VHS tapes reduce quality more times they're played, not to mention they've crumbled over the years. Do you know what the secret ingredient is for cleaning DVDs and files? 14/32 Photographee.eu/ShutterstockJust as mattresses and sheets, any upholstered furniture can be home to bedbugs, fleas and spiders, as well as unknown smells and stains. Unless you're going to re-upholstere the piece, stay away. 16 / 32 Roman Samborskiy / Shutterstock You might want to quickly search for the video game before you lt. Manufacturers now include codes for only one user's game, for the entire game or special bonus segments. Plus, we wouldn't buy a used video game or console unless we could check it out first. But new or used, make sure you have an amazing place - like this arcade room - to play the game. 17 / 32 Amazon.com quality of both can reduce over the years (and yes, they expire!). Even if makeup is new in the box, skip it unless you can say it was created recently. Learn why synthetic soap is better for your shower. 18 / 32 Pixavril / Shutterstock animal trickery can be difficult to send through an especially hot cycle on a washing machine. Like upholstered mattresses and furniture, they can be filled with terrifying crawls and other repulsing finds. Of course, if you recognize one of those expensive childhood toys, maybe you should take a quick picture of him. Put these toys in the right place with this storage idea. 20 / 32 Wayhome Studio / Shutterstock Running shoes users are often devoid of the padding vermin need. Stick with new shoes for padding and the cells that will protect your knees, legs and legs. Just be careful if you want to try washing running shoes. They might look like the sweater you accidentally washed in hot water. 21/32 Handyman FamilyHow it's gross: Hats may contain remnants of hair products, sweating or skin infections, and even idling. So keep your hats to yourself, and hang them on that DIY hat and coat hanger. 22 / 32 Delpixel / Shutterstock For every limited edition Bob Marley you find in a yard sale, there are roughly a million Captain & Tennille records to go through. Given the poor hi situation the records could be in, unless you're a collector and real teaster, picking up vinyl records at a yard sale just isn't worth the effort. What's worth the effort is these free things on Craigslist. 24/32 Alexandro Nike/ShutterstockPuzzles and games are a staple of garage sales, but so are missing pieces for these things. Imagine your favorite piece of Monopoly missing from a board you bought in the garage, or a chess game with a missing snout. Get to grips with these wild board games and toys with these amazing ideas. 25 / 32 Anthony Hall / Shutterstock The types of power tools you see in garage sales will most likely be remnants. It's better to avoid them because there's no way of knowing how long they'll continue to function before they're gone. And before you go out and buy a new one, consult our wired tool shopping guide. 26 / 32 Handyman Family How are many dimes of Christmas lights really useful year after year? The ratio couldn't be much better at selling a yard. Unless you like to gamble, save your money. Find out how to fix the Christmas lights and how to store them. 28 / 32 ronstik / Shutterstock We are a bit of a growl of used baby equipment, especially safety items. All it takes is Spring or stop to make this gate more of a danger than a safety device. If you buy a used gate, use it for pets, not small ones. See how to protect your home in nine stages. 29/32 Family Handyman Forensic Protection Shock is required on all hair dryers, but older models may not have this feature. Hairdryers with a large rectangular plug and laboratory test mark usually have protection against electric shock. Thinking about bathroom remodeling? Look at the transformation of this bathroom of the '50s. 30 / 32 person handyman family you may want an extra propane container at hand, but forget about getting a used one at a yard sale. These tanks need to be re-certified every few years and it's just too dangerous to buy an old or used one. Find out the easy way to tell how much propane stays in the tank. 31 / 32 Dmitry Lobanov / ShutterstockOpen-pump systems are particularly problematic because it is impossible to clean completely, making them susceptible to possible infection. 32 / 32 Good mood / Shutterstock The thrill of treasure's potential found in a bag to grab a garage sale rarely matches the disappointment of bringing home a bag full of junk. As cheap as these bags look, you just paid someone to get rid of their trash. Discover some brilliant uses for plastic bags you've never seen before. Originally published: October 27, 2020 2020
