Continue reading Cut and color karate gi consists of karate pants and karate top and can be cut in one of three different styles: Kata, European and Japanese, the latter is the most traditional cut. Traditional gi karate is usually white, and it is the most common color; However, black suits are also common. Both black and white traditional karate gi colors and anything beyond that spectrum is used only when prescribed by specific clubs and associations. Weight and material When choosing karate gi, you will be able to choose from light (6 or 8 ounces), average (10 to 12 ounces) or heavyweight (14 ounces). Generally, the weight of your suit should increase with your level of experience, the heavyweight option is commonly used for competitions and kata only. Cotton options are the heaviest and most expensive, as well as the most durable. Cotton/polyester variants tend to be lighter and more affordable, although less breathable due to their synthetic nature. I wear this for training in Ninjutsu and it's the perfect weight for me. The fabric is of good quality, and not rude. A little baggier than I would like, but I think that makes it easier to move. By richard on October 25, 2016It is a great starting form, couldn't ask for better, but not 5 due to the fact that every time I go to put an order to rent one size is not available in reserve leaving me with disappointed students. By Rochyne on August 5, 2015What can I say good value for money. Some black uniforms seem to disappear into gray pretty quickly, but this one has retained its color. Good weight doesn't shrink as many do when put through the wash. Might as well get a couple more. Richard Tunstall on November 25, 2014Good quality basic Gi, and is normal for traditional ju-jitsu, although I recommend heavier weight if you're heavy build. By Peter Watkins on November 23, 2014Excellent quality, well worth the money. By Mike Carr on November 21, 2014 This a great starter gi, good setup, lightweight, excellent quality. I always buy them for my new snack. Can't blame this gi at all! By Trevor on November 12, 2014 These costumes are such good value, washed and worn very well. There have never been any complaints. By Paul Farlam on November 10, 2014Cant wine is well worth the money, and its not heavyBy Awesome David February 27, 2014 Every single since the first street fighter game as a youth I wanted to be an amazing martial artist as the characters in the game and KenMasters looked cool. Then when tekken appeared appears paul Phoenix with the same style of doggy and add to the already massive signs that it was right to make Master Ken Ameridote come along and completed, in my opinion, that should, no, should be done. So now, as an adult and free to do, the way I choose and able to spend my pennies on what I want me to buy one of these bad boys in arterial blood red. After getting my dogi into promt fashion as usual, I tried it and realized it wasn't quite right. Hands, so I summoned my inner energy and tore off my arms with my bare hands, and now I looked AWESOME and ready to take over the world. The only thing I would change is the size of the pants as they seem to be designed for more E. Honda sized guy not a slender guy like me. Chris French December 5, 2013These are the costumes of choice for my club and all those I know. Great value given the quality of them. Keep their color and don't shrink in the wash like old suits did when I was a boy. Top drawer Blitz, thank you. By Jason Smith SKKA on November 30 entry-level gi for children and adults. Don't shrink, don't wear. By Matt on November 29, 2013These 2013These Karate uniforms are large, beautiful and light; and the customer service was very good. I'll most likely shop here in the future. By louise on October 30, 2013These costumes are fantastic for regular use, our students sweat buckets in them and they are easy to have clean and ready for the next class. Comfortable fit and great stuff! Ken G Wylson on October 9, 2013 This Gi I give as part of his membership in the club. I believe he keeps up to work as you would expect him too, his stuff and sewing good guality and takes a good beating and still keeps going. He can stand grabbed, pulled, etc. would recommend it as a beginner/intermediate and no contact martial arts Gi.By Richard October 8, 2013Wonderful form is very comfortable and difficult to wear. By Graham on October 8, 2013Couldn't ask for more. These shapes are an excellent product at a great price. Cut and quality is excellent. Used them for almost 15 years. By SARRE on September 17, 2013Je viens de recevoir ce kimono, tres bien fini, souple, et le service client'le top conseille bien sur les tailles, je ne suis vraiment pas de'su. Jane Hamilton on December 14, 2012This costume is a brilliant value for money. Good weight to train in and crack when performing kata. would recommend it. John Little on September 5, 2012Been trade with a blitz of the last 25 years of great value and great products. Carla on May 1, 2012This product is excellent value for money does not compromise. It is convenient and easy to train. By Paul February 27, 2011 For the money I paid it well worth it. All I can say is the tags can be stitched on a little stronger as if you tie them to the tight they will go out, but then again they are easy to sew back in. by Kevin Offiler on February 26, 2011A excellent suit, well made, hardwearing, comfortable and good value for money. My wife has reduced everything from my bank balance to my underpants.... But she can't reduce it! By Lester Jiu Jiu-Jitsu on January 15, 2011The quality of this form is brilliant, for the price is hard to find better - and I tried! By Phil on October 4, 2010 I can't blame them at all - they strike a good balance between cost and quality (well on both counts). The material is lightweight but durable and they survive washing without shrinking from adult to child size. They are a handy cut and our students all seem guite happy with them - I have a couple of myself. Yourself.
