The film premiered on December 6, 2017 in the United States. On August 13, 2018, History extended the series for a second season, which premiered on March 25, 2019. In May 2020, the series was announced to be canceled. Knightfall tells the story of the success, fall, persecution and suppression of the Templars organized by King Philip IV of France on October 13, 1307. The series is dedicated to the fictional leader of the Templars Landry du Lawson, a brave warrior, discouraged by the failures of the Templars in the Holy Land, who is enlivened by the news that the Holy Grail has surfaced. Starring and character, Principal Tom Cullen, as Landry de Lawson, the older brother of the Templars and a veteran of the Crusades, is a noble, courageous and stubborn knight who began his service with the Templars as Godfrey squires as Godfrey trained and trained and trained his skilled and respected warrior monk. After the siege of Acre Landry witnesses the failure of the crusade, the conquest of the Holy Land by Saracens and the loss of the most valuable relic in the entire Christian world: the Holy Grail. Fifteen years later, Landry, his faith shocked and disillusioned with the inaction of the Order, becoming Master and Commander of the Temple of Paris after the murder of Godfrey, a subsequent investigation revealing the Grail, is now in France. His hope is revived, Landry leads his fellow Templars traveling to uncover the causes of his mentor's death and the location of the Grail. Harry Webster portrays a young Landry in Season 1. Jim Carter as Pope Boniface VIII, a warm and avuncular man and an experienced religious leader who acts as a stabilizing, incorruptible force in the corrupt medieval world. The Knights templar appreciate him as their Holy Leader, and they are willing to follow his orders without question. Boniface personally appoints Landry as the new Master and Commander of the Temple of Paris after Godfrey's murder and trusts him with a mission to find the Holy Grail, hoping to use it to launch a new crusade and restore the Holy Land. Simon Haynes portrays Benedetto's younger father in Season 2. (Main Season 1, Season 2) Patraic Delaney as Gawain, the greatest swordsman of the Knights Templar, who was crippled by a leg injury sustained in the siege of Acre, defending Landry. Fifteen years later, after Godfrey's murder, the new Master Landry told him that he could no longer fight. Unable to serve in this field, Landry assigns him to the Master of Training for the Orden Order, teaching future knights, including the simple Regimental Parsifal. Feeling that his heroism is no longer celebrated, he struggles to remain faithful to the Order, just as he struggles to come to terms with his physical limitations. Gawain believes that of all the Templars, he has the most to gain from the restoration of the Holy Grail, because of his reported ability to heal. Simon Murrells as Tancred de Upperville, a veteran Templar who is fiercely loyal to the order. Unlike most Templars, Tancred was once married, but he gave up married life to join the Templars. As a steadfast, brave and determined knight who honors his Templar oaths above all else, Tancred imagines himself the heir to Godfrey, the Master and the Commander of the Temple of Paris, although he concedes to Landry after Godfrey's murder. With the revelation that the Holy Grail is now in France, Tancred helps and advises Landry on his quest, and comes to an understanding of what his role should be. Julian Ovenden as William de Nogaret, adviser to King Philippe, a pragmatic lawyer and right-hand man. De Nogar is shamelessly painless, and a calculating manipulator ahead of his time. He is driven to destroy the power of organized religion, in retaliation for his parents being burned at the stake as heretics to practice catharism. Cool and highly calculating, De Nogare is more involved in the search for the Holy Grail than he appears. He also secretly wishes Philip's daughter, Isabella, seeking to make her the next queen of England. Freddie Preston portrays a young de Nogaret in Season 2. Olivia Ross as Joan (season 1), a formidable diplomat and strategist. Joan is a devotee which seeks to ensure her children, especially her daughter, marry a rather than duty, as she was Philippa, whom she had grown to be afraid of. She and Philip are friends with Landry after he saved them from murder by robbers - against Landry's vow of celibacy, and unbeknownst to Philip, the two pursued a secret romance and Joan is secretly pregnant with her child. Ed Stoppard as King Philip, known for his good looks (hence the nickname Fair), Philip fights as king and husband. He seeks to control his family by dealing with the politics and power moves that are an inevitable part of the management of his kingdom. Philip wants to be a great monarch and turn France into the greatest power in Europe. He and Joan are friends with Landry after he saved them from murder by robbers, and Philip considers him a teacher, confidant and friend (although he does not know about their secret romance). Sabrina Bartlett (main season 1) and Jeniviv Gaunt (recurring season 2) as Princess Isabella, queen Joan and daughter of King Philip. Isabella is a beautiful, energetic and self-aware young woman whose youth belies the ability to go to extraordinary lengths to get what she wants. Now that she is coming of age, her impending marriage promises France a strong political union. Bobby Schofield as Parsifal (season 1), a young peasant, decent and honest, though brash and recklessly brave; seeks to do what he believes is right, even facing great danger. He was happily engaged to a young woman, Marie, but remained consumed by grief and a desire for revenge when she was killed by Godfrey's killers. Adrift and wanting to pursue his killers, he accepts an offer from Landry to join the Templars. Sarah-Sophie Busnina as Adelina (season 1), a Jewish homeless thief who previously lived in Acre but was saved as a child by Landry and the Templars. Now living in France with her father, she is secretly connected with unknown forces surrounding the Holy Grail. Tom Forbes as Prince Louis of France (season 2), King Philippe and the eldest son of the queen Joan and heir Mark Hamill as Master Talus (season 2), a veteran Templar who trains the initiates in the Temple of Chartres, the recurring Nasser Memarzia as Draper, the Templar brother who serves as Marco singaro's doctor in the role of Dr. Viguena, French court physician Jim High as Ulrik, brother of The Templars Robert Pugh (season 1) and Matthew Marsh (season 2) as Juak De Mole, 23rd and last Grand Master of the Templars Peter O'Meara as The Berenger, brother of the Templars and master of the Chartre temple sam Hazeldin as Marcel De Co/Godfrey, brother of the Templars and the Temple of Paris. Godfrey is the mentor and father of Landry's figure. Chengiz Dervis as Roland, Akin Ghazi as Rashid, Brotherhood leader Joey Baty in Pierre, Templar, initiating Raymond Waring in Daniel Ben Bradshaw in Chamberlain Roy McCreary as Charles Royal Steward Marcos Franz as Prince Luis Aragon Enrique Arce as Rodrigo Aragon, Ambassador Aragon Edward Bourne as Nicholas, Assistant De Nogare Oliver Maltman as Robert, Earl of Oxford, English Ambassador Amelia Clarkson as Sophie, servant of the queen Joan Claudia Bassoles as queen of Helena as Gerard, the Templar brother of Daniel Campbell, as Kelton, the Templars initiate, who later confessed as brother Brian Caspe as Angus, the Templar brother Michael James as quentin, the Templars initiate, who later confessed as Joseph Allman's brother as Wasant, the Templars, the Templars to initiate, who later confessed as Brother Toure Weingertner as Oton, the Templars' brother, Stephen Fewell as Archbishop as Anne Clementine Nicholson's sister as queen Margaret, the wife of Prince Louis. Pope Boniface gets up to date with the news and instructs Landry to bring his Templars back to Paris to restore him. However, King Philippe, having named de Nogare, sends mercenaries to intercept and kill them on the way back. They plan to do it in secret outside the city so that they could give the Templars a great Christian funeral in Paris to further mask their participation. Joan of Joan learns about this plan and will honor the Holy Grail of Landry and the Templars. In the woods, like mercenaries, under the command of Gawain and surrounded by Landry, Joan pleads for his life the wrath of Philip, who stabs her with a sword. Landry asks Joan for a drink from the Holy Grail, but instead of saving her, she saves their baby girl, who was born via C-section after Joan's death. Joan is buried with the Templars who died in battle with the royal mercenaries. Later, Berenger, another Templar master, finds a bottle containing a small scroll with names in the now-broken Holy Grail, which he swallows. In May 2020, the series was announced to be cancelled. Casting With the update of the series, two new major cast members have been announced. Mark Hamill was cast as Talus, an old veteran of the Templar Crusades who endured a decade of captivity in the Middle East and is now tasked with training young knights. One of his former students is Landry, who was once a master himself, but was forced to start over, breaking his vows in the first season. Tom Forbes was cast as Prince Louis, the cruel and unpredictable son of King Philip. Jenivive Gaunt was cast in the recurring role of Isabella, the daughter of King Philip and on her way to a woman whom history would call the wolf of France. Gaunt replaced Sabrina Bartlett, who portrayed the princess in the first season. Additional recurring roles include Irish actor Peter O'Meara as Temple Master Chartre Berenger, Underworld: Blood Wars actress Clementine Nicholson as Princess Margaret, Prince Louis' wife, and Claire Cooper as Anne's sister. Filming of Fort Lovrienak, one of the filming locations at Dubrovnik Castle, began with a three-day filming in the final week of June 2016 in Dubrovnik on the southern Adriatic coast, with Douglas Mackinnon (Outlander) as director. Located mainly around the walls of Fort Dubrovnik, Lovriyanak Fortress Lawrence) and Peel Bay, these scenes depict the Siege of Acre. PAKT Media offered its services and more than 140 Croatian film workers were involved in the production. Mackinnon was the principal director who served most of the episodes. Metine Huseyne and David Petrarch (Game of Thrones) also directed the block each. Knightfall was filmed mainly in Prague, Czech Republic, with a base in Barrandov's studio. Several exteriors imitating medieval Paris were built in nearby suburbs and villages, including Prehonice and Doxani. Streets in the Old Town and Shvikhov Castle were used. Filming began on July 8. According to Barrandov CEO Peter Tice, the studio was chosen partly based on the quality of the 15th century interior, which they had previously built for Borgia. According to Tom Cullen, the main line-up had a two-and-a-half-week boot camp with French stuntman and choreographer Cedric Proust. Cullen has taken fencing classes in the past but hasn't swung a sword in eight years. The total cost of the season was 1.1 billion euros. On August 26, 2016, a fire broke out in the rear stadium of Barrandov's studio, destroying the exterior scenery of Knightfall, with damage estimated at 100 million ZAK ($4.5 million). Only a small part of the set representing the medieval city was saved. The following Monday, gunfire resumed elsewhere in the city. The fire affected the production schedule, but production should not have been moved to another city, and will focus on street locations. David Minkowski, Senior Producer at Stillking Films, added: Together with our insurers and the construction of Barrandov, we plan to restore the destroyed backlot as soon as possible and complete the shooting in the Czech Republic. Filming for the first season ended in mid-December 2016. Filming for the second season ended on December 19, 2018. Other locations in the Czech Republic that were used for the filming of the series included the Doxani Monastery, The Castle of The Point, the Koste Castle near Liboshovice, the Castle of zwikov, and the medieval open-air museum of the Sepora. On February 1, 2017, the History Channel debuted a teaser trailer depicting the bloody Helmet of the Templars. The series originally aired on the Day 6, 2017. The second season premiered on March 25, 2019. The series was pre-sold by SBS in Australia. HBO, its subsidiary Cinemax and FilmBox Premium also won rights in Central and Eastern Europe. The story that developed the original series aired Knightfall in North America. Receiving Critical Reception On the Rotten Tomatoes review aggregation site, the series has an approval rating of 60% based on 20 reviews, with an audience rating of 69%. On Metacritic, which assigns a normalized rating of reviews, the series has a weighted average score of 47 of based on 12 critics, which indicates mixed or average reviews. For the second season, Rotten Tomatoes listed only four reviews, with three favorable; Two of the reviews praised the addition of Mark Hamill with one commenting that the barely recognizable Star Wars icon carries every scene in which he appears. Accolades Knightfall was nominated for the 44th Saturn Award for Best Fantasy Television Series. Other media outlets announced in May 2017 that ASE Networks had collaborated with Titan Publishing to develop original novels and a comic book series of eight articles based on the series.
