It is very easy to use (install the trial version and you will be able to watch a 90-second video tutorial). Enter the scheduled events for that month, add some items to the do list, customize the overall look with a few clicks, and print it. No fuss with templates or PowerPoint.The calendar is visually appealing with a choice of 16 unique backgrounds (ranging from muted steel blue to high-energy monkey faces) and colorful stickers you can use to represent special events such as football matches, birthday parties and holidays. You can also customize your own stickers quite easily. You will rely on these stickers too, because the text you enter is quite small and something difficult to read. At least the to-do list elements are big and bold. An image at the top right can be switched to one of your own, or to another of the stock images provided by Monkeymen.--Leigh Anne Jones Note: When you buy something after clicking on links in our articles, we can earn a small commission. With a calendar unique to your family, you will be reminded of birthdays, anniversaries, events and holidays.... 5 min read Read article As standing lists, calendars help to give the illusion of organization and control over tasks and obligations. But not only any calendar will do. At least it's my theory that if you don't care about the style and layout of the calendar software or calendar format you use to track events, you probably don't need a calendar at all. Maybe it's a matter of taste or aesthetics, maybe there's a touch of OCD. But if you are a calendar kind of person, you have some decent options heading into the new year. Word has always been lacking in offering useful built-in calendar templates - heavy on ugly design elements and light on functionality. So I built this little bare-bones template that automatically inserts the dates for you, depending on the number of days you specify. There is room for entering appointments and activities. And not much else. It's common, but convenient. (You can stick some clippings in there, if you feel the urge. Snowflake for January, anyway.) Then you have the slimmer choices, thanks to Microsoft Office Online. These are prefabricated calendars for various applications and purposes. Six-year-olds, in total. There are a bunch of academic calendars in Visio, Excel, Publisher, and Word formats. Calendars by month, year and perennial. Portrait, landscape, five days, seven. A number of incredibly ugly PowerPoint calendars, including some misunderstood stripes and a kind of Madras checkered. Lunar calendars different time time (who knew that the moon operated that way), photo calendars, postcard calendars. And even a basic 12-month calendar in Word without a single scrap of art deco design nonsense on it. If your taste goes that way. Good calendar! Calendaring!
