Here, the player is invited to pass the tower behind the tower and with the help of selected fighters to overcome rival units. Scorpio and Sub zero will fight in the very first battle. Here, fans of console and PC versions of games in this series may be disappointed with the ease of control, but are most attuned to touchscreen displays. The mechanics of the game are similar to injustice. Simple screen taps initiate standard hits. When you press the display with two fingers, place the block. Combo attacks are available when the required amount of energy is accumulated and carried out using certain gestures. Three fight and continue the fight. In between fights, you need to pump up the skills of squad members. Technically, it's great. Excellent three-dimensional graphics pleases the eye. This is especially true of carrying colorful combos. The voice also did not let us down, all the sounds of blows and cheers of the opponent were made big.
