I'm not robot

reCAPTCHA

Continue

I'm not robot

reCAPTCHA

How to add text in imovie app

October 21, 2020• Proven video-presentation or construction solutions in video praise require some value with software applications that allow you to add texts in a video. There will be so many reasons you want to place some text in a video. With iMovie on a Mac or iPhone, you can put a standard title, or a lower third subtitle, or scroll through video credits easily. iMovie definitely ranks as a great software to help you add text in videos. In this article, we'll show you how to add texts with iMovie for Mac and iOS mobile devices. Part 1: How to add texts using iMovie for Mac To add texts to your videos using iMovie for Mac, you must drag your media files to the Timeline first, and then follow these steps. Step one. Click the Text button to view the list of text slides. Step two. Select the appropriate text slide from this list and drag the slide onto the Project timeline. You can lie on a slide or save it as a fidr within the slide. Step three. Double-click within the viewer interface to get the edit mode to change the text. You can click Show Fonts to edit the font attributes, and then click Done to save your changes. Step four. You can double-click the project timeline to open the Text Inspector and change the transition and positioning features. Related: Add transitions between videos in iMovie notes: If you're running a different version of iMovie, like what's running on my Mac, like iMovie 10.1.8, you'll find the steps of adding video titles in a different iMovie. After you load the media on the timeline, place your cursor where you want to add texts, and then go to the Headings tab. From there, you'll see that there are preset headers available. Now you can add some standard titles, bottom-line credits, or scrolling, and much more by dragging and dropping them to the timeline. You'll see how long the text effects last and adjust the duration of the text by dragging the edges to meet the demand. One of the discomfort of adding text to the video in iMovie is that it seems impossible to adjust the position of the text manually. Part 2: How to add texts using iMovie for iPhone adding text with iMovie on an iPhone is too easy. The tutorial below will show you how to get it step by step. Here are the simple steps you can see: Step 1. Open the iMovie app on your iPhone and tap the appropriate video or photo within the timeline to get the supervisor controls at the bottom of the interface. Step two. Tap the Text button marked with T. Step 3. Select the correct text style. Step four. You can select the center or bottom to change the position of the text that appears in the interface. Step five. Tap Done on your phone's keyboard to save your changes. If you want to edit videos on Android with video editing apps similar to iMovie, you can check out our selections of the best iMovie For Android. If you want to edit your videos or add filters, effects, narration, or music to your iPhone videos, don't miss the best video editing apps for your iPhone. Part 3: How to add text using an alternative to iMovie - Wondershare Filmora for Mac While iMovie has emerged from a large editing software brand, it seems a bit tricky for users on the editing interface for the first time. Even adding text seems a big hassle on the interface. Here, we recommend that you use Wondershare Filmora to add text in an easier way. Filmora is available for both macOS and Windows. The following tutorial is registered with the Windows operating system, but the steps with Filmora for Mac are similar. Related: Top 5 iMovie Alternatives for iPad Top 5 iMovie Alternatives for iPhone The next steps are for Mac users. Step one. Just click import media in the Filmora Editor interface to get the video or picture you want to add the text. You can also drag and drop the file directly into the interface. Step two. Click the Title tab, select the correct text effect, drag and drop it on the timeline. Adjust the position of the text in the correct video scene. Step three. Double-click the text on the timeline, and you can get to the window where you can customize the color of the text, font, and text itself. Step four. Click Export as soon as you want to save the final media with the text editor. You can also upload your video to YouTube, Facebook or Vimeo to share with friends and family. Furthermore, there is a title and text effect package available at the Filmora Effects Store, just watch the video below to check out what it can do for you. The conclusion above are the details of how to add texts to videos on iMovie on a Mac and iPhone. Some steps may differ on your devices because of version issues. Therefore, we recommend that you make sure that you are running the latest version of iMovie. If you want to edit texts in an advanced way, like animing the text effects and saving the text effect for future use, Filmora for Mac will be a better choice. FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS ABOUT ADDING TEXTS WITH iMovie 1. How many text and title formats does iMovie have? iMovie is equipped with rich text libraries and a title that offer you a variety of options. There are dozens of different templates to choose from, and you can easily preview each one before deciding to add them to your Timeline.  2. How do I add video texts without using effects? If you don't want the text you're adding to the video to be animated, you should select a title format that doesn't contain text animations. There are quite a few title templates in iMovie that don't contain animations, so you just choose the one you like and add Text into the text box to display in the preview window. 3. How do I change the speed of text in iMovie? The only way to change how quickly the text is displayed on the screen in iMovie is to change its duration. The longer a format, the slower the text moves. However, you won't be able to customize the text speed yourself in iMovie. 4. How do I change fonts in iMovie? Double-click the title text box that is displayed on the preview screen, and then go to the Fonts menu. There are hundreds of fonts to choose from, but keep in mind that the text must be selected for the change to be visible on the screen. 5. How do I make text fade on an iMovie from an iPhone? Go to the File menu and select Project Properties. Locate the Fade Header Duration slider on the File menu and use it to set the default title fade duration. However, you should remember that you cannot fade the headings that contain text animations.  When preparing a video for your class or work presentation, adding some kind of narration within the video adds a lot of adroitness to your work. There are many reasons why you should place some text in your video. With the help of iMovie for your iPhone and Mac devices, there are many different options like adding credits to the end of the video, downloading the location of texts/subtitles, adding a standard title, etc. So, how do I add text to iMovie? iMovie will definitely help you add video texts and is considered one of the leading ratings when it comes to this work. In this article, we'll go through several ways to teach you how to add text on iMovie for both your iOS and Mac devices. P.S. Please read more about how to fade audio on iMovie, and how to add subtitles on iMovie, as well as how to fix iMovie keeps crashing easily. Part 1: How to add text in iMovie on your MacOnce you drag the media files to the iMovie timeline, you can simply follow the steps mentioned below to know how to add text in iMovie on your Mac:You can start by clicking the Text button that will show you the list of different text slides and styles. After you select the text slide from the list, you can drag the icon down to the project timeline. Here, you can save it as a standalone person within the slide or just add it as a layer. You must double-click within the viewer interface to enable edit mode; Here you can change the text for anything you want. You can then choose between many different fonts, and then click the Done button to save your changes. You can double-click the timeline to open the Text Inspector and place the transition and change its attributes. And it's done! Now, you know how to successfully add iMovie text. Note: If you're using a different version of iMovie, like the one I use on my Mac is 10.1.8, you may notice that the steps of adding texts to the videos may look a little different in each. After you load the media on the timeline, you place the cursor where you want to insert the texts, and then move to a title tab. After you do this, you'll see different header presets available to you. Here, you can add several scroll credits, lower third, standard titles, and much more by dragging and dropping them to the Timeline. You will also have the option to change or add effects such as how long the text effect will last and adjust the duration of the texts according to your requirements. Only one inconvenience is that there is no possible way to adjust the position of the text manually. Part 2: How to add text on an iMovie on your iPhone while the part of adding texts into your movie on a Mac may seem a little tricky, doing so on an iPhone with an iMovie is pretty easy. You can watch the instructional video below that can help you learn how to add text to iMovie on your iPhone step by step:You can also refer to the steps mentioned below to know how to add text in iMovie on your iPhone:First, launch the iMovie app on your iPhone and add the video where you want to add the text into the timeline. Here, you can access the supervisor controls on the bottom panel of the interface. You'll see a button marked T, which adds the text to the video. Find the appropriate text style and size. As for the location, you can lower or place the text in the center of the video. When you're done, you can tap the Make button and save your changes. Therefore, you have successfully received an answer on 'How to add text to iMovie.' As for Android users, you can also do the same with other video editing apps similar to iMovie. You can check out our top alternatives choices for iMovie for Android devices. While iMovie is one of the top video editing software brands, it can prove to be a bit tricky for some users, especially those who use video editing software for the first time. They may even find a simple task like how to add iMovie text quite challenging. In this case, we would like to offer additional video editing software called Wondershare Filmora; This editing software will help you add texts in your videos in a much easier way. While the video below was recorded on the Windows operating system, the steps of doing the same are similar for Mac devices. Alternatively, you can also drag and drop Video on the interface as well. After you have added the video to the interface, you must click a text icon on the left side of the clipboard. Here, you can select different options, such as the text effects, and drag it to the Timeline. Adjust the position of the text in the correct video scene. You need to double-click the text on the timeline, which will then open a window where you can customize the actual, font, text color, etc. When you're done and happy with the text in your video, you can click the Export button to save the final clip. After exporting the video, you can upload it on sites like Vimeo, Facebook, YouTube, etc. to share it with your family and friends. There are also many different text effect packages available at the Filmora Effects Store. To know more about how to add text on iMovie, you can just watch the video below and check the content with your eyes. Get Wondershare Filmora While the two mentioned above are some of the best software that can help you add text to your video, there are also various other software that can help you to add text to your video. You'll see different text formats that you can add to your video file. You can resize the text, color, and font. Adding text to a video is the best way to emphasize the message of the video. You can also add texts in different positions based on your preferences. StudioVideo Studio Video is another video editor that can help you add text to your videos. The software is very easy to understand and use. All you need to know are where you want to add the videos, and then drag the text to a location. Video Studio also offers you many different formats that you can use. You can also make different changes around the text like changing its styles and font, editing the format, etc. AnimotoWhile Animoto is not exactly software, the online tool is widely used to add text into the video. You don't have to take it off. Simply sign in with your credentials, import the video, and add the text. You can change the text style to your liking. If your video is happy and youthful, you can easily select a funny text format to add in your video. Based on the video style, you can select the text format. You can also add text animations to make the video stand out. So, the above are just some of the many ways that can teach how to add iMovie and Wondershare Filmora text. Depending on the version, there are several steps that might look different on your devices. Therefore, it is always a good idea to make sure that you are running the latest version. If you want to edit the texts as advancedly as anifat the effects, Filmora for Mac is a great choice! Try Wondershire Page 2 When preparing a video for your class or work presentation, adding any narration within the video adds a lot of tsa to your work. There are many reasons why you should place some text in your video. With the help of iMovie for your iPhone and Mac devices, there are many different options like adding credits to the end of the video, downloading the location of texts/subtitles, adding a standard title, etc. So, how do I add text to iMovie? iMovie will definitely help you add video texts and is considered one of the leading ratings when it comes to this work. In this article, we'll go through several ways to teach you how to add text on iMovie for both your iOS and Mac devices. P.S. Please read more about how to fade audio on iMovie, and how to add subtitles on iMovie, as well as how to fix iMovie keeps crashing easily. Part 1: How to add text on an iMovie on a Mac after dragging the media files to your iMovie Timeline, you can simply follow the steps mentioned below to know how to add text on an iMovie on your Mac device: you can start by clicking the Text button that will show you the list of different text slides and styles. After you select the text slide from the list, you can drag the icon down to the project timeline. Here, you can save it as a standalone person within the slide or just add it as a layer. You must double-click within the viewer interface to enable edit mode; Here you can change the text for anything you want. You can then choose between many different fonts, and then click the Done button to save your changes. You can double-click the timeline to open the Text Inspector and place the transition and change its attributes. And it's done! Now, you know how to successfully add iMovie text. Note: If you're using a different version of iMovie, like the one I use on my Mac is iMovie 10.1.8, you may notice that the steps of adding texts to videos may look a little different in each one. After you load the media on the timeline, you place the cursor where you want to insert the texts, and then move to a title tab. After you do this, you'll see different header presets available to you. Here, you can add several scroll credits, lower third, standard titles, and much more by dragging and dropping them to the Timeline. You will also have the option to change or add effects such as how long the text effect will last and adjust the duration of the texts according to your requirements. Only one inconvenience is that there is no possible way to adjust the position of the text manually. Part 2: How to add text on an iMovie on your iPhone while the part of adding texts into your movie on a Mac may seem a little tricky, doing so on an iPhone with an iMovie is pretty easy. You can watch the instructional video below that can You learn how to add text to iMovie on your iPhone step-by-step device: You can also refer to the steps mentioned below to know how to add text on your iMovie on your iPhone: First, launch the iMovie app on your iPhone and add the video where you want to add the text into the timeline. Here, you can access the supervisor controls on the bottom panel of the interface. You'll see a button marked T, which adds the text to the video. Find the appropriate text style and size. As for the location, you can lower or place the text in the center of the video. When you're done, you can tap the Make button and save your changes. Therefore, you have successfully received an answer on 'How to add text to iMovie.' As for Android users, you can also do the same with other video editing apps similar to iMovie. You can check out our top alternatives choices for iMovie for Android devices. While iMovie is one of the top video editing software brands, it can prove to be a bit tricky for some users, especially those who use video editing software for the first time. They may even find a simple task like how to add iMovie text quite challenging. In this case, we would like to offer additional video editing software called Wondershare Filmora; This editing software will help you add texts in your videos in a much easier way. While the video below was recorded on the Windows operating system, the steps of doing the same are similar for Mac devices. First, you must click the Import Media button in the Filmora editing interface and upload the video in which you want to insert the text. Alternatively, you can also drag and drop the video on the interface as well. After you have added the video to the interface, you must click a text icon on the left side of the clipboard. Here, you can select different options, such as the text effects, and drag it to the Timeline. Adjust the position of the text in the correct video scene. You need to double-click the text on the timeline, which will then open a window where you can customize the actual text, font, text color, etc. When you're done and happy with the text in your video, you can click the Export button to save the final clip. After exporting the video, you can upload it on sites like Vimeo, Facebook, YouTube, etc. to share it with your family and friends. There are also many different text effect packages available at the Filmora Effects Store. To know more about how to add text on iMovie, you can just watch the video below and check the content with your eyes. Get Wondershare Filmora while the two mentioned above are Of the best software that can help you add text to your video, there are also various other software that can help you with how to add text to iMovie like: Windows Movie Maker originally developed by Microsoft, this software will allow you to add text to your video. You'll see different text formats that you can add to your video file. You can resize the text, color, and font. Adding text to a video is the best way to emphasize the message of the video. You can also add texts in different positions based on your preferences. Video Studio Video Studio is another video editor that can help you add text to your videos. The software is very easy to understand and use. All you need to know are where you want to add the videos, and then drag the text to a location. Video Studio also offers you many different formats that you can use. You can also make different changes around the text like changing its styles and font, editing the format, etc. Anymoto While Anymoto is not exactly software, the online tool is widely used to add text into the video. You don't have to take it off. Simply sign in with your credentials, import the video, and add the text. You can change the text style to your liking. If your video is happy and youthful, you can easily select a funny text format to add in your video. Based on the video style, you can select the text format. You can also add text animations to make the video stand out. So, the above are just some of the many ways that can teach how to add iMovie and Wondershare Filmora text. Depending on the version, there are several steps that might look different on your devices. Therefore, it is always a good idea to make sure that you are running the latest version. If you want to edit the texts as advancedly as anifat the effects, Filmora for Mac is a great choice! Try Wondershare Filmora articles