Here are some of the best we've found around the internet: CM 12.1 Oxygen OS Paranoid Android MIUI 9 MIUI 10 Third-party apps Apart from OEM wallpapers, there are plenty of apps available on the Google Play Store ranging from individual live wallpapers to extensive collections with every wallpaper you can dream of. If you're someone who likes to often change wallpapers on your smartphone, these apps are definitely worth checking out. The whole list is very long, but here are a few favorites that we recommend - Muzei Live Wallpaper - Muzei is a live wallpaper that showcases famous works of art. The image is updated every day. You can also use your own photos from the device gallery and the app rotates through your favorite photos every few hours. The app is also a friendly developer and allows you to build your own wallpaper source. Tapet - Tapet is a wallpaper generator that lets you choose a pattern and a range of wallpapers. There are seemingly unlimited features with lots of models and designs added with each update. The app automatically determines the resolution and size of the display to ensure high image quality. Wallpaper and Background - As the name suggests, this app houses an extensive collection of wallpapers that you can sort through a category or check out the latest, highest rating, or casual wallpapers available. The app will automatically figure out the resolution of the display and the size and only showcases the wallpaper that will fit. This is one of my favorite wallpaper apps that I use all the time. Valley Valley is one of the best wallpaper apps and is definitely worth downloading. You can browse a lot of creative works of art, follow your favorite artists, and of course install these images as wallpapers. Artists are also rewarded for their work. If you're looking for some unique backgrounds for your phone, Valley is the way to go. HD wallpaper and 4K Backgrounds - This app has over 120,000 wallpapers and backgrounds, and as the name suggests, all images are available at the highest resolution of the smartphone display. You can sort images by date, rating and popularity, search by color and view more than 70 categories. Imgur - This app/website is one of the largest image platforms on the web. Not only is the wallpaper focused, but if you don't mind the search, the sheer variety of interesting images it offers is unsurpassed. Are there any Android wallpapers you want us to add to our list? Don't forget to give us your suggestions in the comments below! Finding great wallpaper and backgrounds for your Android device isn't all that difficult. There are a ton of applications that can do this task. In addition, a simple Google image search can also show you some unique options. The trick is to find apps that work best for you and find the kind of material you want to see. Let's take a quick look at the best backgrounds and wallpapers for Android apps! We also recommend NASA's official app for some excellent space wallpaper. AbstractRedditResplashSphaeraTapetPrice: Free/$1.99Abstract is one of the new wallpaper apps on the list. This is Hampus Olsson, designer for all the wallpapers on OnePlus phones. It has different abstract wallpapers in different colors. There are about 300 backgrounds in total, and they are all in 4K resolution as well. We expect more to hit the app as time passes. It's also a great way to get all the wallpaper from OnePlus devices without buying one. The premium version goes for $1.99.RedditPrice: Free/$2.99 per month/$29.99 per yearReddit is one of the surprisingly good wallpaper apps. There are subreddits with tons of decent wallpaper selection in multiple resolutions. The site also has a search for faster and simpler results. Most Reddit users shell out on Imgur. This makes Imgur a decent app for wallpaper as well. It may take a little to find the find good things. However, there are a lot of great things here. In addition, the main Reddit accounts are free. You can get more features with Reddit Gold. We recommend r/ultrahdwallpapers, r/wallpapers-wallpapers, r/wallpaper, and r/WQHD. Wallpaper for some really good things. It's also a great option for devices with certain screen styles like The Samsung Kick Hole. ResplashPrice: Free/up to $10.99Resplash is one of the new wallpaper apps. It's a great source of wallpaper photography. The app boasts over 100,000 wallpapers with new wallpapers every day (or so they say). The user interface is decent and easy to use. Photos are more than high enough resolution for any phone screen. It even comes with some light settings features like dark mode and different layout options. There are some parts that could be better, but this is a very positive experience in general. It's also great for photography lovers. SphaeraPrice: $0.99Sphaera is one of the most unique wallpaper apps. This allows you to take a segment of the map and paint it to fit your home screen. You can use maps mainly from anywhere in the world, including your hometown. In addition, the app has over 30 seats to choose from if you want something like this. Each wallpaper generates up to 4k resolution and you can change colors to match your style. Yes, it also includes AMOLED black as an option. Recent updates have also added a feature of live wallpaper if you want it. The app runs for $0.99 up front, but has no other purchases in the app. TapetPrice: Free /Up to $19.99Tapet is one of the most unique wallpaper apps. He doesn't come with a choice to choose from. Instead, you choose design and colors. The app makes wallpaper of your choice. It's a great way to get the good, minimal wallpaper in the colors you want. It also comes with Muzei support, download function and more. The app uses the screen resolution of your device to customize the quality. It helps to get guesses. Either way, it's really good. Vectorify da homePrice: FreeVectorify yes home is another unique wallpaper app. It uses vector graphics for clean, colorful wallpaper. Basically, you choose a style, choose a color scheme, and the app generates wallpaper. The wallpaper is high-resolution and there are some fun little designs. The process is also simple and there is a bit of customization as well. In addition, the app itself comes with a light and dark mode for your viewing pleasure. It's totally free and easily one of the best wallpaper apps. Wallpaper from GooglePrice: FreeWallpapers from Google is a worthy wallpaper app. It has a small but Choice wallpaper. The app has other features, including a separate lock screen and home screen wallpaper, an automatic set feature for new wallpapers every day, and more. The app has a few bugs. Besides, his his not all that big. However, it has some really high quality stuff. It's also completely free without advertising or in-app purchases. WalliPrice: Free with in-app purchasesWalli is another great wallpaper app. It has a bunch of unique works from various independent artists. You can find all kinds of things here. Some of the popular things include word backgrounds, abstract things, fantasy themes, and people. The app includes a simple layout, categories for easy viewing, and more. It is also a good place for artists to promote their benefits. You can find a lot of really unique things here that you just can't find elsewhere. You can also pay for things to support artists. WalPPrice: Free (with ads)WalP is a fun wallpaper app. It includes various stock wallpapers from a bunch of OEMs. It boasts collections from Samsung, Sony, Android shares, Oppo, and about two dozen other brands. You just open the app, surf through, and find the wallpaper you want. The app itself has a light and dark theme for your viewing preferences along with a blur filter, saturation filter, push notifications for new wallpaper and an automatic shifter if you want something different every day. It seems to have hit all the right notes and worked well in our testing. WalpyPrice: Free/$1.99Walpy is another new wallpaper app on this list. It has a bunch of great wallpapers in pretty high resolution. However, this app also changes your wallpaper at different points in the day. It doesn't rely on timers like most. Instead, it waits for the phone to charge or on WiFi to change the background. There is a lot of variety. However, Walpy is mostly photography, so you won't find abstract stuff or anything like that here. It's a neat solution with some decent choices. Bonus: Google SearchPrice: FreePerhaps is the easiest wallpaper app Google Search. You're just looking for what you want. The plus is that you can get creative with searching and find basically everything you want. The downside is that you have to get creative to find good things at all. There is a lot of fluff when it comes to wallpaper and backgrounds and Google Search doesn't filter anything. Either way, we recommend you start with Google Search or finish with it if none of these other wallpaper apps do the trick. Bonus: Hidey HolePrice: FreeHidey Hole is a wallpaper app specifically for Samsung Galaxy S10, S10 Plus and S10e devices. He sourced his wallpaper from a subreddit with a bunch of wallpapers specially designed to cut out the camera on display. It works with both a single and double cutout camera and you can sort for anyone specifically. You can also slightly change the images them directly from the app, or download them for later. It only supports three devices, so it didn't make the full list. However, owners of the Galaxy S10 series should definitely try this this We missed any of the best backgrounds and wallpaper apps, tell us about them in the comments!
