With a broader VAT tax base, the potential for tax revenues will increase so that the spending needs of the state budget can be more met than tax revenues, writes DJP in Renstra, quoted on Monday (9/21/2020). DJP said the goods and services tax bill would reorganize the tax regime for goods and services by further restricting the provision of facilities. In addition, through the bill, the government will repeal restrictions on taxable entrepreneurs (PCR), which currently reach 4.8 billion rubles. As for the Treasury Department's 2020-2024 plan, the unit responsible for drafting the Goods and Services Tax Bill is the Budget Policy Agency (BCF). The units involved in the training were the DJ and the General Secretariat (Setjen). The bill is due to be completed in 2021-2024. In the DJP plan for 2020-2024, DJP, through the Tax Regulatory Authority, plans to develop 32 derivative rules after the passage of the Goods and Services Tax Bill. A total of 32 derivative rules consist of several types. There are 2 draft government decrees (RPP), 22 draft regulations of the Minister of Finance (RPMC), 1 draft resolution of the Minister of Finance (RKMC), 6 draft regulations of the Director General of Taxes (RPerdirjen) and 1 draft decree of the Director General of Taxes (RKeperdirjen). The 2 RPP to be prepared include the RPP on tax rate changes, as well as the RPP on limiting the tax value paid when buying taxable goods (BKP) brought outside the customs area by a personal person of a foreign passport holder. Under the mandate of the law, implementation rules will regulate changes in tax rates, DJP writes explaining the urgency of creating an RPP to change the tax rate. Of the 22 IPMs to be drawn up, there are several RPKM that reflect the intention to integrate the tax system into goods and services with electronic transactions. Some of these RPKM include procedures for voting, depositing and reporting electronic transactions; incentives to provide E-mail services and/or taxable services (JKP) to create a system to get cash and incentives from the use of the system. I'm not good. In addition, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs' plan for 2020-2024 includes the Omnibus Act on Tax Provisions and Funds for Economic Strengthening. The Omnibus Bill and the Stamp Duty Bill are due to be completed by 2020. It is proposed to introduce 19 bills, which are the sphere of activity and are related to the sphere of duties of the Ministry of Finance, which will be installed in the National Medium-Term Legislative Program for 2020-2024, - says in Ministry of Finance for 2020-2024, outlined in PMC 77/2020. The new stamp duty bill is expected to improve stamp duty compliance and expand the database that can be used to analyse data and compare with other types of taxes. The data can be increase other tax revenues. In addition, the Omnibus Taxation Bill aims to improve a favourable and attractive business climate for investors, accelerate Indonesia's economic growth, increase legal certainty and encourage foreign nationals to work in Indonesia in order to encourage the transfer of experience and knowledge to improve the quality of Indonesian human resources. The urgency of the omnibus tax bill is also used to encourage voluntary compliance by taxpayers, as well as to ensure fairness, which is sought by domestic enterprises and foreign enterprises. The PUC bill is aimed at ensuring compliance with tax legislation as a continuation of the policy after the tax amnesty. This is useful for increasing the public's acceptance of the tax sector by implementing the principle of implementing tax rights and responsibilities that are easy, cheap, fast, technology-based and information-based. The relevance of the drafting of the new tax bill is to increase the source of government revenue more sustainable by expanding the tax base and increasing compliance with tax legislation and expanding transactions in different jurisdictions. It has the potential to accelerate economic growth and improve the climate through simpler, fairer and more legal tax rules. Significant changes have been seen in the revision of the VAT Act or the Tax Bill on Goods and Services. The bill is designed to increase VAT compliance, as well as expand the tax base on VAT. With a broad base, the potential of so-called revenues will increase so that government spending can be more satisfied than taxes. Expansion of the tax base is planned by reorganizing all tax regimes on goods and services by further restricting the provision of facilities. Restrictions on taxable entrepreneurs (PKPs) will also be exempted from the goods and services tax bill. Major changes are also visible in the revised plan of the UN Act. The UN bill, passed in 2020-2024 by the MoD, provides for an increase in the tax base and tariff flexibility in the transformation of the voting system. The official UN voting system will be changed to self-assessment. The purpose of this change of the system is to allow the state to receive early receipt without waiting for determination from the tax authority. Then, big changes also on the excise bill. The tax paradigm will be reinforced in such a way that the role of the tax in controlling the consumption of certain objects is not limited to the sin tax, but also the control tax or driving tax. Administrative sanctions also take precedence over criminal sanctions. Meanwhile, the Customs Bill is aimed at foreign exchange of the country by increasing investment and exports by providing customs funds that increasingly support the business world. MSME's protection is also part of the urgency of reviewing the review This is. The relevance of this bill also includes the creation of mechanisms to revitalize, simplify and modernize exports. This step is to encourage and maintain a smooth flow of exported goods, improve IT-based services and share data. The revision of the Customs legislation is also aimed at strengthening supervision. These include the prevention, approval of intelligence functions, strengthening the credibility of the audit and strengthening the credibility of the investigation. I'm not good.
