The introductory video will show you the basic functions of MAGIX Movie Edit Pro. We will create a new project, import videos and play them in different ways. Then we'll show you the most important edits and spend some time talking about exports and Functions. New New New Poole contains all the templates, effects and music under templates and audio. Everything is organized into categories. In Media Pool, you can also access the new Movie Edit Pro Store, which has a wide range of templates. The first step is importing. What's the best way to insert material into a program? Here you will see the best way to import video and other media, or how you can record from connected devices. There are three different display modes for editing. In a review of the scene, you can sort the scenes of the film at first sight. In story mode, you can organize scenes and apply titles and effects to them. Timeline mode is the place where more complex edits are made. In this video we'll start by showing the main editing features of Movie Edit Pro: How to cut material from the video, how to trim the beginning and end of the scene, and how to edit the footage and sound separately. We'll then explain the advanced features: how to move the contents of the scene object and the different options for adding new material. Movie Edit Pro offers tons of professional video effects to optimize images or create creative distortions. This video clip will show you the best way to use video effects. The mixing of front and background now will also be explained. However, shots, titles and even videos can often benefit from a bit more movement. These video clips will show you everything you need to know about simulated tracking shots and zooms, image rotation, reflections and 3D shapes. Interactive 360 degree videos offer a full panoramic view. You can change perspective at any time by clicking on video images and dragging with your mouse. We'll show you how to make this kind of video. Some effects need to be changed over time. Image enhancements, such as brightness or contrast, can be used to create dynamic effects with Keyframes. Even tracking shots can be controlled with Keyframes. These video clips will show you how you can use Keyframes. Videos often have sound tracks that need improvement. This video will show you how you can remove the alarm noises and add your own recordings to the audio track. Finally, all the audio tracks in the project will be mixed and improved in the audio mixer. Once you're done with your project, you can record it directly on the disc that will be presented on television. Using the disk menu, you can go directly to individual movies and scenes. The disc menu can be organized in different ways. You can make videos for a variety of purposes. You can save a video on your computer, transfer it to a mobile device, or submit it on a popular internet platform such as YouTube or Facebook. Automatic scene recognition will help you break down longer videos individual scenes. This feature analyzes records for image incisions. Revealed scenes can be saved as berets and arranged in a new order.
