We've incorporated our data to find out which pet parents across the country are naming their feline relatives. From there, we take a look at the best grey cat names of the year. From cute grey kitten names to sophisticated adult gray cat options, you'll find something in our database that fits every cat personality. What's so seductive about a gray cat? Elegant beauties deserve a fantastic grey cat name to complement their eye-catching looks. The names of cats used to be quite simple (here, Fluffy!) and although there is nothing wrong with the classic options, these days, cat owners are choosing a wide variety of interesting names for their pets. When it comes to silver or grey kittens, their smoke-colored skin gives rise to names like Ash, Moon, Gandalf and Bluebell. Find our best selections for grey cat names below, along with the most popular ones of these names, and some fabulous Russian monikers released to a large extent. One of the rarest color variations in a cat is called lilac or lavender, which is a fresh bluish gray, usually spreading evenly throughout the layer. Your new grey cat is part of the family, so take some time to choose a name you love. Along with your silver coat, consider your cat's personality: a feisty pepper or an elegant violet? A daring bubble or a playful Grady? Your interests and favorites also play a role in the name of pets. Cat lovers have chosen favorite food names, book characters, colors and musicians to name their newly adopted kitten or cat. Yes, that means everything from Dorian Gray to Zelda is on the table. And, of course, color doesn't have to take into account your cat's name. A grey cat can look like a top feline name like Lily, Ollie or Boots as well as the next cat. Cats do not usually respond to their names in the same way as dogs, mainly because cat owners are much less likely to train their cats (and therefore teach their cats to associate their names with certain results). However, you'll say your cat's name a lot, so turn your best contenders around. Say them out loud and get an idea of how easy they are to say, not to mention if you like to hear the sound. Trends in Grey Cat Names in all areas, we are seeing a big increase in human names for cats (and dogs, for that matter!) While word names like Smokey and Shadow remain large, along with character names like Baloo and Meeko, the names of the fastest growing cats are also popular baby names. That means cat lovers are choosing Gracie, Rowan and Albus (full name Albus Dumbledore, of course) as kitten names instead of Lady or Kitty. The names of Hipster babies also find their way into our popular cat name data. Names like Opal, Griffin and Luna are hot for newly adopted kittens and cats as well as for trend-set human babies. For grey cats, in particular, we see a continuous fascination with naming cats for other animals. These include Mouse, Goose, Wolf and Fox, along with the more unusual Koala and Otter. Finally, Moon and sky names are great for gray cats (as well as black cats!) These include the ever-popular Moon along with Selena, Artemis, the Moon itself, and Jupiter, Venus, Nimbus, and Storm. Need Cat Sitting? Cats seem more independent than dogs, for sure, but they need attention, play and treats when you're out too. Your big cat deserves great cat care. You've found the best cat cat so now it's time to find the perfect cat nanny. Find your cat's perfect match, right from your phone, and then follow the happy road.
