Become a talented manager Game called Idle Miner Tycoon, which is run by lazy miners. Sounds pretty funny. But it's true. In the game you will become a manager, the president of a mining company. The same is the simulation of the game, but while the game Dev Tycoon allows you to become an employee, in this game you have been promoted. First, you only start the game with a few miners. Currently, your objects are very rudimentary. You have very little money and necessary supplies, the number of employees in the company is not so much. So you have to work hard. Once you have used some valuable gems, you can sell them to have some money. From there you can start expanding your business. Up to 15 types of resources to choose from include charcoal, gold, ruby, moonstone, amethyst, crystal and jade. They bring great value, so you have to use them as much as possible. Some gems are relatively rare, if faced during exploitation, you have to be a happy person. It feels great to have resources your friends don't have. Expand your empire, expand your business and invest in automation because they are more productive, need fewer people and are safer. Machines will help you dig in deep underground mines where people can not get. In addition, you can hire new employees, even managers, to motivate employees to work harder. The better the staff, the greater the amount you pay for them. So you have to make the right investment by avoiding your employees leaving the company just because you can't afford to pay your wages. Idle Miner Tycoon allows you to own up to 20 mines. Once your money has started surplus, don't be afraid to invest more to stimulate the economy.
