Don't miss anything in their to-dos, some people prefer to make a list of upcoming tasks in a notebook, while others have long since started using digital technology solutions. Calendar applications are some of the most important tools worth organizing our lives and carefully planning your time. Many people have switched to specific tools; however, there are still people who do not use calendars on a daily basis. They can make some applications uncomfortable to use, non-functional, or expensive. In this article, we're going to look at the best calendar apps to help you stay organized. Before you download if you are no doubt aware, there are all kinds of calendar apps available. Instead of sifting through the hundreds, we hand-picked 10 of the best calendar apps you get. In addition to the glowing reviews of each of these reviews, we've considered the following aspects when creating this list. User interface - How to navigate the app should be smooth and simple. The buttons on the app should be clear, clear and easy to move. Synchronization - Whether it's other calendar apps or other apps, syncing apps should be easy and improve your overall experience with the app. Additional features - Because there are so many options for calendars, many of these apps offer additional features. These features make the apps stand out from the other apps and give you unique experiences. 1. Any.do Calendar This calendar has a direct integration with Any.Do To-Do List, giving you a unique tandem of two applications. In addition to its extensive functionality, Cal Calendar is easy to use. Creating events is very simple and fast. In addition, depending on the event name, the application automatically adds contacts and geolocation information to the input description. You even check your lists and importing from Any.do Any.do Calendar is a great option for any type of user. It's very convenient and doesn't make viewing mode too complicated. Another good thing is that this tool is available for free, so you use it without giving a dime for the software. Download Any.do Calendar! 2 here. Calendar! 2. Calendar Google Calendar is the official calendar for Android devices that has been tested by many users around the world. If you're trying to get away from it now, consider changing your mind. Since this application is installed on most Android devices by default, many users think that there is nothing special in this program. They're wrong. Google has been updating its calendar for quite a few years, and now comes into Material Design with advanced event features, direct integration into other Google services (for example, supports reminders and Google Now), and comes with Exchange support. The program is super simple and doesn't cost a penny for you. It's a good thing, right? Download Google Calendar here. 3. Calendar Calendar is a relatively new app. It works as a web app and for both iOS and Android devices. It's an intelligent app that teaches your contacts, planning and tasks. It also helps you plan and arrange meetings based on your available time slots. A good thing about Calendar is that it syncs with other calendars you use, such as Apple Calendar and Google Calendar. And so you manage all the calendars you have in one place. Calendar also gives you analysis of your meetings, giving you a clear picture of how to improve your time management. Download Calendar: Meeting & Scheduling here. 4. Business Calendar Business Calendar is aimed at people who use their calendar for work purposes and business task planning. It offers different modes with wide configuration capabilities. The application displays a default view mode per month, and events can be highlighted in different colors. Display modes/sorting can be customized to suit your needs (per month, day, year, or events). You also set up a multi-day viewing mode to see what things will look like over the next few days. Scrolling up and down moves you by month, and if you check a few days, they will appear in a more detailed form. Day view mode provides an hourly schedule, and planning mode provides a detailed schedule for a single event. Business Calendar is a great tool for planning cases, tasks and appointments. There is a support for recurring events, which can be set up in just a few clicks. After you purchase software, you use it to import and export other calendars, delete, copy, or move multiple appointments at once. Android Business Calendar application may seem a bit chaotic, but it works fine and is easy to work with if you've been playing with it for a while. A full version of the application is available for $4.99, but you also find a free version for the app test drive. business calendar here. 5. aCalendar aCalendar opens our collection of top 10 calendar applications available on the market today. IRL Event Social Network One of the most unique apps in this list is the IRL Event Social Network app. As you guess the name, the core focus of this app is social networking. Unlike other social media platforms, you consider this platform to be similar to Meetup.com. It's a site where you connect to people in your area who share a similar interest. IRL is that while also providing a handy calendar for you to events and plan your day. Although it's due to having a secondary focus, you're missing many of the synchronization aspects that other apps have on this list. Regardless, because of this huge social feature, it's worth considering for those who want to make more connections. Download IRL Event Social Network here. 9. Today's Calendar Today Calendar is one of the hippest and edgy calendars in our list. The solution was one of the first to truly embrace material design and remains one of the few who sticks to the neat style. The calendar application offers bright colors, simple controls and great functionality. This is not as heavy an application as many others; it won't eat all the memory of your device. If you're not looking for something complicated and over-functional, Today's Calendar is what you need. You always test the application before you pay for it - the program is available for free. Download Today Calendar here. 10. Timepage Timepage is an intuitive calendar app that manages your time in a way that other calendar apps can't. It offers the same features you'd expect from other calendar apps: opportunities to capture events, notifications, and reminders, weather, and the driving time of a particular event. However, the app goes beyond these functionalities in two ways. The first way is that while the app sends you notifications, it also has reminders for you for what's to come. That little extra time you prepare and make adjustments to your day if necessary. The second feature - more importantly - is the heat map when you start looking at the full view of your calendar. This heat map indicates which days you are busiest and other days where you are freer. This heat map provides a quick look to broadly determine which days are good to add more events and other tasks. Download Timepage here. Our Verdict Searching for the right application to manage your different calendars and plan your busy day can sometimes turn into a series of obstacles. Most of us need flexible applications that can be easily used to manage our difficult schedule. The application must have all the necessary time schedule functions and be intuitive.
