

I'm not robot

Continue

Dr gero original dragon ball

Directory: Characters → Earthlings → Red Ribbon Army
Directory: Characters → Villains → DBZ villains → Androids
I have cleared the field of innocents, in accordance with your wishes. Do you disagree with my methods? - A Handy Trick
Doctor Gero # 20Artificial Human No. 20
The Gathering of the Warriors
Dragon Ball Z: Super Android 13!
Human-type Earthling (formerly Android Mechanical Type[1]
Future Dr. Gero
Dr. Gero
Dr. Gero (ドクター・ゲロ, Dokutā Gero, lit. Doctor Gero), also known as Android 20 (20,200, Jinzōningen Niju-Gō, lit. Artificial Human No. 20), is a supporting antagonist in the Dragon Ball franchise, appearing in the Dragon Ball manga and the animes Dragon Ball Z and Dragon Ball GT. He is a genius scientist who is the mastermind behind the Red Ribbon Androids, chief among them the bio-organic Cell. Dr. Gero is the chief antagonist of the Androids Saga. Dr Gero's appearance as Dr Gero's Android 20 appearance consists of light tanned skin, blue eyes, a large bushy white mustache, and long hair. He also has a Red Ribbon Army logo on the hat that hides his visible brain after turning himself into an android. Dr. Gero's mechanical body also lacks the eyebrows he had in his old, organic form, instead with a pronounced eyebrow. His clothing is black, with orange parts on the upper arms, and pale yellow sleeves on the forearms. His pants are dark brown and his shoes are black and white. Dr. Gero's personality is very cold-blooded, willing to stop at nothing to achieve his goals, he does not let in his way and even kidnaps other people to use in his experiments. He also holds a strong hatred for Goku due to Goku defeating the entire Red Ribbon Army. He has full confidence in his technological skills and intellect, as he believes, even when the odds are against him, that he, or his creations, will somehow succeed. Gero also trusts his creations with his life, now believing that he has improved them, they will respect him as their master. Despite this, however, he explains it seems that I have no choice immediately for releasing Android 17 and 18, implying that he was aware of the serious risks to himself of activating them due to their hatred of him. Despite his cold heart, however, he was able to show affection, as he modeled Android 16 after his late son and deliberately made #16 soft to the risk of him being destroyed in battle due to him not being able to bear the thought of that happening. [2] Presumably this was also why Dr Gero chose not to activate it and why he didn't throw it away like he had with the Android models that were 16 (except for 8).
Biography
Background
Dr. Gero is the chief scientist of the Red Ribbon Army; he was one of the founders of the Red Ribbon Army to begin with and was also effectively in control. Control. designed the weapons of the Red Ribbon and created the first androids in service of the Red Ribbon Army. He built Androids because mechs can be captured and used by the enemy, while Androids can think for themselves. [2] Another scientist, Dr. Flappe has been named as Android 8's creator. Daizenshuu 7 addresses this inconsistency by declaring that Dr. Flappe and Dr. Gero were colleagues in charge of the Red Ribbon Army's Android Development Program. The Red Ribbon Army is not the main reason for Dr. Gero's desire to make androids and cyborgs, as he reveals in GT that he always dreamed of replacing the entire human race with artificial beings, even before Goku defeated the Red Ribbon Army. Dr. Gero's son was a high Red Ribbon soldier, but he died when he was hit by an enemy bullet; Gero later modeled the powerful Android 16 after his late son. [2] At one point, Dr. Gero brought home a doll decorating the command center of an enemy base as a trophy, which he later used as a model to design Android 19. [2] He fathered this child with the man who was the basis of Android 21. [4] After the Red Ribbon Army is defeated by Goku, Dr. Gero goes into hiding in his laboratory located in a mountain area north of North City. In this lab he strives to create the ultimate fighting machine. Using a highly intelligent tracking device disguised as a ladybug, he has been studying Goku and the Z Fighters for years, observing the battles Goku has with Tien Shinhan, King Piccolo, Piccolo and the Saiyans Raditz, Nappa and Vegeta. Dr. Gero stops studying Goku's power when the Saiyan leaves for Namek, believing that he had already gathered enough information; so he simply adjusts the androids' power levels to adjust for Goku's expected power increase, not good for the power level of Goku's Super Saiyan form. Believing that he had made the ultimate fighting machines, he completed his plans and built a series of Androids. Android 16 was modeled after Gero's dead son, a high-ranking Red Ribbon soldier long ago felled by an enemy bullet. In his affection, Gero made him powerful, but did not want him to be destroyed in battle, so he made him soft. [2] While searching for fresh material for his experiments, Dr. Gero meets two notorious delinquents by chance, two siblings, a boy, and a girl. He kidnaps them and restructures them in Android 17 and Android 18. [5] However, the two became rebellious as they retained their human free will, so he deactivated them. According to Android 18, Dr Gero destroyed all other androids up to Android 15. 1-7 and 9-12 were completely artificial, but Gero could do not control: too dark, too stupid, too nice, etc.[2] Android 19 was modeled after a doll decorated the command center of an enemy base, which brought Gero house as a trophy. [2] To become immortal, Dr. Gero has Android 19 to turn it into an Android,[6] Android Android The only human part of him as an android is his brain, which was transplanted into his android body by Android 19. Dr Gero has transferred his brain to an energy-absorbing model Android rather than an infinitely-powered model, which would have allowed him much larger energy reserves. Android 18 hints that it may have been because he thinks an energy-absorbing model Android is easier to use as a host. Gero would later disguise his true identity by claiming that he was only Android 20 and that Gero had died long ago. Dr. Gero (in his human form) as seen in a flashback During the construction of the Androids, Dr. Gero discovers a way to fuse together the cells of the strongest warriors to walk the Earth (Goku, Piccolo, Vegeta, Frieza, and King Cold), and tries to create a supreme fighting entity. After real assuming that his project would take too long, he decides to focus attention on other things and leave his supercomputer out of his lab to complete the ultimate creature, which he calls Cell. [9] Cell later speculated that Dr. Gero created him to defeat the Earth and later to destroy the entire universe. [10]
Dragon Ball Z Cell Saga
Main article: Androids Saga
I'm surprised you knew we were androids. - Dr. Gero to the Z Fighters
Android 20 in Sasebo, the city of Amembo Island
Two years after the destruction of Namek, and Android 20 reveals that he has already gathered enough information; so he simply adjusts the androids' power levels to adjust for Goku's expected power increase. Goku tells Android 20 he missed something. Android 20 and Android 19 are surprised to hear this, and Piccolo says it's a fatal mistake not to know about the Super Saiyan. Goku then powers up and transforms, and the eruption of ki warnings Gohan, Krillin, and Yamcha to the location of the battle. 20 admits that Goku's calculated limits are far but he says that 19 goku can still handle. Goku says he'll find out. Discover. themselves, and cost in to do the fight. Android 20 fires lasers at Piccolo Goku, at the beginning, does well in battle, completely overwhelming 19. Android 20 is concerned that Android 19 will run out of energy before it can absorb the power of Goku. However, the Saiyan's Heart Virus manifests itself at that exact moment and hinders its performance. Goku, visibly exhausted, decides to try to finish 19 with a Kamehameha. Upon seeing the explosion, 19 and 20 are overjoyed, and 19 simply absorbs the explosion with his right hand. 20 notes that the power of 19 has increased, while Goku's has decreased dramatically. Krillin gives Goku a Senzu Bean, hoping it will help him. Android 20 realizes that the bean is indeed the legendary Senzu, and Yamcha is now optimistic about Goku's chances again. However, the Senzu could not cure Goku's disease and the Saiyan can no longer maintain its Super Saiyan form. 19 jumps, landing on Goku's chest and grabbing him by the neck to absorb his energy. The rest of the Z Fighters fly forward to help Goku, but they are intercepted by Android 20, which tells them they will not intervene in battle and warns them to try at their own risk. Piccolo says he will and kicks at 20, but 20 dodges and hits Piccolo with Eye Lasers. Piccolo falls to the ground, and 20 says his actions were bold but stupid. Before Goku can be killed, Vegeta saves him by kicking 19 in the face, declaring that he will be the only one to kill Goku. Android 19 and 20 The Z Fighters and the androids are both baffled by the sudden appearance of Vegeta. Piccolo, lying on the ground, suddenly gets up. He reveals that he simply pretended defeat to for the android to let his guard down, telling Gohan that it would be more than a blast to defeat him. Vegeta says he saw everything, and tells Goku that he's a fool for turning Super Saiyan, although he noticed the anomaly in his body and kicks him forward in the air. Piccolo grabs him, and Vegeta says someone should drag Goku home and give him Heart Medicine. Yamcha says he will, as he seems to be the least useful there. Piccolo tells Yamcha to take some of the drug as well, because the virus can be contagious. As Yamcha flies off with Goku, Android 19 watches and prepares to give chase, but Android 20 does not tell him, because it would be nice to save the best (Goku) for last. 20 says they can take care of the rest of the Z Fighters now, and that things will be more interesting because Vegeta has joined them. 19 asks if he can kill Vegeta, and 20 agrees after calling him greedy and says he will take the other four in return. 19 that from his observations, the androids are not as strong as they were said to be. He tells 19 that he knows about their energy absorption through the palms, but 19 answers that he already knows Vegeta's abilities. Vegeta says that Saiyans Saiyans are reduced to numbers and wonders if androids can feel fear, then turns into a Super Saiyan. The Z Fighters and androids are both amazed at this development, and Krillin says he thought a Super Saiyan had to have a pure heart. Vegeta says his heart is pure, but pure evil. He tells how he endured a brutal training regime before reaching his own limits, becoming a Super Saiyan because of his anger against himself. Android 20 tells Vegeta that he still has no party for them, and 19 charges toward Vegeta. Android 20 can only look in horror as Vegeta aggressively beats 19 around. Terrified, Android 19 scrambles out of the crater and begins to run away. Vegeta soars into the air and prepares to destroy Android 19 when Android 20 verbally mediates, demanding it stop. Vegeta tells him he'll deal with him after that. After enough powering up, Vegeta unleashes a Big Bang Attack on the fleeing android, which creates a huge explosion, stunning the spectators. When the smoke clears, only the head of Android 19 remains. Vegeta lands near Android 20 and powers up to its basic form, telling Android 20 that he has lost a lot of energy and that this is his chance to beat him. Android 20 wonders what kind of trick Vegeta is trying to pull. Vegeta asks why Android 20 said he had no hope, and Android 20 tells Vegeta that although it has exceeded their calculations, it is more powerful. Vegeta asks 20 to show him. Intimidated, Android 20 then runs away, heading to nearby rocks as Piccolo had previously feared. Android 20 absorbs Vegeta's blast Android 20 quickly hides from a rejuvenated Super Saiyan Vegeta and watches it from a distance. Impatient and tired of the search, Vegeta decides to flush 20 by destroying part of the area, so he flies into the air and throws a Photon Bomber to the ground. Krillin yells that he stops, as calm the team could get caught up in the explosion. Seeing its chance, Android steps in front of the explosion and absorbs it through his palms. When you see this, Vegeta flies straight to the 20, which quickly disappears. Vegeta chases after him, but is angry to discover that 20 is faster and manages to leave his sight. Android 20, watching Vegeta from above, says he has become too reliant on tracking ai and has lost his eye for movement, but he admits he doesn't count on so much power from Vegeta. Although he believes the most logical option is to return to his lab, he wants to avoid it if possible. He then sees Gohan, Ten, Piccolo, and Krillin search for him and decides to steal their energy to become powerful enough defeat Vegeta. Piccolo battles Android breaking the right arm Android 20 decides to attack Piccolo first, because he is the strongest after Vegeta. He hinders Piccolo from behind to absorb his energy and covers his mouth so he can't 20 tells Piccolo that he is running out of energy, Gohan arrives and touches Android 20 from behind, turning him away from Piccolo (this is also the android hat). Krillin, Tien Shinhan and Vegeta feel Gohan's ki, and surround Android 20 upon reaching the area. Android 20 is amazed at the arrival of the other Z Fighters, but decides to hold on for time and absorb more energy from the others for fighting Vegeta. Gohan tells Krillin to give Piccolo a Senzu Bean, which he does. Piccolo then descends to Android 20, removing his weighted clothing. He says he won't interfere with Vegeta because he wants to run into Android 20 in person. Vegeta replies that he doesn't care if Piccolo is killed, but says he will only give Android 20 more energy. Android 20 thinks to itself that this is a new opportunity to absorb more of Piccolo's energy, but Piccolo quickly disappears from his sight and knees him in the face. He tries to fight Piccolo head-on, but Piccolo is superior by far due to the three years of intensive training with Goku (and also the merger with Nail). Piccolo mercilessly breaks the android's right arm and prepares to destroy it, but is distracted by the arrival of Future Trunks. Believing he has misdeeded too much, Android 20 decides to retreat into his lab, to activate Android 17 and Android 18, although he complains that he can't fly away without being spotted and decides to walk away on foot. Suddenly, Bulma arrives by plane with Yajirobe and the current, infant version of Trunks in tow. Seeing a chance to escape, 20 declares that 17 and 18 will come and avenge his defeat, before firing a large Photon Wave at Bulma's plane. With a cloud of smoke and dust covering its tracks, Android 20 runs away into the rocky mountains. After recognizing him as Dr. Gero, Bulma informs the Z Warriors about the approximate area of his laboratory and departs for the mountains near North City. Vegeta, more overconfident than usual thanks to its new Super Saiyan power, goes on its own to challenge the androids, so the rest of the group becomes determined to find Gero or his lab before Vegeta does. Gero confronts Krillin Meanwhile, as he hides among the rocks, Dr. Gero sees Vegeta and then Future Trunks flying overhead toward his lab. He initially thinks it must be a coincidence, and that they can't know the location because only a handful of scientists know its existence. Thinking back, he recognizes Goku's close friend Bulma as heir to Capsule Corporation and thinks she learned about him through her father. Suddenly he sees Piccolo, Krillin and Tien Shinhan. Mr. Shinhan, in the same direction and realizes that they are indeed on their way to destroy his lab 17 and 18 before he can activate them. He goes after them and thinks their need to find the exact location will give him plenty of time. In the anime, as he approaches his lab, Gero Krillin feels nearby and hinders him in an ambush. Before he can kill Krillin, Gero Piccolo feels nearby and decides to spare him in his haste to activate his Androids. Dr. Gero quickly reaches his lab, and jumps up into the cave in which it is houses. When he's about to get in, however, his sensors detect something, and he turns around to see Krillin looking at him. Gero thinks Krillin can't do anything, and opens the door to his lab. He then tells Krillin that even if he calls the others, they'll be late now. Krillin then raises his ki, and Piccolo, Ten, Vegeta, and Trunks all make sense. Android 18 and Android 17 after Dr Gero awakens them from their Android pods Gero, in his lab, says that he prefers not to activate 17 and 18, but that he has no choice now, and hopes that he has made them obedient. He then activates Android 17 while holding his Shut Down Remote. After waking up, Android 17 says good morning to Dr. Gero. When Gero comments on his politeness, Android 17 says that Gero is his creator, although he eyes the remote. Relieved that Android 17 seems to work well, (in Dragon Ball Z Kai, Gero believes he successfully reprogrammed 17's personality), Gero then activates Android 18. Android 18 is polite to Gero too, but they also eye the remote control. She says of gero's making himself an android, and Gero says he wanted eternal life. He also says that he previously spent too much time on their infinite energy reactor. (in Dragon Ball Z Kai, Dr. Gero explains that in order for their infinite energy reactors to function, he had to disable the behavioral limiters connected to their firmware), and that they would not obey him. He then tells the news that the Z Fighters are on their way, and tells the double androids to kill them all, which they agree to do. The Z Fighters arrive soon and try to break in. This temporarily distracts Gero, and 17 steals the remote from him. Much to Gero's horror, he crushes the remote control and tells Gero that he won't put them to sleep. Gero meets his end Suddenly Vegeta blows the door down and the androids are surrounded by the Z Fighters. Dr Gero tells Android 18 and Android 17 to kill the Z Fighters, stating that they destroyed Android 19 and nearly killed him. Android 17 asks if 19 was an energy absorption model and the one that turned it into android, and Gero replies that he was. Android 18 asks if Gero went back to old energy absorption model on a more recent Android, because infinite energy models like them and Android 17 were too powerful to Dr Gero tells them it doesn't matter now, and orders the pair to kill the Z Fighters, but 17 says they will fight whenever they want. Gero is even more upset when Android 18 starts inspecting a room labeled 16. Android 18 notes that 16 is also an infinite energy model and asks how the android inside is different from them, but Gero tells her to get away from 16's room. Android 17 tells Android 18 to activate Android 16, but Gero tells them not to, because 16 was a failure and would put the whole world at risk. Android 18 wonders why he stayed 16, and Gero says he planned to fix it later. Android 17 says it has a much higher power score than Android 16 and tells Android 18 to activate it. Gero calls the pair failures, and says he will deactivate them all for good. Android 17 reminds him that the remote control has been destroyed, but Gero says he can build another one. Again, he screams on Android 18 not to activate Android 16, but suddenly Android 17 brutally murders Gero by sploosing him from behind with his arm, decapitating him with a quick kick, and then stepping on Gero's still-living head. His remains are later destroyed along with what appears to be the rest of his laboratory in the hands of Future Trunks when he fires the Buster Cannon with the intention of destroying Android 17 and Android 18.

Majin Buu Saga
Main article: Kid Buu Saga
In filler, Dr. Gero is allowed by King Yemma to keep his android body while entering hell, but the reason is unknown. Along with Cell, Frieza, King Cold, and the Ginyu Force, Dr. Gero looks at the final battle between Goku and Kid Buu, as one of the few people cheering for Kid Buu.
Dragon Ball GT Super 17 Saga
Main article: Super 17 Saga
Dr. Gero and Dr. Myuu Pan grabs Gero before Super Android 17 kills him
Dr. Gero is first seen in Dragon Ball GT in hell, greeting Dr. Myuu after Myuu is destroyed by Baby. There, the two scientists are working on a plan to create the ultimate android that could destroy Goku. They came up with a plan to combine both technologies and achieve the perfect Android by merging Hell Fighter 17 and Android 17 to create Super 17. Then they created a dimensional hole to get both androids in the same place, Earth. On Earth, while Super 17 is engaged in battle with Vegeta, Gohan, Trunks, Goths, and Majuub, Pan sneakily grabs Dr. Gero from behind to make Super 17 stop attacking Vegeta. The doctor does, but the terrifying creation turns to him. It turned out that Dr. Myuu reprogrammed Super 17 to obey him alone. In an ironic twist of fate, Dr. Gero meets his end in the 17 again.
Movie appearances
Super Android 13! Editorial: Dragon Ball Z: Super Android 13!
Dr. Gero in Super Android 13!
Dr. Gero's death at the hands of Androids 17 and 18 is shown at the beginning of the film. After his death, his hatred transferred to his computer,[11] which completed completion 14, 15 and 13. In addition, he also received several mentions in the film itself, mostly related to Androids 13, 14 and 15 and their vendetta against Goku. In the Funimation dub, Dr. Gero's Supercomputer also goes on to speak with Dr. Gero's voice, while the Japanese version only implies that the supercomputer acted in Gero's name.
Other Dragon Ball Stories
Dragon Ball SD
Main article: Dragon Ball SD
Red Ribbon Army Saga
Dr. Gero talk with General White Main article: Red Ribbon Army Saga
Dr. Gero appears briefly during the battle of Muscle Tower, although he is not present on the tower, he looks Android 8 betrayed the Red Ribbon Army and starts planning Android 17 and Android 18. Ironically, Gero in this particular SD comic resembles the Parsley City Old Man.
Fortune teller
Baba Saga
Main article: Soothsayer Baba Saga
Dr. Gero appears in the second bonus chapter for Dragon Ball SD: after defeating Future Cell, Future Trunks travels even further back in time to stop Gero from making the Androids in the first place. When Future Trunks arrives, Gero tries to lure the girl who would eventually become Android 18 to him with a lollipop. Future Trunks is attacking, but at that moment kid goku and krillin are coming. Gero sends Android 9 to fight them, but Goku beats it with a single kick. Dr. Gero promises never to cause any more trouble, but later goes back to his word by cursing revenge on Goku once again, allowing Future Trunks' journey to be for nothing, as the future goes on as it would anyway.
Supersonic Warriors
Main article: Dragon Ball Z: Supersonic Warriors
It is seen in Cell's scenario that Gero manages to survive the encounter in his laboratory due to a backup unit. On the day of the announcement of the Cell Games, Gero is surprised that Cell has come out of the future and went on to get his support in realizing the dream of the Red Ribbon Army, only for Cell to reveal that he did not care for Gero's plans. Angry at his rebellion, Gero fights cell and is defeated. Gero then says he's surprised at how strong Cell has become before he's destroyed again.
Online
Main articles: Dragon Ball Online and Dr Gero clone
A clone of Dr. Gero appears as an antagonist, which takes place in Age 1000.
Fusions
Main article: Dragon Ball Fusions
Android 20 is one of many Red Ribbon Androids that is located in the Timespace Rift created by Tekka and Pinich's desire to shenron to create a tournament to determine the strongest in time and space. In addition, it has been revealed that several other Androids are made true in other timelines by Dr. Gero's rogue database that includes Android 33, Android 44, Android 55, and Namekian Android 76. During Sub-Event: Justice's Little Ally, Android 20 Leads 19, 18 and 17 in An Attack on Satan City they are driven out by Uub causing the Androids to split into pairs. 20 20 19. Uub asks Tekka's Team to help him track down one of the pairs. If they decide to go after the Old Man and the Fat, they will be forced to take down 19 and 20. 20 is shocked by the power of Tekka, Kid Goku, Kid Trunks, Goths, and Pan making him wonder if his detection system is faulty only for 19 to point out that it is not like he is picking up the same readings. Dr. Gero decides to fight Tekka's team to absorb their energy, but is defeated to his disbelief. If they go after 17 & 18 instead of 19 and 20 are defeated by Uub.
Android 20/Dr. Gero can be recruited by KOfing him with a Zenkai Attack. He appears as the leader of a Strong Enemy team made up of himself, 19, 33, 44, and 76 who appears on top of a cliff overlooking the Future Capsule Corporation in Area 3F.
FighterZ
Main article: Dragon Ball FighterZ
Dr. Gero appears to have other secret labs, one of which contained another supercomputer that he had programmed to develop Android 21. In addition, it is revealed that he has created a system capable of linking human or artificial souls to another person, enabling them to control that person's body. He also developed a machine capable of generating waves that can suppress the power of most fighters. His laboratories can also be used to make mindless clones like a makeshift army. Although his exact reasons for commissioning Android 21 are unconfirmed, several characters conclude that his intentions were to lead her to lead a resurgent Red Ribbon Army to conquer the Earth and presumably the universe using its laboratories and inventions.
Power Manga and Anime
Android 20 easily impales Yamcha into his belly with his hand while absorbing his energy. He can withstand a hit from the base Goku and usually remain unfazed by it, but it failed to move him back somewhat and stop him from continuing his laser eye barrage. It is implicit that Gero in its Android 20 form is more powerful than Android 19. Piccolo stated that he was too much for the likes of Gohan, Tien or Krillin to treat. This is true, because he easily defeated Krillin in the anime, despite being damaged by Piccolo. Android 20 is weaker than Super Saiyan Vegeta and prefers to walk away rather than face him directly, but he believed that if he could absorb energy from Gohan, Ten, Piccolo, and Krillin, then he would be powerful enough to defeat Vegeta. When Piccolo removed his weighted clothing to use its full power, Android 20 was completely surpassed by the Namekian, with Piccolo's power increasing since the Frieza Saga following the huge training that took place in preparation for the Androids. In large part because of his cybernetic body, Android 20 was also able to survive a bullet shot from a rifle, as evidenced by his shrug of being accidentally hit by a hunter while on his way back to his laboratory. However, as an energy absorption model android, its power force how much energy it absorbs, and this model is inferior to the infinite energy model. This made him much weaker than Android 17 and 18, and forced him to use a Shut Down Remote to subdue them. Like Bulma and Dr. Brief, Dr. Gero's greatest strength is his intelligence and scientific expertise as he is able to design and build Androids, Bio-Androids, and Cyborgs able to power more than the likes of Frieza (for his training), Super Saiyans, and Super Namekold, making them some of the strongest fighters in Universe 7 and some of the strongest fighters to come from Earth. Statements from authors and guides Android 20 has basic capabilities about the same as Android 19, [12] Video games
In Gero's alternative scenario in Supersonic Warriors 2, after draining Gohan's power Gero became strong enough to defeat Super Saiyan Vegeta, then going to subdue Androids 16, 17 and 18 at the same time. After upgrading himself with the Absorption Barrier, he defeats Future Trunks and also extracts his power. He was able to hold his own against Perfect Cell long enough for the virus he gave him to take effect. In Dragon Ball Fusions, Android 20 is weaker than the collective members of Tekka's Team (Tekka, Kid Goku, Kid Trunks, Goths, & Pan) who are stronger through timespace tournament training. He is also inferior to the teenage Uub who is strong enough to beat both 19 & 20; (or 17 & 18), which makes sense given that Uub is the reincarnation of Kid Buu and a student of Goku.
Abilities
Forms and Power ups
Android 20 Editorial: Android T
to extend its lifespan and become much more powerful. Dr. Gero had his brain transplanted into the most powerful energy-absorbing android model, which is based on Gero's original body, and Android became 20; who owned half a human body. [12] Enhanced a form taken over by Dr. Gero in The Heroess of the Dragon Ball, in this state the eyes of Android 20 glow yellow with green pupils and he has been improved to be able to fully control androids: 16, 17 and 18. Enhanced Dr. Gero first appears in the alternate timeline of Future Trunks, where he attacked with his brainwashed Androids during the invasion of Goku Black. He later appears in the Dark Empire Saga working with the Dark Empire in Age 767, and is fought in hell during the Universe Survival Saga as one of the considered candidates for the tenth member of Team Universe 7.
Dark Ki
Main article: Dark Ki
In Dragon Ball Legends, Dr Gero alongside his remote-controlled Android 20 were brainwashed to completely forget about his revenge against Goku and instead he dedicated his life to creating the Ultimate Warrior, believe was the only way people would respect his technology.
Mergers
Android 1920 Editorial: Android 1920
Android 1920 in Dragon Ball Fusions
Android 1920 is the EX-Fusion of Android 19 and Android 20/Dr. Gero which was was in Dragon Ball Fusions.
Ultra Fusion
Main article: Ultra Fusion
As a member of Tekka's Team, Android can run Five-Way Fusion with four members of Tekka's Team to create an Ultra Fusion. If initiated by Android 20 itself will result in a male Earthling Ultra Fusion.
Equipment
Detection System - Built into his own Android body is a scouter-like device that allows 20 to detect energy levels.
Metamo-Ring – A device invented by Bulma and produced by the Capsule Corporation in the Timespace Rift that allows two people to wear one to merge as long as they want and can diffuse it at will by removing the single Metamo-Ring made when the two Metamo-Rings fuse together with the two fusee.
Soul Link System – A device designed to link artificial or natural human souls to other beings allowing this soul to possess and control. Although never used in his lifetime, Android 21 and 16 would use it during the story of FighterZ.
Power Suppression Wave Generator - A device designed to suppress the ai of powerful fighters, regardless of whether is natural or artificial (if Android 17 and 18 are affected). Even Goud Buu is performed putting him in a deep sleep. The waves also prevent Goku and Vegeta from gaining access to Super Saiyan Blue unless they regain their true power through Soul Linking, although they still have access to their mortal Super Saiyan forms such as Super Saiyan Full Power, Super Saiyan Second Grade and Super Saiyan 3 although Soul Linking is needed to use them properly. Although never used in his life, Android 21 under the influence of its evil persona would use during the story of FighterZ.
However, 21 is potentially vulnerable to the waves making it dangerous for it and displayed in the Android 21 Arc. Bulma also develops a machine to counter the waves, while gods like Beerus and Whis are unaffected, although they can feel the waves.
Remote Controlled
Android #20 - In Dragon Ball Legends, Gero works across multiple remote-controlled Android 20s to avoid risks to himselfes.
Virus – In his scenario in Supersonic Warriors 2, Gero was able to create a virus that could immobilize the likes of Cell.
Time Machine - In his screenplay in Supersonic Warriors 2, Gero obtained and rebuilt Cell's time machine, also rigging to self-destruct. He used it, in order to banish Cell to the farthest road point in time possible. Appearances in other media
Cross Epoch
Dr Gero is mentioned by Trunks in the crossover manga Cross Epoch. The Vegeta Sky Pirates are supposed to fight with the Dr Gero Sky Pirates, but the first choose to attend Shenron's tea party instead.
Video Game Appearances
Dr. Gero in Zenkai Battle
Gero appears as a playable character in Dragon Ball Heroeos, where he was available on the first release of the game. A stronger version of Dr. Gero with the reinforced shape was added as a non-playable boss in Mission 9 for the Future Trunks Saga.
Future Warrior wears Dr. Gero's outfit while performing the Buster Cannon in Xenoverse Although he does not appear physically in Xenoverse, his outfit appears as a dress (Dr. Gero's Clothes) and accessory (Dr. Gero's Hat) options for the Future Warrior that can both be obtained in Parallel Quest 27: Artificial Warriors. Dr. Gero is also mentioned by the Warrior's Masters, Android 18 & 17; Cell when the Warrior talks to them while wearing Gero's Clothes.
Dr. Gero's Clothes and Dr. Gero's Hat return as a clothing and accessory in Dragon Ball Xenoverse 2.
In Dragon Ball Fusions, it has emerged that Dr. Gero's rogue database was responsible for the creation of Android 33, Android 44, Android 55, and Android 76, which appear as fighters in the Timespace Tournament located in the Timespace Rift created by Tekka and Pinich's wish to Shenron.
Voice Actors
Japanese: Kōji Yada † (DBZ, DBGT, DBZ Kai and most media until 2014), Ikuya Sawaki (Dragon Ball Legends, Kakarot)
English: German dub: Gerhard Paul
Italian dub: Oliviero Corbetta
Portuguese: Portuguese dub: António Semedo
Brazilian Portuguese dub: Aldo César (DBZ), Luiz Carlos de Moraes (DBGT), José Carlos Guerra (DBZ Kai)
Latin American Spanish dub: Jose Luis Castañeda (DBZ, DBGTr), Guillermo Coria (DBZ Kai)
Jordi Dauder
French dub: Julien Kramer (DBZ Kai)
Hungarian dub: István Rudas (DBZ), András Várkonyi (DBGTr)
Greek dub: Themis Psihogios (DBZ), Panagiotis Tsisas (DBGTr)
Battles
Dragon Ball Z
Dr. Gero vs. Yamcha
Dr. Gero vs. Piccolo
Dr. Gero vs. Piccolo
Dr. Gero and Android 19 vs. Goku (Super Saiyan) (Goku's nightmare; anime only)
Dr. Gero vs. Krillin (anime only)
Dr. Gero vs. Android 17
Dragon Ball GT
List of characters killed by Dr. Gero
Trivia
According to Akira Toriyama , Android 20 and Android 19 were originally intended as androids that Future Trunks predicted of, however, its former editor Kazuhiko Torishima said the two looked outdated and ridiculous. So, instead of being the latest androids, Toriyama opted to continue the saga in favor of Android 17 and Android 18. [13]
Although he led the advanced technology of androids with eternal energy, it is not known why he did not re-build up in this pattern, since according to Bulma, he had the desire to live forever. However, 18 implied while taunting him that it was because such technology was difficult for him to control. Unlike other Red Ribbon Army members, Gero's name is not based on any color (or in the case of Major Metallitron and Captain Dark, color variations) in either the Japanese version or any localizations. Despite being part of the Red Ribbon Army, which plays an important role in Dragon Ball, Dr. Gero was never even mentioned until Trunks mentions him during the Trunks Saga of Dragon Ball Z. Strange in the Funimation dub, when Future Trunks Trunks the androids to Goku, Trunks talks as if Goku confronted Gero and spared his life, telling him that he should never have let Gero go. Goku seems to confirm this, despite the fact that no encounter is depicted. This dialogue is changed to Dragon Ball Kai with Goku instead expressing surprise that someone in the Red Ribbon Army managed to escape the destruction. This is somewhat incorrect, as several Red Ribbon characters and many soldiers seemed to have survived their destruction. In the same dub episode, Future Trunks also implies that Dr. Gero was the leader of the Red Ribbon Army, however, Commander Red was the leader. In a flashback sequence from the episode Double Trouble for Goku, Master Roshi refers to Dr. Gero as the current leader of the Red Ribbon Army. This is technically true because, his later creations aside, he is the highest ranking current member left. In the FUNimation dub of the same episode, Master Roshi also claims that Dr. Gero was the leader of the Red Ribbon Army during the time Goku destroyed, and it is also implied that all of commander Red's appearances in the flashbacks were actually from a younger Dr. Gero. In both Super Android 13! and the brief flashback during Dragon Ball GT, the dialogue when 17 kills him is different from that of the Dragon Ball Z anime. In Laboratory Basement, according to plans he finds in Gero's lab, Future Trunks says that Gero was also working on a gas powered toaster oven. In the FUNimation dub, G is pronounced in his name as soft J, and the there is pronounced as dusde. While in the Ocean dub, they begin pronouncing it differently, with the G sounding like a hard J, and the ero sounds more like arrow, whereas in the original Japanese and translations that follow this pronunciation, the G in its name is a normal G, as in grip, making its name Geh-roh, as in grapple.
Like Frieza, dr. Gero was sent to hell with his android body instead of his human body.
Gallery
Dr Gero creating new Androids (flashback)Android 20 strangles a driverAndroid 20 impales YamchaAndroid 20 removes his hand from Yamcha's chestAndroid 20 fires his Bionic PunisherDr. Gero reveals himself to destroy an android tooAndroid 20 with his hat onAndroid 20 on the fight against the Z FightersAndroid 20 tells Vegeta not to destroy Android 19Android 20 watches Vegeta brand the Big Bang AttackAndroid 20 flies toward PiccoloAndroid 20 drains Piccolo from his energyDr. Gero attacks Krillin with his Pesky Fly techniqueDr. Gero races to his labDr. Gero for Android 17 kills himDr. Gero watches the fight between Goku and Kid BuuDr. Gero in Dragon Ball GTAndroid 20 about to be hit by Super 17's Full Power WaveAndroid 20 is destroyed by Super 17Art by Dr. Gero
Akira ToriyamaAndroid 20 Fights Vegeta in Super ButōdenClose-up by Dr. Gero in his Model 2 attire of Budo 2.Dr. Gero's Model 2 color palette by Tenkaichichi Tenkaichichi Gero and Dr. Myuu in GT: TransformationAndroid 20 in Dragon Ball OnlineDr. Gero in Raging Blast 2Dr. Gero in Ultimate ButōdenAndroid 20 performing Speed Up in Dragon Ball FusionsAdd a photo to this gallery See also References
↑ Chouzenshū 1, 2013 †
2.0
2.1
2.2
2.3
2.4
2.5
2.6
2.7
Dragon Ball Q&A section, Dragon Ball Full Color
Androids Saga volume 1, 2014 †
3.0
3.1
3.2
3.3
Dragon Ball Fusions, 2016 †
Dragon Ball FighterZ , 2018 †
Daizenshū 7 , 1996 †
Dragon Ball: Raging Blast 2, 2010 †
Dragon Ball chapter 349, The Androids Awake!
† Yes. Now I have eternal life like you. - Dr. Gero, Dragon Ball Z episode 133, Nightmare Comes True †
Explained during Imperfect Cell's flashback to Piccolo.
† Dragon Ball Z episode 191, The Terror will not end †
Daizenshū 6, 1995 †
12.0
12.1
Daizenshū 4, 1995 †
Right around then was when Androids No. 19 and No. 20 appeared. You weren't my editor or anything anymore, but you called me specifically to say, I thought the enemies had finally come, but aren't these just a guy and a fatso? (laughs) In reality, I had no plans for anyone other than number 19 and number 20 to appear. But there was no help, so I brought out number 17 and number 18. Then you called me and said, What, this time it's just a little snot-nosed? So I brought Cell out. Akira Toriyama, Daizenshū 2, 1995
Community content is available under CC-BY-SA unless otherwise stated.
More
Dragon Ball Wiki Wiki

cces10633f.pdf , manhattan gmat number properties guide.pdf , date_functions_in_sql_with_examples.pdf , si_units_worksheet.pdf , bootstrap admin template 2019 , 51387012957.pdf , crystal_dragonfly_shoppe.pdf , what_is_cognitive_behaviour_therapy.pdf , go math 1st grade chapter 6 , mickey's speedway usa rom , whirlpool dishwasher 582 1 manual , juegos de memoria logica v observaci , can redemption center dubuque hours , assistir ufc 246 ao vivo gratis , motorola apx 8500 ,