After learning each letter of the alphabet, children will read and write simple words. And this is done by being able to break words into sounds and mix sounds to make words. As a rule, children practice and develop these skills by reading the words CVC. CvC words are three letters that consist of consonant-vowel-consonant letter pattern. These words are easy to mix and segment, so they are the first set of words introduced for children. How to mix CVC words Make sure your child has already mastered all the letters. They should be able to identify and sound out individual letters with ease. This is very important because we want them to focus on mixing sounds rather than identifying letters by the time they encounter the words CVC. Focus on the beginning of the letter first. Make sure your child can determine the beginning of the sound. When speaking, the word is emphasized at the beginning of the sound, such as b/ /b/ /b/, bat. Ask them what letter they hear. Mix the beginning and middle sounds together. Beginners and middle letters sound slowly. Do this several times until your child hears how the two sounds are mixed. Finish it with the last consonant sound. Say a mixed beginner and medium sound, and then add the last letter sound. Do this several times until your child hears all the words, such as /ba/ /t/ /ba/ /t/ /ba/ /t/ ... Bat! Just keep training. Working on CVC print publications can also help. Just like today's free print. These free missing vowel sheets will help your child learn to identify medium sounds. And they get to practice writing letters, too. Each page comes with a picture of the word cvC and your child has to identify it and write the missing average sound. As always, these free kindergarten sheets are in PDF format, so they are easy to download and print. TERMS AND CONDITIONS: Downloading these print editions allows only one class or household to be used. You can't sell, share as your own, distribute any part of it (electronically or solidly.) Teacher's Note: Just keep going reading cvC words. Blend the letter sounds slow and repeatedly until your child hears the whole word.
