ADSL2 technology provides download speeds of up to 24Mbit/s and download speeds of up to 1.4Mbit/s. BSNL broadband can be used in two ways: If you already have a fixed connection, you can get broadband as an add-on to a landline phone. You have to pay a monthly fee for a stationary plan plus a broadband plan. Combo plan: Provides both broadband and landline in one plan. I prefer this if your main requirement is broadband. You need to buy an ADSL modem either from BSNL or from outside. The base modem is available for about Rs.1000/-. If you want a wifi connection (Wi-Fi), you need to spend more. BSNL also provides a modem on a monthly rental basis. Installation fee for stationary Rs.500/-, installation fee for broadband Rs.250/, deposit for local/STD facility Rs.500/- and one month rental plan in advance. Ex: If you opt for the BB Home Combo ULD 675 plan, the approximate starting cost will be: Rs.1500 (wireless modem) Rs.750 (installation fees LL/BB) Rs.500 (Local/STD Deposit) Rs.675 (one month advance rental plan), which is Rs.3425/-. You will need to pay a monthly plan rental and a voice call fee (if any) and a service tax (14.00% w.e.f 01-June-2015). Get a 1/3/6 month discount paying for 11/21/30 months in advance and use for 1/2/3 years. If you are an employee of the Central Government/State Government/PSU, you are entitled to a 10% discount on the rental plan and use fees.
