Here are two simple methods that tell you how to recover deleted Facebook posts easily! As we all know, Facebook Messenger is one of the most important apps on your Android to stay in touch with your loved ones. Sometimes it's an important application in the work environment and can even have important work messages. Many of us prefer to communicate through Facebook because it provides faster connectivity and easier connectivity. Messages can be decisive. So losing messages from your Facebook Messenger can be frustrating. Not only will you lose memorable messages with your loved one, but also important details of the work. With a bit of work, you can recover deleted Facebook messages on your Android phone after you back up the message. Yes, it doesn't matter if you deleted Facebook messages from the Messenger app, you can still have access to these lost messages. Read this article to see if you can restore deleted chats or facebook messages, where to search for copies of your facebook messages, and how to prevent future data loss. Content: This article should be relevant regardless of whether you get access to Facebook - from your computer via your browser, android or iOS. What does Facebook say? Unfortunately, there is no officially recommended method for restoring chats or Facebook messages that have been deleted. When a message or chat is deleted, they are removed from your account forever. To confirm this view, here's a screenshot of Facebook Facebook The central page is the answer to this question. While getting deleted Facebook data is considered impossible (at least it's official information), in this article we'll try to find a way to recover your Facebook posts and chats. Facebook MessengerIn Facebook, you only exchange messages through Facebook Messenger. It is currently available as a built-in tool in a Facebook account, a web version, a PC version, and a mobile version for Android or iOS. Each version has its own features, but all chats and messages are synchronized between apps in the user account. An article on How to Save or Restore Facebook Messenger Access and Data on Android or PC is already available in our blog. Find a copy of a deleted message or ChatOf course, you won't be able to receive a Facebook message or chat if you've already deleted it. However, Facebook Messenger has tons of features and options, it can be used on different devices, so there is always a chance that a copy of the chat or message you are interested in is still somewhere in the system. Consider possible ways to recover a copy of a chat or message: Don't be able to panic - find out if the message has actually been deleted irreversibly. Scroll up and down the chat window and look again - you may have missed out to see the message at first. The fact is that deleting a Facebook message or chat by accident is not that easy. The social network will ask you to confirm the action, and it doesn't matter if you're trying to delete a message from your smartphone or computer. Ask the recipient of a chat or message to send you a copy. If you delete a chat or message you're interested in, you can always ask the person (people) you've been communicating with to send you a copy of your message, a screenshot, or a copy of the chat. When you remove things from Messenger, they are not removed from your partner's Messenger conversation, but are stored until they decide to remove them too. So you can ask the sender or recipient of the message to send you a copy. Check the archive streams. On Facebook, you can delete or archive chats. Go to the archive streams. There is always a chance that the chat you are looking for is there. To do this: Choose an icon in the shape of the Messenger settings gear, And select Archived Threads.Remember, however, that the app archives whole chats, not just individual messages. Make sure you set up email notifications for messages. On Facebook, you can send email notifications every time you receive a message. If you've used this feature in your account, you can try looking for deleted messages or chat in an inbox connected to your Facebook account. To find out if you have an email notification option, go to the menu/Settings/Notifications/ Mail. Make sure that along with other options, options, allowed the feature to receive all notifications except those you unsubscribe from. If this option is activated, you have a good chance of finding a copy of the message in your email. By the way, you can find out the email address to which the Facebook account is connected, for a look at Settings /Common. How do I back up Facebook chats and messages? If messaging in Facebook is very important to you, or you use it for business, it would be a sensible idea to back back your chats and avoid any problems with deleting them accidentally. To do this: Use your computer to go to facebook.com log in to your account. When you log in, go to the menu/settings. Then switch to information on Facebook's Download information. You can download a copy of your Facebook data at any time. You can download all the data or specify a specific range of data or data types. You can also choose a format to download: HTML files are easier to view, and JSON files can be quickly imported to other services. Downloading your information is a secure process that is password protected and you are the only person who can access it. Once you create a file, it will be available for download for a few days. Cancel all types of data and check the field only for messages. Then click on the Create file button. After a while, check the email connected to your Facebook account to find a notification that the message backup file is ready to load. Click on the Available Files link or click on a notification in your Facebook account. Download the message backup file to your computer by clicking on the Download button. Facebook's backup file appears as an archive containing folders with all chats and files sent or received through Facebook Messenger. In your inbox, you'll see folders with the names of people you wrote or wrote to you. You'll find the chat files in these folders. Double tap message.html. The file will open in a web browser, installed on your computer, and you will be able to read chat messages. Conclusion When you delete something, it can be forever - especially when it comes to your Facebook posts. But don't be desperate. Before anything is permanently deleted, Facebook will always ask you if you really want to do it. In the menu that appears, you have to choose Delete to delete the message. Use Facebook's data archiving option to reduce the likelihood of a problem with lost chats.
